HOTEL MEN SAY NEW YORK.

THEY WANT A WORLD'S FAIR HELD HERE IN 1892

Formal Action will be Taken at their National Convention Soon—Secretary Harrison Talks Sense About the Project.

Hotel men from all over the country open their National Hotel Convention in Buffalo today. It is probable that they will pass resolutions favoring the holding of an International Exposition in New York in 1892 and appointing a committee to represent the hotel men. The hotel men recognize what a benefit it is to them to have travelling throughout the country and to have visitors from other countries come here. They see how the hotels of Paris are making money out of the Paris Exposition, and how many thousands of people who otherwise would be travelling in this country during the summer are spending their money in Paris. The hotel men do not think that the benefit of an Exposition in New York would be confined to New York and the surrounding cities, but that its effect would be felt all over the country. People who come from Europe seldom stop at New York and go back, but when they have got as far as New York make excursions into the country. European visitors go to Florida, which is well known in England as a winter resort, to the Niagara Falls, the Yosemite valley, and on other tours through the country. The hotels would profit by this travelling. It is calculated that seventy thousand Americans will be in Paris this year. If half as many foreigners come to this country, the gain to the hotels and railroads would be represented in millions of dollars.

Mr. B. A. Harrison, editor of the Hotel Register, has been attending to the correspondence preliminary to the hotel men's Convention. He believes that the hotel men from all over the country will favor the holding of the Exposition in New York, as neither Washington nor Chicago would draw the crowds which New York would, and it is for the interest of the hotel men of the country to have the Exposition in the city where the largest attendance would be.

"I am heartily in favor of holding an international exposition in New York in 1892," said Mr. Harrison, "and I think that every hotel man in the country is in favor of it. The subject will be brought up at our Convention in Buffalo next week, and a resolution will be offered favoring New York as the best place for the Exposition, and a committee will be appointed to look in behalf of the hotel men.

"No other city can compare with New York in the number, size, and accommodations of its hotels. There is some talk of having the Exposition in Washington, but Washington could not accommodate more than one-tenth the visitors that New York could. Washington has but sixty-two hotels of any kind; New York has over 200, of these Washington hotels there are only twelve of them or any one of the new hotels in New York. There would be no place to keep the people if they went to Washington.

"Chicago also falls away behind New York in the matter of hotel accommodations. Chicago has 158 hotels, but some of these are really saloons and emigrant lodging houses. There are not over twenty-five hotels in Chicago that are a credit to anything. These hotels could not accommodate a fraction of the people who would come. The hotel men would not get much benefit from holding an exposition in either of those places as there are not the large hotels there that there are in New York, and the people could not be accommodated. New hotels and lodging houses would come into existence to hold the crowd, and after the exposition was over there would not be enough business for the hotels. An exposition in Washington would benefit the hotels there only temporarily, and it might do them injury in the end.

"New York has over 200 hotels, and of these sixty-eight are first-class. These first-class hotels can hold more people than all the hotels of whatever kind of Chicago and Washington put together. Besides the big first-class hotels in New York there are many others of all kinds and for all kinds of people. Every one could be accommodated who would come.

"The owners and managers of the big hotels in Florida are in favor of an international exposition in New York. Mr. O. Z. Seavey, manager of the Ponce de Leon Hotel, believes that an Exposition in New York would increase the profits of his hotel. He thinks and so do I, that the exposition would attract many visitors from Europe who would travel around through the country and increase the profits of hotels everywhere. An exposition in Washington or Chicago would not have the power to attract foreign visitors which an exposition in New York would have. The visitors to an exposition in New York would travel all over the country. Both Washington and Chicago are inland cities, and have no foreign lines of steamers running to them, and it would be harder or force foreigners to reach them. The number of foreigners who would come to an exposition in either of these places would be much smaller than in New York.

"All the New York hotel men are in favor of having the Exposition here. They would contribute to it. They would take white or part was expected of them in the organization and raising of a guarantee fund, and do their utmost personally to make the Exposition a success, and get as many people here as will come. The movement of people from one city to another city even too rapidly is a profitable thing for the hotel keepers. The railroads profit by it also. The lower the railroads make their rates the more people there are who travel and so the more railroad rate tends directly to the benefit of the hotel keepers. If the Exposition is held in New York, both the railroads and the steamship lines should make low rates. All the steamship lines between here and Europe should make an excursion rate to the Exposition, and then people will come over. If the Exposition is started in the spring the European steamers could get loads of passengers from Europe to this country at a time of year when passenger travel is dull, and the other way round the steamboats could come from Europe in April or May. In the fall, when the tide of American travel is returning from Europe, the tide of European travel from the Exposition would be going back to Europe. It would be an object for the steamship lines to make low rates so that they could be filled both ways. It would be much different from what it is during the Paris Exposition. Americans who go to the Paris Exposition generally about the regular time that the summer tourists go to Europe and they return at the time that the summer tourists usually return. In neither case have the steamship lines large return passenger loads. They have to make their trips both to and from Europe and make their profit from the passengers one way and the freight. If the Exposition were held in New York it would be to bring passengers from Europe to America, and so give the steamship lines profits where they now at times run at a loss.

"Low railroad and steamship rates will do much to make the Exposition a success. I can assure you, in behalf of the hotel men, that nothing in their power will be left undone."

She Is Married Hard and Fast.

Judge Ingraham, in Supreme Court, Special Term, yesterday, refused to annul the marriage of Fanny F. Cossell to Henry B. Maurer, performed in New York, the young woman became Maurer's wife without her parents' consent and lived with him a short time. Upon her return home her father, G. Bushee Cossell, began suit in the Supreme Court for annulment on the ground that she was not of marriageable age, having been under the age of the ceremony. But the law raising the age of consent from 14 to 16 years was not passed until 1887.

Half an Hour More for the Farmers.

The Aldermen yesterday amended the corporation ordinances so as permit farmers and market gardeners to occupy with their wagons the streets adjacent to public markets for the sale of their own goods and produce for an hour and a half longer in the morning. The time has previously been 7 A.M.
