YACHTSMEN WANTED WIND.

ANNUAL SPRING REGATTA OF THE LARCHMONT YACHT CLUB.

Sailed Yesterday on the Sound in an Uncertain Breeze — Only One 46-footer Started, and She Did Not Do Very Well — Close Race Between the 25-raters.

The leg rolls of racing yachts were not awash to any great extent off Larchmont on the Sound yesterday. At noon, when the starting gun was fired for the Larchmont Yacht Club's annual spring regatta, a whole-sail breeze was blowing in from the east, stirring up the surface of the Sound and giving promise of exciting contests, but two hours later it petered out, so that most of the competing yachts made slow work of the last part of their respective races.

It being so early in the season, the Regatta Committee of the club, made up of Messrs. Francis M. Scott, Harold S. Forwood and Otto Satony, had a hard time getting entries from the larger yachts. It was hoped that the feature of the regatta would be a contest between some of the 46-footers which will figure conspicuously in racing this year, but unfortunately only one of these yachts started. J. Rogers Maxwell's Nautilus was not ready to race, and last week August Belmont's Mineola met with an accident, or rather, discovered the weakness of her chain plates, and was compelled to go to Bay Ridge to have new ones made. F. D. Morgan is still sailing his new Herreshoff 46-footer Gloriana at Newport, so there was left only William O'Brien Macdonough's Jessica, the Fife boat which sailed to this country last year to start in the regatta. There being no other boat to sail in her class, C. W. Wetmore put in the 46-footer Liris to give her a race, the agreement being that light sails should be barred. The Jessica was not very successful last year as a racer. Some attributed her failure to win mugs to her handling, while others said it was because she was never intended for racing in American waters, having been designed for the English rating rule instead of the American classification. At any rate, she appeared yesterday with a new mainsail considerably larger than the one she used last year, but with the same sailing master, Capt. Harvey, and her performance leaves one to doubt her ability, to hold, her own against the new boats.

The summary of the race is as follows:
