FAVORITES GO DOWN AGAIN.

A SERIES OF SURPRISES AT THE RACE COURSE ON THE HILL.

Joe Batchelor, Blackthorn, Baylor, and Emma J. Win at Long Odds—Churchill Clark and Glitter II. Also Pay Well.

Although the jockeys clenched their teeth and rode their best in the face of the March gale that swept with chilling effect down the long backstretch at Guttenberg, it was a poor day for bookers of favorites.

Eleven started in the opening scramble at five furlongs. There was wild shouting at the finish when Baylor, an 8 to 1 shot, collared Fabian, at 5 to 1, and Baylor won by a neck. Baltimore II., favorite at 3 to 1 against, losing the place by two lengths.

Another surprise came in the second race. John Boden's gelding Jack Batchelor, a 10 to 1 shot, got away at the tail of the field of nine and made a great run. Mowing them down he reached Anemaly, the all-round favorite, at the last furlong, and finished like a race horse, winning by a length from Persuader, another 10 to 1 shot. Anemaly losing second place by a length. The Western delegation backed Persuader very heavily.

The third race, at six and a half furlongs, was a hustling brush from start to finish. Glory and Blanche made the running in the first half. Emma J., third choice, at 6 to 1, moved out from third place in the homestretch, making a lapping finish with Fernwood and Gloster, and winning by a neck from Fernwood, Gloster losing second place by a neck.

Belle d'Or at 7 to 5 against and Perfid at 2½ to 1 were considered good things in the fifth dash. Churchill Clark, at 4 to 1, made the running into the backstretch, where Belle d'Or took up the work and led to the homestretch. Perfid then moved to the front, when Churchill Clark came again, beating Perfid by half a length, Brussels losing second place by a neck.

Red Elm, at odds of 11 to 5; Servia, second choice, at 2½ to 1, and Glitter II., at 3 to 1, were all backed heavily to win the fifth race. Glitter II. started with winning strides at the hill, and was never headed. He won by half a length from Gleamound, a 20 to 1 chance. Village Maid, at 12 to 1, third.

Dressut, at 11 to 1, set the pace in the sixth race to within a furlong of home, where Mike Daly, by masterly riding, sent old Blackthorn, a 12 to 1 shot, for the race, which he won by a length from Silent. 4 to 1: Discount finishing third. Summary:

CARRIAGE HORSES AT AUCTION.

45 Head Owned by the Newmarket Horse Company Sold for $13,320.

Probably 200 men and a dozen women were in the Panorama building, at Seventh avenue and Fifty-fifth street, at 11 o'clock yesterday forenoon, when Auctioneer Easton of Tattersalls of New York (limited), began the sale of carriage and saddle horses consigned by the Newmarket Horse Company.

The lot, some forty-five in number, brought a total of $13,320, an average of $296 per head, and the sale does not compare with last year's. Still the animals did not approach in quality those offered last year, and none of the pairs brought $1,000. John H. Shultz was the largest purchaser.

A GROWL IN THE MANHATTAN A. C.

Which is Likely to Cause Trouble Before Long.

The tall spire of the Manhattan Athletic club towers majestically over all the massive brownstone piles on Murray Hill. The massive carved doors swing silently open to admit members to the luxurious apartments within or to permit their egress. The lion's head carved in the stone on the northeast corner of the building remains stationary and docile, and pedestrians are safe and secure. Occasionally to the ears of passers by come the click of billiard balls and the clatter of the bowling alleys, supplemented by huzzas in honor of a ten strike or a difficult shot. Everything on the surface seems joyous and peaceful. Surely the members of that club are a happy family. So it appears to the casual observer, but to one who peers beneath the crust there is revealed a volcano that, when it bursts, threatens to shake the great structure to its foundations. Beneath the calm exterior there is trouble in large explosive quantities, and the danger approaches a culminating point.

The unhappy condition referred to proceeds from the deep dissatisfaction of a number of prominent members of the club with the composition of the Board of Governors. Their complaints have been loud and long, but of no avail, as the ascendant element in the Board is at present too strong. The minority has been overridden, which only serves to exasperate and render them more determined to keep up the fight till the battle is won. The points of difference, which now are made openly, inside and outside the club, are in substance about as follows:

We have here the most magnificent club house in the world. Its appointments are unexcelled and its membership tremendous. Athletically it is in the front rank, and from every conceivable standpoint except one no flaw can be found. The exception noted is a serious one. The character of the Board of Governors, or rather the social and financial standing of a majority of the members, is referred to. Certainly the club has on its membership rolls a sufficiency of solid men from whom its Governors can be chosen men of social influence, financial solidity, and business prominence. Surely the club can find enough of such men, who would not only reflect credit on the organization but attract to it. Why is it that men of the character mentioned are unable to secure a election to the Board, and why is it that men who lack all the advantages named are pushed to the front?

It should not be understood that the Board does not contain many admirable men, but the majority are not fitted to rule the destinies of so great an organization as the Manhattan Athletic club. The social feature of that club should not be a secondary one behind the other features, and the fact is now that it is subordinated to the athletic branch. But there must be a change, or the grand club will surely deteriorate and crumble away. Its Board of Governors is in no sense of the word a representative one, and until it is made so the club will not take its proper position in the realm of clubdom. There will be a bitter struggle between those who are attempting to subordinate the social to the other features of the club, but there can be no doubt as to the outcome. The majority of the members of the Board are altogether too light waisted, and cannot withstand the assault sure to be made upon them. There will be a change, and the Manhattan Athletic Club will emerge from it the peer socially, as she is in all other respects, of the athletic clubs of the earth

The mutterings of the discontented faction have become so loud as to attract general attention. It has leaked out that the meetings of the Board are stormy to the extreme, and the efforts of the kickers to secure the election of a member of high social standing are usually voted down by 2 to 1. The average attendance at Board meetings is fifteen, and the vote generally stands 10 to 5. In nearly every case where vacancies have occurred on the Board the majority have put up men extremely distasteful to the minority, and as the candidates have been invariably voted in, the proceedings have given rise to no end of bad blood. The kickers have expressed their opinions in language chosen for its expressiveness rather than elegance, and the result has been that the members usually came forth from the board room with a knitted face and a perspiring brow. How the affair will end remains to be seen, but if the persistence of the kickers equals their exasperation a very pretty fight will ensue.

C. C. Hughes, who is deeply familiar with Manhattan A. C. politics, was informed yesterday that an article would be published in the columns of the kickers would appear in THE SUN and asked if he desired to say anything in reply. He responded as follows:

"I was entirely unaware that any such trouble was in existence. The present Board of Governors was elected by the club, and to an unprejudiced mind it would seem to represent the club. Regarding the question of the Board's social and financial strength, it seems to me that a sufficient answer to the charge is the fact that the Board was strong enough to give to the club its present magnificent quarters. This was a most brilliant achievement, and speaks for itself. I am aware that human nature is the same the world over, and in a large organization like our club there is sure to be more or less dissatisfaction; but you can set it down as a fact that the revolution will not amount to anything."

HUGHES FREES HIS MIND.

Anger at the Manhattan Athletic Club Became Carr Was Not Elected.

The Manhattan Athletic Club is in the saddle, and grim-visaged war frowns threateningly upon the athletic situation. C. C. Hughes, the trusty generalissimo of the Manhattan A. C. is mounted upon a big black charger and swinging a long, razor edged sabre about in a manner that bodes harm to somebody. The cause of these military preparations is the defeat of Mr. Carr for the Central Board. The Manhattan A. C. people feel that an unbearable indignity has been put upon the club by the failure to give it representation upon the Central Board, and their wrath knows no bounds. It can truthfully be said that it is the sentiment of the club to withdraw from the A. A. U. unless their organization is properly recognized by representation on the Central Board next October. Mr. Hughes voices the sentiment of the club as follows:

"The members of the Manhattan Athletic Club are very much incensed at the action of President Oakes in W. Carr to secure an election as a member of the Central Board of the Amateur Athletic Union. This is the more aggravating in view of the fact that other large athletic organizations, namely, the New York Athletic Club, the Athletic Club of the Schuylkill Navy, the Columbia Athletic Club the Detroit Athletic Club, the Olympic Athletic Club, the Boston Athletic Association, and the Turner Bund, succeeded in electing representatives on the Central Board, and these representatives were, with few exceptions, officeholders in their respective district associations.

"It will be remembered that on Wednesday night George W. Carr insisted upon William B. Curtis as a representative of the premier athletic organization of the country being elected a member of the Central Board by acclamation. The New York Athletic Club, however, in the face of this action on the part of the Manhattan Athletic Club's representative, deliberately cast its vote against the Manhattan Athletic Club having representation on the Central Board. The effect of this was to place the Manhattan Athletic Club in exactly the same light upon the club as possible, if in nomination against Mr. Carr a candidate who had won his spurs by the virulence of his attacks upon the Manhattan Athletic Club during the recent athletic war.

"The Manhattan Athletic Club wanted a representative on the Central Board in order to protect its large athletic interests. However, now that it has been treated so unjustly, there is nothing left to be done except to await the action of the Metropolitan Association next October. It is not likely that the Metropolitan Association will accept the Manhattan, Columbia, and Sullivan as delegates to the national body, as by doing so the smaller clubs in the association would be swamped at every turn, as they would be virtually endorsing the action of the larger clubs in punishing the Manhattan Athletic Club for advocating just and fair treatment to the smaller organizations. The Metropolitan Association will meet in October and probably send four delegates to the Amateur Athletic Union, two of whom they will name by resolution as their choice for the Central Board.

"The action on the part of the opponents of the Manhattan Athletic Club would indicate that the big athletic clubs that opposed the Manhattan Athletic Club in the recent war, by having a pretending friendship on the surface to the Manhattan Athletic Club, have such a deep hatred for the club at heart that they couldn't resist taking advantage of the first opportunity that presented itself to slight the club in as mean and contemptible a manner as possible.

"In justice to Geo. W. Carr, the fact should be made plain that he never sought any position. Those he has held have always sought him.

"However, the atmosphere has been cleared up, and the club is now aware who are its friends and who its enemies. The Manhattan Athletic Club can exist independently unless it is treated with fairness and justice in the A. A. U."

The Chairman of the Athletic Association has appointed the following committee to confer with New York University and St. John's College in relation to a triangular league in track athletics: H. Baruch, '92, and J. J. K. Hackett, '91.

The class team is arranging a tournament between its members. Three games still remain to be played in the tournament with the Lebourdonnais Chess Club of Columbia College. The score stands: Columbia, four; C. C. N. Y., three.

They Met and Parted.

William B. Curtis and J. E. Sullivan met yesterday and gazed mournfully into each other's faces. The be whiskered countenance of the former had a car worn look, and life appeared to have lost all charm. The refined face of the Secretary bore a pained, anguished expression, like a cherub with the colic. Shaking hands like two pall bearers at a funeral, they maintained a sad silence for a few moments. Then in husky, solemn tones the double Treasurer inquired:

"I have been told that in the past I have been requested to accept any important office in the gift of the Amateur Athletic Union?"

"I have, replied the disembodied Secretary, in tones that showed plainly his grief and chagrin. "It appears to me," he continued, "that hard, conscientious work for the A. A. U. is not appreciated. Has your list of officers been added to since the meeting, William?"

"No, and the conscientious significant and cold blooded desertion of its standard bearers by the A. A. U. have cut me to the quick."

