NEW YORK (N. L.), 12; CINCINNATI (N. L.), 8.

Harrington of the Cincinnatis had the hair on his head shaved off before yesterday's game, and Foreman vowed after the game that it was that hair cut which Jenahed him. In Monday's game he held the New Yorks down to 8 hits, but one of which resulted in doing good. Yesterday the New Yorks fell on to him with a vengeance, knocking the ball all around the lot. The features were a double play in which Glasscock made a phenomenal one-handed pick-up, and Hornung's completion of it by saving Bassett a wild throw, catches by Glasscock, Clarke, Buckley, and Reilly; Bassett's quick handling of a ground hit in time to cut off a run at the plate, and Buckley's clever trick in attempting to steal second base so that Glasscock scored. Buckley also reaching second, Henry accomplished a feat that is seldom done. It was to score from second base on Harrison's sacrifice. Met here to Reilly, reaching the plate almost by the time Reilly caught the ball. The score:

BROOKLYN (N. L.), 7; CHICAGO (N. L.), 2.

Hutchinson being Chicago's winning pitcher, Anson decided to put him against the Brooklyn National Leagueo Club, at Washington Park, again yesterday afternoon, to repeat his successful work of the day previous. He did not succeed quite as well, not that the home team pounded him all over the lot, but they got in enough hits in the third and fourth inning to score seven runs, of which five were earned. After that he regained his usual form, and no more runs were scored. The Chicagos faced Lovett and they were lucky in escaping a shutout. The latter had his usual easy style in fooling Anson's players, and he accomplished what some say is quite a feat in the game of batting. It was nothing more, however, than to strike Anson out. Corkhill took his place again in the field, but he could not throw. The score:

NEW YORK (P. L.), 8; CLEVELAND (P. L.), 5.

Gruber was just the New York team's size at Brotherhood Park yesterday. It was about the cleanest stretch of batting that has been displayed on those grounds for some time. Gruber opened out with a rattling two-bagger on the second ball pitched. Then Connor planted a ball, which rolled to the centre-field fence, for a home run. O'Rourke still kept the good work up with a two-bagger to left and Slattery followed with a stout single. In all four hits, with a total of nine, were made. This was an auspicious beginning for the home team. When they added two additional runs in the third inning on four hits, including a three-bagger to the right-field fence, it had the appearance of a walkover for the New Yorks. In the subsequent innings, however, Gruber was much more effective, although in the eighth inning three successive singles were made after two men were out. Connor's batting was the leading feature of the game. O'Rourke, Richardson, and Shannon also hit the Clevelander hard. The latter not only batted well, but played an unusually neat game at second. BROOKLYN (P. L.), 15; PITTSBURGH (P. L.), 8.

The last game of the series between the Brooklyn and the Pittsburgh clubs was played on the Eastern Park grounds yesterday. It was of the dull and uninteresting kind, and resulted in a walkover for Ward's men. The Pittsburghs put up an article of ball that amateurs would be ashamed of. Errors were plentiful, and it appeared as if there would be no end to the muffing, fumbling, and wild throwing. Besides putting up a wretched fielding game they were lamentably weak with the stick. For six innings Weyhing occupied the box for Brooklyn, and in that time they only made two hits. The Brooklyns in the mean time pounded Mall all over the field, and when they had secured a winning lead Ward took Weyhing out and put Hemming, his new pitcher, in. The score:
