LAWYER THOMPSON'S DESPONDENCY.

His Son Does Not Understand What He Means by "Financial Difficulties."

Henry C. Thompson, the man who shot himself in the Pennsylvania Railroad depot in Jersey City on Friday night, is a Philadelphia lawyer. His office is at 1,001 Chestnut street. He is reputed to be wealthy. His home is in Beverly, N. J. He is married, and he has five grown children. He recovered consciousness several hours after his attempted suicide and told Warden Osborn of the City Hospital he was sorry he had not killed himself, as he was in serious financial difficulties. He had several obligations to meet on Friday, and it was impossible to meet them. He told the Warden other things, but they were in the nature of a confidential communication, and the Warden refused to divulge them. Yesterday morning the lawyer's eldest son, Henry Thompson, Jr., who is also a Philadelphia lawyer, read in THE SUN the story of the attempted suicide. It was the first news he had of the affair, and he took the first train to Jersey City. His father was conscious, and he talked with him. When a SUN reporter saw the son at the hospital later he said he could not account for his father's act. It might have been due to temporary insanity, the result of overwork.

"Father has been working very hard lately," he said, "and he has had little rest. We hadn't noticed anything strange in his conduct until two or three days ago, when he appeared to be very irritable and forgetful. He left home on Thursday morning to come to New York to transact some business. He was evidently on his way home when he shot himself."

The young man added that he did not know what his father meant by saying he was in financial difficulties. He had not asked him anything about the reason for his act, he said, and would not until he got better. He did not believe that money had anything to do with it, but if it had his father's estate was abundantly able to settle any possible financial trouble. His father, he said, had a very large practice, but the only trust funds he held were for one or two small estates for which he was executor. He had no idea there was any trouble about those. The house physician who is attending the attempted suicide probed for the bullet yesterday and found it. It had penetrated the head near the right temple ¾ of an inch and then glanced. It was found about 2½ inches from where it entered. Unless blood poisoning sets in he will recover.

There were two witnesses to Mr. Thompson's attempt to kill himself. They were Charles Milton and an engineer who was on an engine in the depot. Milton said yesterday that he saw the man about fifteen minutes before the shooting. He walked up and down on the end of the platform and kept his head bowed down. Suddenly he drew the pistol, fired two shots, and fell.

Say they Paid for the Employment they Didn't Get.

Dr. J. J. Lepper of 282 East Broadway was a prisoner at the Tombs Police Court yesterday charged with extorting money from John Romaine of 614½ Mulberry street and Vincent Viganis of 76 Mulberry street. Romaine says that Lepper assured him that he could get him a job as conductor on the Third Avenue Railroad, and on this assurance Romaine agreed to pay Lepper $94. Viganis says he paid Lepper $25 to secure employment for him in the Street Cleaning Department. Neither got work.

Dr. Lepper, who is a member of a sick visiting corps, while passing through Mulberry street on Friday evening, was pointed out to an officer and arrested. Justice Patterson held him for further examination.
