SEA CAPTAINS OF THE MARINE SOCIETY WRANGLE OVER ELECTION.

Gov. Trask's Management of Sailors' Snug Harbor Again the Subject of Dissension—Ballots were Cast, but it Isn't Certain that Anyone was Elected.

Eighty-four white-haired sea Captains wrestled as hard with the art of oratory and the science of elections yesterday afternoon as they had ever fought with gale or tide. It was at the annual election of the Marine Society, in the directors' room at the Maritime Exchange, and the cause of dissension was the question who should sit on the Board of Trustees of the Sailors' Snug Harbor. The President and First Vice-President of the Marine Society are ex-officio members of the Board.

Last year Capt. Ambrose Snow was deposed from the Presidency of the Marine Society and Capt. James Parker was elected in his stead. Capt. G. D. S. Trask, the Governor at Sailors' Snug Harbor, was charged with bad management, and failed to be reelected Treasurer of the society.

Yesterday's storm began when Capt. Parker started in to read his report. He attacked the quantity and quality of the food served at Sailors' Snug Harbor, which, he said, has a plenty of money, and yet "has been administered as though it were a cross between a poorhouse and a penitentiary."

"A Snug Harbor," the President said, "is not a place where the old weather-beaten craft lies, with three anchors ahead, jumping bows under at every sea, surrounded by rocks and shoals, while the Captain and mates belabor the crew with belaying pins and hand-spikes; but a place wherein she lies quietly at anchor, with sails furled and running gear coiled down, with her crew at rest and utterly unaffected by the storms that blow outside. This our 'Snug Harbor' should be. This it has not been, and is not yet."

Capt. Parker was interrupted, but a vote was taken and he was allowed to continue. Capt. Snow was next with a roll of manuscript, from which he read a eulogy of Capt. Trask. Half a dozen tried to talk at once when he had finished, and Capt. William Urquhart managed to say that Trask was cowardly and had treated his charges in a tyrannical manner. Capt. Trask then told Capt. Parker that he had insulted the Board of Trustees by his remarks.

Two tickets, one headed by Capt. Snow and the other by Capt. Parker, were put into the field. Capt. George W. Brown and Capt. Trask acted as tellers. They announced the entire number of ballots cast as 84. For President, Capt. Snow had 42, Capt. Parker 40, Capt. Hinton 1, and one ballot was blank.

For a minute all were silent, and then another hubbub arose. Capt. Parker denied that Capt. Snow had been elected, declaring that under the society's charter a President to be elected must receive the votes of a majority of those voting. Capt. Hinton, the temporary chairman, said he would refer the matter for decision to the society's counsel, W. A. Butler. Capt. Merritt crowded to the front and roared out: "If you're going to act as an honest man—"

"Captain, you're out of order," said Chairman Hinton. Then he added loudly: "I assume the responsibility of this election and declare Capt. Snow elected by a majority of two."

"That isn't so," said some one quickly, "it's only one."

Then as Capt. Parker refused to swear in Capt. Snow as President Capt. Hinton performed that duty. It was resolved to put the election returns, sealed, in the hands of the Treasurer, Capt. James H. Chamberlain. The Treasurer says he will give them to Counsel Butler to-day. Both Capt. Parker and Capt. Snow say they will abide by any decision the counsel may make.

The officers whose election is not contested are these: First Vice-President, Capt. Francis A. Martin; Second Vice-President, Capt. B. F. Marsh; Treasurer, Capt. J. H. Chamberlain; Secretary, Capt. T. M. Nichols; Counsel, W. A. Butler. All were on the Snow ticket except Capt Nichols, Capt. Marsh and Chamberlain were on both tickets.

ASKING CONGRESS TO QUIT.

The Chamber of Commerce on Free Coinage and Interconvertible Bonds.

A meagrely attended special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce discussed yesterday two reports handed in by the Finance Committee. George S. Coe, John Jay Knox, and John Harsen Rhoades reported against the advisability of converting $800,000,000 of Government 4 per cents into 2 per cent. bonds interconvertible with Treasury notes and a legal tender. The three committemen can see in the proposed measure only a new element of danger, and they unanimously believe that the benefit expected by Secretary Windom from it could never be secured.

The majority of the committee also reported adversely on Senator Plumb's free coinage amendment. They believe that free coinage of silver in the absence of an international agreement upon the subject is fraught with peril to the financial interests of the country, and that further financial legislation by Congress is not at present demanded. They believe that an adjournment of Congress without further action upon the subject of currency would impart to the whole nation a grateful sense of immeasurable relief.

William P. St. John handed in a minority report on the silver proposition. Both majority reports were adopted with this resolution:

"It is the judgment of this Chamber that, until a uniform coinage ratio between gold and silver is adopted by the commercial nations of Europe and the United States, the passage of an act of Congress and its approval by the President, authorizing the unlimited free coinage of silver dollars of the present standard, would result in coining United States gold coin into an article of merchandise, thereby withdrawing it from circulation and compelling the money of the country more than one third of its present volume."

Six Months in Jail for Kissing Miss Ryan.

Bella Ryan, a teacher in the Third ward school, Long Island City, was seized by a young man on Nott avenue about 8:30 yesterday morning, and before she could escape she was kissed very ardently several times by her assailant. The wife of Deputy Sheriff Kavanagh, who lives near by, saw the assault from her window, and notified her husband, who was in the house. Capt. Kavanagh chased the young man, who was a good runner, and caught him more than half a mile away. The prisoner gave his name as Rudolph Wolff of 65 Graham avenue, Brooklyn. He pleaded guilty, a jury was waived, and Judge Mauch sentenced him to six months in the county jail, remarking that such outrages had become altogether too frequent in Long Island City and vicinity. Wolff gave no explanation of his conduct except to say that he was seized by a sudden desire to kiss Miss Ryan, and could not restrain himself.

John Lamb's Will Contested.

The will of the late John Lamb, a wealthy Jersey City banker, is to be contested. Ex-Senator William Brinkerhoff offered the will for probate in the Chancellor's Court yesterday, and at the same time a caveat was filed on behalf of Mrs. Anastasia Deming, a niece of Mr. Lamb. The will, which is dated March 14, 1878, leaves all the property to the widow, Isabella Lamb. Mrs. Deming asserts that a subsequent will was drawn whereby she is entitled to a share in the estate. The estate is estimated to be worth nearly half a million dollars.
