CINCINNATI (N. L.), 7; NEW YORK (N. L.), 5.

CINCINNATI, July 24.—When the Reds faced the music in the eighth inning this afternoon the score was a tie. When the batting matinée ended they were three runs ahead. A base on balls to Holliday prefaced the music. Then Reilly hit for a triple and Knight made a double. Three singles in succession did the rest of the business, and the game was won. Bassett and Burkett began the ninth bravely enough, but the best the rest could do was to make sacrifices enough to insure Bassett's tally. Rhines had two strikes on Tiernan, when he floated up a slow one. The great sprinter did not move, and he walked to first with a strawberry mark on his arm. Reilly contributed too early rose errors. A muff and a wild throw and Michael reached third. Bassett smashed the ball into right for two bases and Tiernan scored. Burkett then made himself a home with a curve ball that sailed far over Holliday's head. Burkett did not quite eclipse "Mercury's" record in sprinting around the bases, but he went pretty fast. The Rug received the ball and threw to Beard, and the jig was up. The score:

BROOKLYN (N. L.), 8; CHICAGO (N. L.), 4.

CHICAGO, July 24.—Only a moderate crowd witnessed the first series of games to-day between the Brooklyn and Chicago (N. L.) clubs. The former played a rattling game from start to finish and while the locals are credited with the greatest number of hits, the Brooklyns collected theirs at the right time and earned all their runs. It was anybody's game up to the end of the eighth inning, when the Brooklyns had another batting streak, and the inning yielded them three runs. There were numerous instances of pretty fielding exhibited by both teams. Cooney's display at short was as fine as has ever been exhibited on these grounds. Glenalvin and Burns covered their respective territory like in clover style, while Wilmot made a couple of good catches at center field.

For the Brooklyns Caruthers pitched something in his old-time style, and he was finely supported by everybody. The only fielding error credited to the visitors was a fumble by Smith. Otherwise, their display may be called a perfect one. The score:

BUFFALO, July 24.—This was a close game to-day so far as the box went, for Ward's Brooklyn team captured the game with only two clean hits off Buffalo's pitcher, Haddock. The Buffalo players secured five hits, but they were at off times, and Hoy scored the only Buffalo run in the third inning on Joyce's fumble and hits by Mack and Wise. He had another chance to score in the eighth inning after making a two-base hit and getting third on an error, but was caught on a foul play. Sowders scored for Brooklyn in the third on Haddock's wild throw, which went to the bleachers, and Ward's single. Bauer made the winning run in the fifth on a two bagger, Andrews's scratch single, and Mack's low throw to second to catch Andrews. Bauer put up a pretty game at second base. Rain fell during the game and came down in torrents just at the finish. The score:

PITTSBURGH, July 24.—The Players' League Club in this city has been flying the flag of distress since its return from the late Eastern tour. When the club was organized it was as a stock company. Then it was changed to a limited copartnership. At a special and very sudden meeting at W. P. Potter's office to-day a committee was appointed to settle up the business of the club as a limited partnership, as a charter had been received placing the club upon the basis of a stock company again so that an assessment can be made on every share of the stock.

One of the stockholders told THE SUN correspondent that Secretary John Teuer, in his call for the meeting, said it was imperative that every stockholder should be present. He stated that something would have to be done to tide over the crisis, as the average receipts during the Eastern tour were only ten per game. This, however, Manager Harry Davis denies. He states that he sent President McCallum $1,000 as part of the proceeds of the last trip. According to the figures given to the press there were 2,667 persons at Philadelphia, 4,000 at Boston, 990 at Brooklyn, and 3,711 at New York, making a total of 8,707 admissions at 50 cents and 2,987 at 25 cents. This would amount to $5,025. The local team's percentage would be $2,512.13. To be added to this is the amount taken in at the grand stand. If Hanlon sent home $1,000 this would leave $1,776 for running expenses for two weeks, or $126 a day.

A number of the shareholders claimed that they were opposed to changing the club into a stock company again, and would not pay any assessment if imposed. It is thought, however, that the stock of the disgruntled ones can easily be bought in.

The Atlantic Association Week.

A gentleman connected with one of the Atlantic Association clubs said yesterday that the organization will have a lucky existence indeed if it lasts throughout the season. "There is not a club but New Haven that has made anywhere near expenses," said he, "and here is only half the season gone. Newark can't pay without Sunday games, and the instant the games are stopped on that day, good-by Newark. Harrisburg was a good city in the Inter-State League, but it is a question whether the city can hold its end up in a playing sense. With New Haven, Worcester, Newark, or Baltimore Worcester is certainly fast creeping along. It has always been a good city for base ball, and if it stays in the ring till the end, it is because there is a prospect of better times next year.

"New Haven is unquestionably the best city in the Association. Burnham is a cute manager, and I have no doubt but that he is laying plans to enter a larger organization. Probably the American Association. There could be no mistake made by the Association in admitting New Haven. Hartford is in an odd state. Lely soon had been advised to purchase the franchise of Hartford, since it failed to get Worcester, and it is quite likely that Lelamon will see an Atlantic Association club by Saturday. It is a week's notice fact that Washington has been saving money as well as Baltimore and Wilmington. One thing I think is about fatal to Inter-State Association interest in the Association has excited considerable suspicion among the clubs of the several clubs. It is believed that if an opportunity presented itself he would leave the Association at once. The Baltimore Club, this year particularly, has lost plenty of money, and Barnie is not in the mood to keep his team in the field for fun. Altogether, the outlook for the Association is not very favorable."

QUITE AN UNHAPPY FAMILY.

Charges and Counter Charges Against Amateur Ball Players.

The two prominent Staten Island clubs, members of the Amateur Athletic Base Ball League, are not living in that happy unity that would be expected of two such closely allied organizations. Two events have occurred of late that will not only have a tendency to develop a bitter feeling within the
