CLEVELAND (N. L.), 11; NEW YORK (N. L.), 7—FIRST GAME.

CLEVELAND, July 4.—A good lively exhibition of sacrifice hitting won to-day's first game between Cleveland and New York. It so happened that two of the attempted sacrifices turned out good base hits, the runner beating the ball to first, but the principle of winning by timely sacrifices held good just the same. The rain fell in barrels just before time to call the game, and the chances of its being played looked at one time exceedingly dubious. By sponging and bailing out the holes and a liberal addition of sawdust, the diamond was placed in a tolerably fair condition, and Umpire McQuaid called "play" about three-quarters of an hour behind time. It was impossible to make perfect plays. The men slipped in the mud, and the ball was as ugly to handle as though it had been greased. The score:

NEW YORK (N. L.), 3; CLEVELAND (N. L.), 2—SECOND GAME.

CLEVELAND, July 4.—The hardest game that the Cleveland League Club has lost this season, and it has lost some pretty tough ones, was won by New York this afternoon. It was the prettiest game played on the grounds this year, and all that was needed to make it a howling success was for the home club to win it. Wadsworth was in the box for Cleveland, and excelled all his previous efforts by big odds. He had great speed and fine control of the ball, and kept the New Yorks down to three scattering hits in ten innings. Up to the ninth inning but one hit had been made by the New Yorks. The score:

PITTSBURGH, July 4.—The glorious Fourth began business at Recreation Park to-day at 10 o'clock in the presence of 1,000 persons. The entire crowd were League rooters, and they did it to perfection. The game proved a veritable slugging match, and with the assistance of some very bad errors Brooklyn called the turn. Pittsburgh took the stick end at the opening. The score:

CHICAGO (P. L.), 3; NEW YORK (P. L.), 1—FIRST GAME.

CHICAGO, July 4.—The Chicagos headed off the morning game during the first three innings and drove it into their corral. To King, the fair-headed twister, is due the chief credit for the victory. He served all the New Yorks a few bunches of curves without much powder, and they succeeded in making only four of them go off. Farrell, Duffy, and Ryan did some high sky climbing, and pulled down some very dangerous-looking skyrockets. Crane, the conjurer of New Yorker, had also hypnotized the powder in his curves. The Chicago people were able to send up six of them without any sort of safety. It was a beautiful game of ball to watch. Many a hot shot was met with clever fielding and turned to the disadvantage of the side that had fired it. The score:

CHICAGO (P. L.), 4; NEW YORK (P. L.), 2—SECOND GAME.

CHICAGO, July 4.—Buck Ewing and the rest of the New Yorks were downed again in the second game, but not without a struggle that kept the great crowd howling. The two teams were the same as in this morning's game with the exception of the pitchers. Baldwin going into the box for the Chicagos and Peep O'Day for the visitors. It was pretty much a pitchers' battle up to the ninth inning. The Chicagos failed to hit O'Day's curves, but served up fireworks till the last, when they looked better and counted for more. Nine drives were secured off each pitcher's curves, but among the Chicagos' hits were four two-bagers. On account of the crowd which circled so closely about the field it was difficult for the game that no hit inside the ground could count for more than two bases. The score:

BROOKLYN (P. L.), 5; PITTSBURGH (P. L.), 4—FIRST GAME.

PITTSBURGH, July 4.—John Ward's Brooklyn team was evidently an object of curiosity in Pittsburgh, as shown by the showing at the Players' League Park. Just 1,245 persons were present at the morning game, not counting free admissions. Ward and his hustlers reciprocated by putting up a great game of base ball. Although they were not successful at the beginning of the game, nevertheless they fought bravely, and finally won by Catcher Quinn making errors which were responsible for two runs. On nearly every other point the playing was clean, and all the local team's runs were earned. The score:

PITTSBURGH (P. L.), 9; BROOKLYN (P. L.), 5—SECOND GAME.

PITTSBURGH, July 4.—If it had not been for the hovering clouds and downpouring rain there would have been at least 10,000 persons at Exposition Park to witness the second game. As it was, nearly half that number braved the elements, and the game was commenced at about forty minutes after the announced time on grounds considerably the worse for the weather. The Pittsburgh players made fewer hits than their opponents, but hit hard when they did find the ball, Beckley hitting a triple and two doubles. The score:
