A BIG DAY IN BASE BALL.

POOR FIELDING BY THE NEW YORKS ENABLES THE CHICAGOS TO WIN.

It Was a Hard-hitting Game, in Which the Champions Did the Better Stick Work—Brooklyn Wins from Columbus—Many Other Games—News and Notes.

The games played by the National League clubs yesterday resulted as follows: Chicago 9, New York 8; Cleveland 4, Philadelphia 3; Pittsburgh 3, Washington 1; Boston 8, Indianapolis 4.

CHICAGO, 9; NEW YORK, 8.

When Capt. Anson hit the ball that put his team in the lead for the last time in yesterday's game the redness of his face grew deeper and a smile spread over it that made it look a Jacque rose on a dewy morning. Anson came pretty near verifying his prediction that he would take three out of four games from the champions. The fact that he broke even is a source of great satisfaction to him. The attendance at yesterday's game was the largest of the season; in fact, it was a regular Chicago game crowd, both in size and in the interest shown. When the spectators could spare the time from cheering the good plays they howled at the umpire and cracked good-natured jokes at Anson and Ewing. There were few fine plays during the game, and what there were fell to the lot of the visitors. The home team played a decidedly poor game in the field, nothwithstanding they hit the ball with a will. Their good batting, however, could not overcome their own field errors and the Chicago's base hits, so they lost.

It was by far the finest game that the Chicago Club has played here during the series and the club deserves credit for its fine work, notwithstanding the disappointment experienced by the 5,213 spectators. There was some surprise when it became known that Umpire Barnum had been sent on to help Umpire McQuade. The spectators would have been better pleased had he stayed away. His judgment may or may not have made some difference in the game, but the crowd showed its temper more than once at his decisions.

The New Yorks hit Krock harder than the Chicagos hit Keefe, but the same number of earned runs went to the credit of each club. The visitors were materially assisted by errors at a time when they got hits. Whitney was badly off in his work, but two of his errors were excusable, because he had his man out on two different occasions after fumbling the ball, but Umpire Barnum said that they were not out. Pfeffer had the bulk of the infield work to do for the visitors, and he did it in good form. The contest, although badly played, was a most exciting one from the start, owing to the zigzag manner in which first one club and then the other had the lead. At times the excited spectators danced about in their seats and yelled like a lot of Indians.

There was a great hum as Gore selected his bat, and when he stepped to the plate the hum burst into applause, and the applause was turned into a wild yell when Gore sent the ball into left field for one base. Tiernan caused more excitement by hitting safe to right field. Hatfield sacrificed and Connor scored Gore and Tiernan by a sharp grounder to left field that netted him one base. He went to second while the ball was being fielded in. Flint tried to prevent Connor's stealing third, but the ball wandered out into the left field grass, and Connor came home. With a lead of three runs it looked like a "cinch" for the home team. But there is no such thing as a "cinch" in a game with the Chicagos. After a pause of an inning the visitors walked right up to the plate, and when they walked away from it again, they had the lead by one run. At the opening of this inning Ryan was hit by the pitcher. This and a three-bagger by Van Haltren, a single by Duffy, a double by Anson, and a chance to force Anson at the plate on a short grounder by Burns, which Whitney threw wild while running the old man down, gave the four runs.

Evidently Krock did not like the smallness of the lead. He presented the New Yorks with a run with which to tie the score. This occurred in the fourth inning. Two men had been reached when Whitney got to first on balls, and Keefe, to the surprise of the crowd, hit safe to right field for a base. Two bases on balls followed this, and Whitney was forced home before the sides went out.

The "champs" got themselves in a pretty deep hole in the visitors' half of the fourth inning, and it was downright lucky that they got out of it as well as they did. With one out, Ryan got a base on balls, Van Haltren was hit by the ball, and Duffy got a base on a fumble by Hatfield, and a wild throw by Ward let Ryan score. A pretty double by Ward, Ewing, and Connor prevented any more runs in the inning.

In the fifth inning Ward turned a very short single hit just back of first base into a two-base hit by brilliant running, but it did no good. The tide turned in favor of the home team in the sixth, when, after two men were out, three runs were earned on singles by Gore, Tiernan, and Hatfield, and a double by Connor. Connor's hit went over the fence, but struck the framework of the old stage and bounded back. Ewing claimed that it should have been a home run, but Umpire McQuade did not see it that way. Ryan did better in the visitors' half of the sixth. When he landed the ball over the back fence it stayed there, and he scored a home run. A bad decision by Barnum gave Duffy first base on a throw by Whitney, and he scored on a hit by Anson and a fumble of the hit by Tiernan.

The score was now tied again. Ward began the seventh inning with a scratch to right, which he turned into a hit by good running. O'Rourke forced Ward at second, and Whitney hit to Bastian, and got a hit because the ball bounded over the short stop's head. A hit would now have given New York the lead again, but it did not come, and neither did the lead.

Anson came to the rescue of his team in the eighth inning. With one out Van Haltren tried to make two bases on a single and failed. Duffy got in a two-bagger, and Anson followed with a duplicate of Duffy's hit and a run came home. Anson scored on a hit by Pfeffer, and the latter went to second on the throw in. Bastian ended the inning with a fly to Gore.

The visitors had now secured a lead that could not be overcome very well, but the big crowd did not lose hope until the last man was out. In the ninth inning a fumble by Pfeffer of Ward's hit, a base on balls, a double steal, and a sacrifice by Whitney gave one run. If Keefe had hit the ball safely the score would have been tied again. He didn't, though, and the game ended with New York behind. The score:

The American Association.

Only two games were played by the American Association clubs yesterday. Brooklyn beat Columbus by 6 to 3, and St. Louis beat Kansas City by 10 to 7. Rain prevented the other games.

BROOKLYN, 6; COLUMBUS, 3.

COLUMBUS, May 25.—The Brooklyn game here to-day was played in weather that was bitter and cold. The game had proceeded as far as the last half of the second inning, with Brooklyn at the bat, when a discussion between Capt. Orr and the umpire occurred. The talk was strong, and it first resulted in the umpire fining the big captain $25. This seemed to have no beneficial effect on the captain, and a further controversy resulted in the umpire ordering Orr off the field. The cause of this was on the threat of Orr to the umpire that if he should order him off the field it would subject him (Goldsmith) to a ride out of the city on a rail. This decided Goldsmith to try an excursion by that route if Orr's threat held good, and he consequently ordered the big fellow off the field. The umpire then waited the legitimate length of time for Columbus to take the field and play the game, and that expiring, without any evident intention on the part of Columbus to do so, the game was decided in favor of Brooklyn by a score of 9 to nothing.

The Brooklyns packed their bats and left the field, as did the Columbus Club, and both got as far as the club room, when a reconciliation was had by Manager McGunnigle agreeing to finish the game if all parties would go to play, barring Orr. This was magnanimous on the part of McGunnigle, because it saved the Columbus Club from a sure fine of $1,500 for leaving the field under the circumstances.

The Brooklyns were blanked in the second by Visner reaching his first on balls and stealing second and third, where he was left by Foutz out to Orr. It was during this inning and Visner's last steal to third that the trouble which lasted twenty-three minutes, and resulted in Goldsmith sending Orr from the field, and subjecting the Columbus Club to a fine of $1,500, which, by the grace of the manager of the Brooklyns, was saved to Columbus, that the most disgraceful scene ever seen on the Columbus grounds occurred. The umpire was declared right by a dozen reputable citizens who saw the play from a magnificent standpoint and who were capable of judging.

The Brooklyns finally won by this score:

YALE, 15; HARVARD, 3.

NEW HAVEN, May 25.—The feature of the Yale Harvard game to-day was the remarkable pitching by Stagg, who held Harvard's heavy hitters down to three stray singles—one in the fifth and two in the ninth, none of which netted anything. Outside the box, Yale's brilliant features were difficult running catches by Calhoun, Poole, Dalzell, and Dalzell's double play with McBride. Yale's base running was very sharp, and they batted Downer freely after the fourth inning. For Harvard the best playing was by Henshaw, who made some very pretty throws to second, and Willard's first base play. Otherwise the Harvards made several bad breaks, making a series of fumbles and wild throws in the first, fifth, sixth, and seventh that were very costly. The score:
