VERY NEARLY $100,000 A DAY.

NEW YORK CITY'S SHARE IN THE JOHNSTOWN RELIEF MOVEMENT.

Yesterday's Contributions to the Mayor's Fund—Shoes Needed by the Survivors—An Appeal to Episcopal Churches.

Treasurer J. Edward Simmons of the Mayor's Relief Committee stated at yesterday morning's meeting that he had on hand $217,921.71 for the relief of the Conemaugh Valley sufferers. During the day he received at his office $3,042.50, and the Mayor sent $23,890.39 up to the close of banking hours, making a grand total in his hands last night of $244,254.60. This does not include the $50,000 already sent to Gov. Beaver.

The amount collected at the Mayor's office yesterday was $33,578.70, of which $9,688.31 is to be delivered to Mr. Simmons this morning. This will increase the sum in his hands to $253,942.91, or, with the $50,000 already forwarded, to a grand total of $303,942.91 received by the Mayor's committee since its organization on Monday afternoon.

It is impossible to accurately compute the exact amount contributed by the people of this city, because many private concerns have sent the money collected by them direct to the scene of the disaster, while others are believed to be holding large amounts for the contingency already provided for by the Finance Committee—that of a dropping off in the contributions and a lack of money when it is badly needed. The total amount collected on the Exchanges and from other sources positively known amounted on Thursday night to about $132,000. This total was swelled yesterday to nearly $140,000. The money still to be heard from will probably amount to $20,000, which will make a grand total of nearly $460,000, which is almost $100,000 a day, for New York's donations.

Among the big subscriptions received by the Mayor yesterday were $2,000 from William Astor; $4,456.80 from the wholesale clothing manufacturers; $3,168.85 from the fur trade, and $1,898.75 from the London Stock Exchange.

The committee organized by Mayor Grant faces new problems every day, and disposes of them like business men. The work, instead of contracting, is expanding daily, and at almost every meeting some suggestion is made, the propriety of which is so clear and the good results of which are so certain that it is a matter of wonder that it was not made at first. The appeal to the druggists for contributions of drugs and disinfectants was drawn up yesterday and submitted to Gen. Sherman for his approval. The various banks and the city will probably display in their offices placards asking for contributions.

It was reported at yesterday's meeting that 140 packages had been received by the Committee on Transportation. They contained all manner of wearing apparel, except shoes, and these are badly needed. These packages have been sent to Lock Haven and Johnstown.

Mr. John D. Crimmins would like to have the subscriptions received by individuals or business houses throughout the city sent direct to the Mayor's office, so that the Finance Committee can learn how much money it is certain of. Gen. Francis L. Pinto said that the Produce Exchange has on hand $12,000 which is held subject to the committee's order. There will be another meeting of the committee to-day. Hereafter the committee will meet at 3½ instead of 2½ o'clock.

Mr. Abe Schwab was appointed a committee to receive the contributions of clothing at Miners Theatre, 201 Bowery, to assort and repack them, and to send them to parts of Johnstown and one part to Lock Haven. A dispatch was sent to Gov. Beaver on Thursday afternoon notifying him that he was at liberty to draw on Treasurer Simmons or the committee for another $50,000, and that it was the committee's opinion that the funds should be carefully husbanded for use when the first rush of contributions was over. Gov. Beaver's reply approved of this scheme, and no further draft has been made by him upon the funds awaiting his order.

A CONFLICT OF COMMITTEES.

Treasurer Simmons received this despatch yesterday:

PITTSBURGH, Pa.

J. Edward Simmons, Treasurer Relief Fund:

We are advised by the various Exchanges of New York that you have received their contributions for relief of Johnstown sufferers for distribution last Monday. We wired then asking for funds. Pittsburgh is the only point of access to the scene of disaster, from which contributions and supplies can be forwarded. Therefore, they order and depend almost solely upon us for all supplies. We have been at enormous expense and are now almost out of funds. We must have more at once. New York has contributed most generously, but as yet not a cent reached here. Wire us at once what you can do for us. We are in urgent need of funds. We are now working 8,000 men on the grounds under pay.

THOMAS MELLON,
J. C. MOORE,
Committee of Relief Board.

Mr. Simmons replied that the Committee on Finance was forwarding money through Gov. Beaver. This despatch was sent to the Governor:

Our committee recognize the fact that you are in constant communication with committees composed of gentlemen of all known ability and standing, and rely upon you to keep us informed daily as to the kind of supplies, other than money, that will be most desirable, and also to inform us where to send them and by what route. Should you advise forwarding disinfectants? This is strongly and repeatedly urged upon our committee. We rely upon your suggestions and advice to guide us in distributing the people's generosity. We have called public attention to the fact that beds, bedding, boots and shoes are needed, and await your further suggestions.

WALTER STANTON,
Chairman Committee on Reception and Transportation.

Then came these despatches from Gov. Beaver and Mayor McCallin of Pittsburgh:

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 6.

Mayor, New York:

We urgently request you to direct the funds raised in your city for the Johnstown sufferers to be forwarded to this city for proper distribution. The operations at scene of disaster are being prosecuted and directed from here. We have now over 5,000 men at work under pay, and are furnishing and distributing the supplies ordered. We have used large sums of money and in urgent need of more funds at once to keep the work going and pay for all expenses. Our funds won't last three days, and unless replenished work must cease. There are still hundreds of bodies and carcasses in the debris. The committee consists of our most prominent responsible, competent business men. Funds can be sent to W. R. Thomson, Treasurer of Bank of Pittsburgh.

WILLIAM MCCALLIN, Mayor of Pittsburgh, Pa.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 6.

Hon. Hugh J. Grant, Mayor, New York:

I am in receipt of authority to draw upon your Treasurer for $50,000 additional. It is safe where it is, and we have no immediate necessity for it. May not be needed until next week. Will draw upon you when necessity arises and advise your Treasurer of the draft.

JAMES A. BEAVER, Governor.

W. Stanton, New York:

Your telegram in regard to supplies received. Disinfectants are much needed and should be sent by B. & O. R.R. to Johnstown. All supplies should be sent by that route for the present. Your idea in regard to portable boxes is a valuable one, and may be carried out to any extent. Coffins are not needed at present. Disinfectants should be hurried through. They are having trouble and will have more because of increasingly bad sanitary condition. A little later bedding and bed clothing, kitchen furniture and the like will be needed. It is so well I think, however, to encumber transportation lines with bulky stuff, at the character, which can be put quite as well over shorter lines from Pittsburgh. Will be glad to communicate with you at any time, and to answer any inquiries which you may wish to make. Thanks for your confidence.

JAMES A. BEAVER.

Hon. H. J. Grant:

Mindful of your suggestion of first communication in regard to raising my funds for later exigencies, I have been exceedingly careful, since, and in the estimation of many whose feelings are much involved, criminally conservative. My thought has been to have the funds contributed by our own people first exhausted, then to have all funds coming from outside the State expended under authority of a general committee which I propose to have organized at a conference between the Mayor of Philadelphia, representatives of Johnstown Committee, and myself in Philadelphia to-morrow. I am in hopes to so divide about spending other people's money, that I shall not be called on to do more than expend a dollar of the trust funds given me for such a purpose, without the authority of the distributing committee, dignity, activity and integrity would seem to demand all this. We have, I feel sure, I have been honorably with your committee and also that of Philadelphia represent the work before us great magnitude and complexity, and that it will be prolonged. Great activity, I fear, is to be avoided, it must be prolonged with the utmost vigor. If it is possible for you to give an approximate of the funds with you are likely to control, I would be glad to have your side, or if it be better go to the Philadelphia conference to-morrow.

JAMES A. BEAVER.

Mayor Grant replied:

Your efforts at no doing contribution outside of your own State, and bearing such as a sacred trust, and calling upon your fellow citizens of Philadelphia and others to organize for the same purpose, to see that proper distribution of funds where it meets with the entire approval of the Pennsylvania Committee, seems to us that there is no room for doubt as to the wisdom of giving to public and incorporated agencies. It should be the aim and work of us all to concentrate the money to a substantial use such as will most effectually help you out in this. The time will come when money can be wisely used in all sections of the country, in mechanics and workmen who will need work and tools. This was done in Chicago, with great success.

Mr. Stanton, chairman of the Finance Committee, who is charged with the distribution of the funds, meet at the Mayor's office at 10 o'clock. I would like to have Gen. Sherman and the information you give to-morrow. Please advise Mayor of Pittsburgh. The Finance Committee are working through the Committee of Relief, composed of the Mayor, Comptroller, Chamberlain and myself, every Saturday night. The Committee consists of Gen. W. T. Sherman, Chairman, Comptroller Coy, Morris A. Jesup, Chamberlain Tappen and J. C. Simmons. They are all at work in their duties and had me in my advices to you.

HUGH J. GRANT, Mayor, Chairman.

Mayor McCallin returned to the charge later with this despatch:

PITTSBURGH, Pa.

Mayor, New York:

We are at the end of our funds by Saturday night. Can't you contribute? Every dollar counts.

W. MCCALLIN, Mayor.

DISINFECTANTS.

This answer was sent out by Gen. Sherman yesterday afternoon:

Mayor Grant, New York:

At a meeting of the committee, held at the Union League Club, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

That the wholesale drug trade of the city of New York be requested to contribute drugs and disinfectants, and that an appeal be made to them through the Chairman of this committee.

In accordance therewith and in view of the serious nature of the calamity and the urgent necessities arising therefrom, I appeal to the wholesale druggists and chemical manufacturers for such contributions, requesting that they be sent to the care of Brown Brothers & Co., 57 Murray street, immediately, as these districts are sadly in want of disinfectants and quinine.

W. T. SHERMAN, Chairman.

WHAT THE CHILDREN ARE DOING.

Among the incidents that relieved the busy scene in the Mayor's office yesterday was the bashful presence early in the afternoon of Nicola Castelano, a little Italian bootblack. His box was slung over his shoulder and when he snatched his tattered cap from his head, revealing a mass of uncombed hair, and stood at rest on one foot, he was a picture. He was badly in need of clothing himself, but he disarmed all criticism by stretching out his left hand and disclosing a little pile of coin. The hand was soiled, and so was the little fellow's face, but everybody in the Mayor's office envied his proud position when it was learned that the money he held in his hand amounted to $1.15, and that it was the result of two days' work. It passed into the big basket which held the contributions and was soon lost to sight. The same basket held a great deal of coin that had been surrendered by little children. It represented in many instances several days' savings, and in woful lack of bonbons. The boys in the house of refuge expressed a desire to contribute something for the sufferers in the Conemaugh Valley. The superintendent permitted them to do so, but the total individual contribution was $1, and 308 boys made up a total of $285.22. Miss Daisy Hyde, of 33 Eighth avenue, wrote this letter to the Mayor:

Feeling great sympathy for those in distress at Johnstown, Pa., and wishing to do something toward assisting them, I am engaged in getting up an entertainment of musical and literary character, several popular artists have consented to assist, and thinking you would help me by your presence, I write to ask you to be present and preside, also take the receipts and forward them.

I am a young miss of 15 years, and do not think it appropriate to appear in the head of the company, and therefore don't feel as if I could ask people to come to see me preside.

The entertainment will be given at Lyric Hall, Sixth avenue between Forty-eight and Forty-second streets, on Monday evening, June 17.

RAISED ON THE EXCHANGES.

The Chamber of Commerce increased its fund by $5,183.50 to a grand total of $52,166.45.

The Coffee Exchange had additional subscriptions of $390, making the total $4,150.

The Real Estate Exchange increased its fund $482, making a total of $1,329.

The Board of Trade received $10 additional, swelling its fund to $2,710. Besides, $500 in clothing and comforts were received.

Fred Gordon, the florist, at Broadway and Rector street, who contributed huge banks of roses and fine flowers to the Stock and Produce Exchanges, which were rallied for a total of $175, sent another big floral emblem to the Cotton Exchange. It sold for $50.

The Consolidated Stock and Petroleum Exchange added $316 to its fund, making it $2,[illegible].

The Maritime Exchange received $901 additional, making a total of $12,143. Supt. F. W. Houghton says the collections of the Exchange have been forwarded daily.

The Mercantile Exchange collected $525, increasing its fund to $2,068.50.

AN APPEAL TO EPISCOPALIANS.

This address has been issued:

To the Clergy and People of the Dioceses of Long Island, Albany, Central New York, and New York.

DEAR BRETHREN: The disasters at Johnstown and elsewhere have told their own story. Already a noble beneficence in our own chief cities and throughout the country has nobly responded to this unprecedented call for help. We beg to commend to you the agencies already established for the relief of bodily suffering, especially those under the Presidencies of the Mayors of New York and Brooklyn.

But churches, schools, parsonages, and all means of providing for the spiritual wants of these sorrow-stricken people have also been destroyed. They should without delay be repaired and the consecrations of religion be provided for those some of whom crazed by grief are tempted with Job to curse God and die.

We beg to suggest therefore that you commend to your flock on their behalf, as we do, on petition with established organizations for ministerial succor, and that you ask from your congregations on Trinity Sunday, June 9, offerings to rebuild St. Mark's church, Johnstown, Pa., the rector, the Rev. Alonzo P. Diller, lost his life in the flood, and also to erect a suitable school house, and, if it need be an orphanage for those bereaved by this appalling calamity. And we are, dear brethren, your servants for Christ's sake,

A. N. LITTLEJOHN, Bishop of Long Island.
W. B. DOANE, Bishop of Albany.
F. D. HUNTINGTON, Bishop of Central New York.
H. C. POTTER, Bishop of New York.

A letter from the Rev. E. Walpole Warren notified the committee that the Church of Holy Trinity and the orphanage connected with the church have decided to offer a home to any orphan girl of 3 years of age and keep her until she is 15. In conclusion the letter says:

I shall hope to forward next Sunday's collection in my church toward the subscription listed by you, and regret that most of my congregation have left the city, but they have subscribed in other ways.

THE POLICE MUST NOT SELL TICKETS.

The Police Commissioners refused yesterday to break the rule by permitting the police to sell tickets for the theatrical performances to be given on next Thursday afternoon.

MISCELLANEOUS AID.

The Post Office employees increased their fund to $1,422.25.

The Master Plumbers' Association has collected $700 among the members of the local union.

The Business Women's Johnstown Relief Association has been organized by Mrs. E. A. Rushton and Miss Mary F. Seymour to collect clothing and money for the sufferers. Contributions may be sent to Mrs. Rushton, 120 Broadway.

The people of Leadville, Col., have contributed $2,000 through Mr. John J. Knox of the National Bank of the Republic.

The International Committee of the Y. M. C. A., Cleveland, Ohio, through Baltimore, has sent an appeal for contributions to 1,200 associations in the United States and Canada to start the Johnstown Y. M. C. A. afresh.

IN BROOKLYN.

At a meeting of the Brooklyn Relief Committee, yesterday, Secretary Woodward was directed to send a despatch to Gov. Beaver empowering him to draw on Mayor Chapin for $25,000. The fund in the Mayor's hands in the morning amounted to $5,502.83. It was swelled considerably during the day. Yesterday's contributions through the Police Department amounted to $4,398.63, and the total received through this instrumentality is $18,428.63.

Strong oak boxes, about fifteen inches square and firmly secured with Yale locks, hang in conspicuous places in all the Brooklyn ferry houses. There is a narrow slot in the lid, and a placard on the iron says that contributions for the relief of the sufferers in the Conemaugh valley can be deposited in the boxes and that the money will be sent to Mayor Chapin. All sorts of people, many of whom would probably deem themselves too poor to contribute in a more ostentatious manner, put money into these boxes. A party of young fellows going over the ferry a few nights ago contributed a roll of bills. Roughly dressed laboring men and women are frequent contributors of small coin, and even children drop in their pennies.

IN NEW JERSEY.

Up to 6 o'clock last night, $1,047 had been added to Jersey City's fund for the flood sufferers, making the total amount thus far subscribed $7,747.37.

In Hoboken, a dozen cases of clothing, shoes, &c., were collected and forwarded to Johnstown. The total fund collected in Hoboken is $2,375.

Telegrams from Gov. Beaver were received acknowledging the receipt of $4,000 of the money raised in Jersey City.

IN WESTCHESTER COUNTY.

Five thousand dollars has been subscribed in Yonkers, $1,000 in Sing Sing, and $2,000 in Tarrytown. At Rye Neck Joseph Park subscribed $500 and H. H. Parsons $250.

ON LONG ISLAND.

The Sunday school of the Evangelical Church of Corona has subscribed $50 for the sufferers.

RELIEF FOR THE SUFFERERS.

Money, Clothing, and Provisions Still Collecting for Them.

PHILADELPHIA, June 7.—The announcement made on Wednesday by the Citizens' Committee that the present needs of the sufferers, as far as clothing and provisions are concerned, were supplied, has no effect whatever in putting a stop to the contributions of these goods from the people. All day long there was almost a continuous line of wagons at the freight station of the Pennsylvania Railroad, all loaded with boxes, cases, and barrels, containing goods of every description for the sufferers in the interior of the State.

Before being loaded on the cars the various contributions are sorted, the provisions being placed in one car and the clothing and bedding in another, and when filled they are conveyed to Harrisburg, where they are distributed for Lock Haven, Williamsport, Johnstown, and other points. Nine car loads were sent out this morning. About sixty cars have been sent thus far.

A despatch was received last evening from Gen. Hastings saying that stoves were badly needed at Johnstown, and this morning a car was loaded with cooking stoves, contributed by dealers, and started on its journey to that place over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—This telegram was received here this evening from Johnstown:

A. S. Stevenson, Vice President Red Cross:

You have no idea of the delays and difficulties met with here. Nine tenths of the reports in the papers published are not overdrawn. Everything useful to the surviving, who have lost all, is greatly needed.

CLARA BARTON.

The additions to the relief fund yesterday included these sums:

Whitehall, N. Y., $500; Albany (total, $10,500; Interior Department, Washington, $2,200; Treasury Department, Washington, $1,000; Boston (total received by Kidder Peabody & Co.), $80,000; Kansas City, $5,000; Cincinnati, $22,000; Louisville, $16,000; Charleston, S. C., $1,100; Augusta, Ga., $1,000.

2,000 Barrels of Flour for the Sufferers.

CHICAGO, June 7.—A train load of flour numbering sixteen car loads, containing 2,000 barrels, donated by the citizens of Minneapolis for the Johnstown sufferers, left Minneapolis at 2:30 P. M. yesterday. The Chicago, St. Paul and Kansas City Railroad Company had the train free to Chicago, and it will be hauled free from there to Johnstown by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Obituary.

John W. Hamersley died at 8 o'clock last night at his residence, 225 Fifth avenue. He was seized with a congestive chill several weeks ago, and for two weeks had been confined to his bed. He was about 80 years of age. Mr. Hamersley was a brother of Andrew Gordon Hamersley, whose son, Louis C. Hamersley, was the first husband of the present Duchess of Marlborough. He was a member of the bar, but had not practised his profession for many years. He had been a member of the Union club for fifty years, and was one of its original promoters. He belonged also to the Century Club, the New York Historical Society, and the St. Nicholas Society. Mr. Hamersley was a widower. His wife was a Miss Hooker of Poughkeepsie. He leaves three children—J. Hooker Hamersley, Mrs. Cortlandt de Peyster Field, and Miss Helen R. Hamersley. Mr. Hamersley had taken passage on the Elder to sail on June 11 to Europe for his health. The funeral will be on Tuesday at 11 o'clock at Grace Church, and the interment will be in the family vault in Trinity churchyard.

Prof. J. R. Wolf, editor and proprietor of the Shippensburg (Pa.) Chronicle, died yesterday, aged 59 years. He graduated at Yale College in 1851. He was elected member of the Board of Faculty of the Pennsylvania State Normal School.

Mrs. Charles F. Adams, widow of the late Hon. C. F. Adams and mother of the Hon. Charles Francis Adams and Charles Adams, President of the Union Pacific Railway Company, died in Quincy on Thursday night, aged 81 years. Besides those mentioned, three children survive her, Brooks and Henry Adams and Mrs. Dr. Henry P. Quincy.

Pennsylvania Railroad Through Trains.

The Pennsylvania Railroad yesterday adopted this system of connections for through trains until the damages by the flood on the main line are repaired. The fast line from New York at 9 A. M. and the Pacific express at 11 P. M., from here, running through at present to Lewiston or Sunbury, will also connect with Lock Haven. At Lock Haven they will connect for Huntingdon and Altoona via the Bald Eagle Valley Railroad and Tyrone, and both these trains will connect by ferry with Williamsport. The Pacific express will carry a sleeping car to Sunbury and a through sleeper from there to Memphis by the Shenandoah valley route. Through train service to Washington and the south has been resumed.

Followed an Organ Grinder and Frightened His Parents.

Five-year-old Frank Boyle disappeared from his home at 1,935 Bergen street, Brooklyn, on Thursday, and nothing was heard of him until last evening, when his parents were notified that he was in the care of the police at Jamaica, L. I. The message said that the boy had followed an organ grinder all the way from Brooklyn to Jamaica.

THROUGH TRAVEL RESUMED.

THE PENNSYLVANIA ROAD PATCHES UP A ROUTE TO PITTSBURGH.

It will be Some Days Yet Before Trains Run Through on the Main Line—Clearing Away the Debris in Many of the Flooded Cities—Every Bridge Swept Away Along 112 Miles of the Juniata—Terrible Loss of Life on Fishing Creek.

PHILADELPHIA, June 7.—The Pennsylvania Railroad is at last able to announce the running of through passenger trains from New York, via Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Lock Haven, and the Allegheny Valley Railroad to Pittsburgh. Trains will leave the main line at Harrisburg and proceed on the Northern Central branch to Sunbury. At that place they will be taken across the river in a steam ferryboat and thence the all-rail route will be by way of Lock Haven, Renovo and Driftwood. At the latter place the Allegheny Valley Railroad tracks will be taken and thence to Pittsburgh.

It will be necessary to use this route for at least four days yet, the work of repairing the bridges between Lewistown and Altoona on the middle division, and the breaks west of Altoona, being carried on as rapidly as is consistent with perfect safety. The Montgomery bridge, it is expected, will be finished to-morrow, and the transfer of passengers by ferry will be done away with, the trains running direct to Pittsburgh over the bridge.

Eighteen west-bound passengers started from Altoona this morning. As far as the railroad agent at Altoona is aware, this closes up the west-bound movement of passengers who were laid up Altoona. There are a few passengers still at Altoona who cannot stand the journey, and who will therefore remain at that place for the present. The names of the eighteen who left this morning are:

Mrs. De B. Keim, Reading, Pa.; Mrs. Nelson Bowman, Brownsville, Pa.; Miss A. C. Bowen, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. F. W. Fleming, Franklin, Pa.; Wm. Herrmann, Philadelphia; George Meyers, Mountville, Pa.; Mrs. Wm. Cromnies and Mrs. Samuel Culp, Carlisle, Pa.; Miss K. C. Washington, Philadelphia; Adam Neff and Ellen Neff, Springfield, Ohio; J. M. Darnell and two daughters, Memphis, Tenn.; S. S. Jackson and wife, Brookville, Pa.; O. M. Petri and wife, Washington, D. C.

WILLIAMSPORT, June 7.—Offers of assistance continue to come in. The supply of clothing here is exhausted. Supplies, however, are on the way. There is a pressing demand for such contributions. The cash contributions from outside places to date amount to $3,[illegible].

Contributions of provisions, &c., have come from all directions. Several car loads on the way here have been, by directions of the Mayor, run to Lock Haven, Crescent, and Cogan valley, where they could reach each of that this place, and the need there being fully as great as here.

MILTON, Pa., June 7.—Citizens of Milton are now struggling with the mud, slime, and debris left by the flood. A board of relief and sanitation has been appointed. The town will be divided into four districts, with a physician and a layman in each, to look after the proper cleansing of cellars, houses, cesspools, and stagnant places.

BALTIMORE, June 7.—It is estimated that three-fourths of the 200,000,000 feet of timber which floated away from Williamsport, Pa., is floating around the Chesapeake, or lying on its shores. The Stray Log Committee, from the Lumber Exchange of that city, are now here surveying the situation. It is probable they will select several miles on the shores of the bay to work up the stray logs, most of which belong to owners in Baltimore.

One of the heaviest losers by the Williamsport flood is Henry James, the lumber dealer of Baltimore. It is estimated that 15,000,000 feet of his timber floated away, a part of which will be recovered, without doubt, in the bay. Mr. James, who, some 7 years ago, built the bridge having been completed, through train service by the Piedmont Air Line has been resumed to all points south and west.

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., June 7.—Lock Haven is trying heroically to recover from the effects of the flood, but will need outside aid. This is the report we received on arriving in the entire relief committee from Philadelphia, Scranton, and Bellefonte arrived to-day, and immediately telegraphed for additional supplies. The town is still covered with mud two feet thick and huge piles of wreckage. Every cellar is flooded with dirty, slimy water, thick with decayed vegetable matter. The Mayor and Board of Health are working strenuously to clean up and prevent an epidemic.

An appeal for money and disinfectants was sent out to-day. This city was shut in from the outside world until yesterday afternoon. Three car loads of provisions arrived at noon to-day and were immediately distributed to over two hundred of the most needy families. Judge Mayer informs me that there will be about 500 families in the city that will have to be provided with the necessaries of life.

A visit to Renovo found that town in comparatively good condition. The flood did not reach the business portion of the town and the poorer families have work. A car load of provisions arrived yesterday and was distributed to the needy. The Salvation Army sent wagons to-day to Lock Haven, which were stuffed with food for the destitute of that place. This is the town that suffered the greatest loss of life in the West Branch valley.

Williamsport is well supplied at present. The relief committee have relieved several hundred towns are working nobly, and, with the following in as railroad communication is restored, the sufferers will be provided for, at least as far as their immediate wants are concerned. The reports as to the loss of life and destitute conditions of some of the places have been very much exaggerated. The loss is appalling and want in very many places, but it is not as bad as depicted. Lock Haven, in proportion to its population, is the greatest sufferer, and the one thing needed in all the lately submerged towns is disinfectants.

The bridge over the Susquehanna at Keating, 400 feet long, was completed to-day. This opens up the road to Erie and Pittsburgh, via the Allegheny valley. Men are still working night and day at the Montgomery bridge. Trains are expected to go over it the first of the week. Passengers are transferring passengers by boats at Sunbury, but all trains are late.

The saddest results of the flood came to light to-day. Three persons, two women and one man, at Lock Haven have become insane. Two women have been committed to the Danville asylum. The man is still in charge of his relatives, but there is little hope of his recovery.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., June 7.—The flood of last Friday night and Saturday played terrible havoc in Centre county. The loss of life and damage to property, Bellefonte itself suffered little, being built on hills. Along the Bald Eagle valley the destruction was great, but happily there was no loss of life. The furnace at Curtin was so badly damaged that it had to be blown out. The entire bottom land with all the spring crops for 60 miles in the lower end of Bald Eagle valley was destroyed. All county, township, and railroad bridges from Milesburg to Lock Haven are washed away, and nearly all small buildings in the line of the flood encountered to it. The damage in the Bald Eagle valley will amount to $750,000. In Penn's Valley there were loss of life and many miraculous escapes. The breaking of the mill dams all along the courses of the streams made it worse. All along this valley all the saw and grist mills were carried away. The valley being narrow made the water deep and gave it great force. The flood occurring at midnight caught most of the people unprepared. At Millheim and Coburn several houses were carried away with the people in them, but all escaped with their lives, except Mrs. Simon Pheust and three children. Their house was overturned, and all were drowned. Her husband, who had worked in Cameron county, and hearing that there was trouble, started to come home, but he also was drowned in crossing the river at Sinnemahoning. The damage in this part of the county will also amount to nearly $750,000.

The great loss of life occurred on Fishing Creek. It rises in the Nittany valley, ten miles above Bellefonte, and flows into the Bald Eagle near Milesburg. The valley is narr