Then, after another hard shake, these twin Pooh Bahs of the Amateur Athletic Union parted.

WATER POLO.

How the Game is Played When the Men Mean Business.

The New York Athletic Club polo team got very wet last night, but as they swamped the Manhattan A. C. swimmers they do not in the least mind the dampness. The long-expected and much-discussed game between these two water polo teams came off last night in the tank of the New York A. C., and it drew out a crowd that filled every inch of space.

A large delegation of "cherry diamond" wearers was on hand to yell for their players, and when the players, crowd, yells, and enthusiasm were all bottled up in that tank room the general effect was well calculated to make one dizzy.

It was nearly 9 o'clock when the players came out. They were received with cheers. They lined up as follows:

Manhattan A. C.	Positions.	New York A. C.
A. Heffert	Centre	F. J. Wells
M. Vandevoort	Right end	H. E. Tousmann
H. V. Cleaver	Left end	G. P. Schlesinger
H. F. Waffing	Half back	C. E. Knickbauer
C. Knoed, sr.	Goals	R. O. Haubold
C. A. J. Queckberner		E. V. Bawbold

Referee—Jasper W. Whitney. Judges—Alfred Chasseaud for Manhattan A. C., H. E. Sharpenger for New York A. C. Timers—A. C. Hughes for Manhattan A. C., J. G. Aitken, Jr. for New York A. C.

As the men stood up to get the word a voice from the crowd yelled: "Twenty-five dollars to twenty dollars on New York."

"Take that," shouted half a dozen voices. This was followed by a hiss and the betting ceased.

Referee Whitney cast the rubber ball upon the water in the centre of the tank and blew a police whistle. Wells and Heffert took leaders and started in a race for the ball. Wells reached it first and snapped it back. For a few seconds it travelled back and forth, the New Yorks showing their ability at passing the rubber. Then it was worked down to the New York goal and was submerged. When it came to the surface it was thrown out. Schlesinger got it and started for the Manhattan goal. Wells went ahead, and when Schlesinger suddenly passed it to Wells the latter leaped out of the water and slammed it against the goal with a damp thud that was disheartening to the Cherry Diamond followers, but set the New Yorks to cheering like a lot of boys out for a holiday. It took five minutes in which to score the goal.

When the players lined up again it was found the Manhattan goal board had come unfastened, and it took eight minutes to fix it. Then Chasseaud claimed a foul on the ground that Tousmann was inside the four-foot line tackling Queckberner when the goal was touched. The claim was not allowed by the referee. It took about 3 minutes and 50 seconds to touch the second goal.

On the next line up Meffert got the ball, and the cropping was becoming exceedingly lively when time was called to end the first half.

After the customary rest of five minutes the fun was recommenced. New York got the ball and worked it to the Manhattan goal. Vandevoort came away with it, and worked it to the New York goal. There was a scrap there, and in just 1 minute 36 seconds Yan pressed the rubber firmly against the New York goal. Then the Manhattan people gave their voices an airing.

In the next line up Meffert captured the rubber. Vandevoort soon worked it to the New York goal and dived, but couldn't hide it. Schlesinger got hold of the ball, and, by a good swim, rushed it into the Manhattan goal and touched it under Queckberner's nose.

Three goals to one in New York's favor. Great joy among the winged feet.

There were only a few minutes more of play, and it was fierce. In a struggle near the New York goal Vandevoort touched the goal, but it was not allowed as a score. The battle went on and was terminated by the referee's whistle. After ward the last goal claimed by the Manhattans was allowed, making the score 3 to 2 in favor of New York.

Queckberner was not struck during the game.

The Harvard Polo Club's Liquor Seized.

CAMBRIDGE, March 20.—The Harvard Polo Club, one of the most prominent societies of the college, received a shock this morning. The police, who have recently been watching the rooms of the club located on the top floor of 1 Brattle street, entered the premises and confiscated enough liquor to stock a barroom.

The Lorillard Boxing Tourney.

Mike Breslin's Game Fight.

Mike Breslin, the 126-pound pugilist of this city, who went away with his trainer, Jack Twohey, two weeks ago to meet Andy McGlone of Pittsburgh in a finish fight, had his battle near Milford, Pa., early yesterday morning and covered himself with glory. McGlone is a heavier man than Breslin, and has a reputation for strength much above the average. The Pittsburgh man was looked upon as a sure winner when he showed in the ring against his smaller opponent. There were nearly a hundred men present, and they made a terrible racket before, during and after the fight. Two ounce gloves were used, and the purse contained close on to $250. The fighting was of the fast and furious kind all through. Breslin in the second round swung his right hand on McGlone's head and broke a bone. The New Yorker bravely concealed the accident and fought on with one hand. He did great work with his left, and knocked the Pittsburgh man out in the eighth round. Breslin's party, many of whom went from Middletown, N. Y., won a pot of money.

Joe McAuliffe Broke His Hand.

In the early part of the fight between Joe McAuliffe and Jim Daly on Thursday night McAuliffe broke a bone in his left hand, and will be unable to put on a glove for two months.

Billy Madden will substitute Jim Daly for McAuliffe against Patsy Farrell.

Twenty-third Regiment Shooters.

It looks now as though the marksmen who represent Company F, the present holder of the trophy, would succeed in retaining the handsome Roman banner for the company, in the contest which is now going on at the regimental armory, in Brooklyn. The ten men broke the record at the butts on Thursday night:

Each contestant is required to play twenty-seven games, and the majority will complete that number by April 1, the date on which the play ceases. The race between Irving and Perry for first place is a close one, and no one can pick the winner. Chasseaud, Fryer and Miller are making a lively race for second honors.

Yachting.

W. A. Seaman of Oceanport, N. J., is having a new jib and mainsail boat built.

Wilmot T. Cox of the Oyster Bay Yacht Club will do some racing with his new cutboat next season.

The sloop Vivid has been purchased by John Curtain of Hoboken. She was formerly owned by Mr. Wolff.

A new gang of steel wire rigging is to be fitted on the schooner Intrepid, owned by Lloyd Phoenix. Philip Low, the rigger, will do the work.

Mr. Brokaw's schooner Vistor is to have a new suit of sails made by Fred M. Smith. Her cabin will be handsomely finished in Lincrusta Walton.

Mr. Ketchum's keel sloop Scoma is nearly ready to launch from Wintringham's yard at Bay Ridge. Scoma is the name of an island near Sagi. It is also said to be the name for placid or peaceful, and that is what Mr. Ketchum intends his boat to be, if it is presumed, but only when the weather is calm. Whenever there's a breeze she will prove to be the opposite of peaceful, and indging from her lines and her sail plan she will set a warm pace for the boats in her class.

COME AWAY IS THE WINNER.

THE IRISH HORSE LANDS THE GRAND NATIONAL AT LIVERPOOL.

The First of the Great Events on the English Turf Decided in the Presence of a Large Crowd—The Winner Was the Favorite—Emperor Broke His Neck.

LIVERPOOL, March 20.—The Liverpool Grand National Steeplechase, the first of the great racing events of the year, was decided here today, the Irish horse Come Away, owned by Mr. W. G. Jameson, winning, with Lord Dudley's Cloister second, and Mr. G. Masterman's Ilex third.

There were twenty-one starters, and the prospects of a good contest, coupled with superb weather, drew a very large attendance, many ladies being in the throng. Ilex was first away, followed by Grape Vine, Flower of the Forest, Veil, and Roman Oak in the structure named. After settling in their places Grape Vine took the running, with Flower of the Forest, Veil, Game Cock, and others following to the second fence, where Flower of the Forest fell. Grape Vine was in front to the next obstacle, and Chouffeur and Nasr-ed-Din came to grief. There was little further change to the Beechers. After jumping Glasgow took up the running. Along the canal Roquefort drew clear.

Near the race course Roman Oak and Grape Vine fell. Cloister attended Roquefort and Game Cock over the water jump in front of Glasgow, Why Not, Come Away, Veil, Cruiser, Dominion, Ilex, and Emperor. Going into the country the second time they were in much the same order. Over the Beechers Cloister was leading Come Away until along the canal, where they were in close company. Half a mile from home Come Away took up the running. Ilex, Cloister, and Why Not followed, the rest being beaten. Two fences from home Why Not fell, and Ilex was beaten, Come Away shook off Cloister's challenge and won by half a length. Ilex was a bad third, Roquefort fourth, and Cruiser fifth. The others fell except Fireball, Dominion, and Adelaide. The latter was pulled up on the second round. Emperor, while turning back, fell on jumping the rails and broke his neck. Time of the race, 9:56. An objection was lodged against Come Away being declared the winner, the ground of the complaint being the manner in which the horse crossed the last fence. The objection was overruled.

The other starters and the betting follow: Major Bunbury's Cruiser, Mr. G. H. Archer's Grape Vine, G. J. Cunningham's Why Not, Mr. W. Leetham's Roman Oak, Capt. Mitchell's Emperor, Lord Zetland's Chouffeur, Sir James Miller's Veil, Mr. W. Gordon Canning's Young Glasgow, Mr. A. Yates's Roquefort, Mr. Charter's Flower of the Forest, Mr. H. W. Lancashire's Brunswick, Mr. F. Gullane's Nasr-ed-Din, Mr. W. H. Russell's Dominion, Mr. Swan's Game Cock, Mr. H. F. Boyd's Voluptuary, Mr. Abington's Jennie, Mr. B. Holmes's Fireball, Mr. F. Wolstenholme's Adelaide. The last betting was 4 to 1 against Come Away, 20 to 1 against Cloister, 11 to 2 against Ilex, 7 to 1 against Cruiser, 9 to 1 against Grape Vine, 11 to 1 each against Why Not and Roman Oak, 25 to 1 each against Emperor, Chouffeur, and Veil; 33 to 1 against Young Glasgow, 40 to 1 each against Roquefort, Flower of the Forest, and Brunswick; 50 to 1 against Nasr-ed-Din, 66 to 1 each against Dominion, Gamecock, Voluptuary, and Jennie; 100 to 1 against Fireball, and 200 to 1 against Adelaide.

From the first Come Away was the favorite at 100 to 14 against in the middle of February, gaining some ground in March, until the end of the first week in March he stood 5 to 1. Ilex, in the mean time, had risen from 9 to 1 to favorite on March 5 at 5 to 1, and afterward stood even with Come Away at that price. Ireland is particularly strong in champions, which include Come Away, Cruiser, Chouffeur, and Roman Oak, all of which have stood well in the betting, especially in Dublin. Come Away has a good record of four-mile victories in Ireland. Although he fell in his first chase in Liverpool last November, his subsequent brilliant fence-jumping showed clearly that the result might have been otherwise had he kept on his legs. A good deal of Newmarket blood flows in the veins of Come Away. A great deal of money was placed on Come Away and Ilex. The course over which the race was run is one of the most trying known in Europe.

The conditions of the race follow:

The Grand National Steeplechase of 2,000 sovereigns (exclusive of a trophy value 100 sovereigns) by subscription of 20 sovereigns each, 15 forfeit; age 5 only; if declared; the second to receive 200 sovereigns and the third 100 sovereigns from the stakes; a handicap for four-year-olds and upward; about four miles; a steeplechase after the weights are declared value 500 sovereigns to carry 10 pounds, of one value 250 sovereigns 7 pounds, of one value 100 sovereigns, or of a hurdle race value 500 sovereigns 5 pounds extra; Grand National course, about four miles and 856 yards.
