NORMAL COLLEGE EXERCISES.

Prizes Awarded to the Graduates for Excellence in Scholarship.

Whoever noticed a particularly pretty or interesting young woman in a white gown on the streets or elevated roads uptown yesterday, might have guessed that she was a new school teacher graduated yesterday at the twenty-second annual commencement of the Normal College. There were 273 graduates. They marched into the college chapel at Fourth avenue and Sixty-ninth street, and proceeded to entertain an audience that filled the chapel for four hours. Dr. Hunt of the college presided. On the platform were Mayor Grant, City Chamberlain C. T. Crain, President J. L. N. Hunt, and School Commissioners William H. Gray, Mrs. Sarah H. Lowell, Charles Bulkley Hubbell, and Joseph H. Mosher, City Superintendent Jasper, and Assistant Superintendent Henry M. Leipziger with the faculty of the college.

An organ solo by Louise Thayer began the exercises. The college students chanted the 103d psalm, and the Rev. Dr. Abbott E. Kittredge read from the Bible. Miss Lily Margaret Schodts spoke the salutatory. Then Mayor Grant spoke briefly on the importance of the education of young women, and said he was very much interested personally in young women and their efforts to get on in life. President Hunt, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, followed Mayor Grant in an address, and said that the Mayor was one of the best friends of education who had ever been a Mayor in New York.

The remainder of the programme was diversified with the recital of selections from favorite authors by the misters of the graduating class and singing of selections by the College Glee Club.

The reading of honorary essays interrupted the music at intervals. Miss Mary C. Low read the third and Miss Gertrude Harrington the fourth honorary essay, while honors were evenly divided between Miss Jennie E. Beattie and Miss Anna A. Steiger for the fifth honorary essay. A prize essay on "George Eliot's Novels" by Miss Catharine Cotter, was read by Miss Sadie Leming.

Commissioner John Jasper presented the licenses to the graduates to teach, and President Hunter distributed the diplomas. School Commissioner Hubbell made an address and distributed prizes in books to members of the class for attaining high rank in scholarship. The prizes were awards given by the Board of Education. The essay pupils were: Seniors—Rosa Black, Lily M. Schodts, Mary C. Low, Gertrude Harrington, Jennie E. Beattie, and Anna E. Steiger. Juniors—Ethel Stebbins, Bessie Holmes, Elizabeth L. Van Etten, Mabel Ewen, Kate Hart, Jennnette Sewell, Harriet Hosten, Flora Levy, Carrie Blum, Sadie Levy, and Emma Sylvester. CORPSES NEXT DOOR.

May Be Offensive to the Imagination if Not to the Senses.

Nine witnesses from the neighborhood of Madison avenue and Forty-fourth street testified in Judge McAdam's court yesterday that they were made creepy and nervous by the constant presence of hearses in the street and the knowledge that there were corpses at 329. Mrs. Thomas F. Rowland, who lives next door, testified that attempts to get the Taylor Company, undertakers, out of the house at that number by an injunction suit.

The defence showed that Mr. Rowland had never complained of the liquor saloon on the Forty-second street corner, although its establishment was a violation of the restriction on the property. Oscar A. Pitman told of the change in the character of the neighborhood, and said that it was now a business neighborhood. J. Q. Hoyt, among others, testified that there was nothing offensive about the undertaking company's business.

Lawyer Hilliker for Mr. Rowland had a tiff with Mr. Hoyt, and tried to cross-examine him further, saying that he was convinced that Mr. Hoyt would rather living in a cemetery; that a morgue was to him a thing of beauty and a joy forever, and that he had no personal objection to dining in a dog pound.

Dr. H. A. Biggs, who was married on Wednesday night and intended leaving for Europe last night, inspected the undertaking establishment on Wednesday. He found nothing there offensive to the senses or injurious to health. He described the fittings of the place from a professional and sanitary point of view. On cross-examination Dr. Biggs admitted that to live next door to an establishment where she had reason to believe that corpses were being prepared for burial or autopsies performed would be sufficient to make a nervous woman seriously ill.

The case is still on.

A Coroner's Jury Calls for More Patrol Wagons.

Coroner Hanly held an inquest yesterday in the case of Neil J. Logan, a painter, who fell from a scaffold at 30 West Eleventh street on June 4 and was killed. The jury found that Logan came to his death by a fall, and made this recommendation: "In view of the testimony adduced, that the Board of Coroners communicate with the Police Commissioner, urging that body, in behalf of the citizens of New York, to supply additional facility in the way of patrol wagons, or ambulances for conveying the remains of deceased persons who meet death out of doors to the station house, in order to prevent the inhuman spectacle of allowing the remains to lie in the street or other place where the accident occurred."

Parrots—This is the time to buy young parrots. African Grays, Mexican Double Yellow Heads—young birds make great talkers—at $15 and $20; fine plumage and tame. Cuban parrots, $4 and $5; Long canaries, $2.50. Parrot cages, all strongest, best make, $2.50, $3, $4, to $10. Birds and cages sent everywhere safe by express. G. E. SHELDEN, 548 6th av., bet. 15th & 16th sts.

THE CANAL INVESTIGATION.

Republican Senators Testify to the Necessity of the Appropriations.

ALBANY, June 25.—Assemblyman Gould acted as Chairman in the absence of Gen. McMahon at to-day's session of the Canal Investigation Committee. The Republican ex-Senator from Albany, Henry Russell, and Senator Coggeshall, Republican, who has been eight years in the Senate and has secured appropriations for canal improvements in his district amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars, were examined, and testified to the value and necessity of the special appropriations with which they were familiar. Senator Coggeshall was particularly confident that all had been for the interest of the State at large.

William E. Cleary of Brooklyn, President of the Canalboat Owners' Association, instructed the committee as to the need of lengthened canal locks and the large appropriations necessary for the same, which his association had advocated. He urged the further improvement of the Champlain Canal, so that larger cargoes might be carried and the cost of the product of the Adirondack mines thereby reduced to the manufacturer. He compared the rapid and constant betterment of railroad transportation facilities with the slow growth of improvement on the canals, and advocated larger and more frequent appropriations.

Robert H. Cook of Whitehall, a leading canal forwarder, gave essentially similar testimony.

Charles R. DeFreest of Troy, Clerk of the Assembly, was put on the stand to refute certain statements of Senator Erwin. He testified that he had examined the session laws and found that, contrary to Senator Erwin's belief, the canal appropriations made during the incumbency of Superintendent of Public Works Dutcher were so made that said Superintendent could expend them as he saw fit, while under Democratic administrations of the office the laws required all canal and other public works outside of the Capitol to be let by contract to the lowest bidder.

To-morrow Senators Vedder and Van Gorder (Rens.) of western New York will be before the committee.

An Enoch Arden Case in Niagara County.

LOCKPORT, June 25.—A sort of Enoch Arden case has produced something of a sensation in the little village of Sanborn, twelve miles west of this city. In 1860 Thomas Tisdale, with a wife and four children, lived in a Canadian village. That year he was escort to a fishing party to Georgian Bay, and when the party returned Tisdale was reported as having left the party in a rowboat, and nothing was heard from him since. It was presumed that he was lost among the many islands in the bay and drowned. After several years, as Tisdale did not return to his family, Mrs. Tisdale accepted the theory of his death and married William Davis. In about four years the second husband died and the widow married a Mr. Copeland of Tonawanda. A few days ago Tisdale appeared at Sanborn, and Mrs. Copeland became sent for identified him as her long-missing first husband. Present indications are that the third husband will have to relinquish his wife and that she will join her fortunes with Tisdale.

The Indian Trouble in Arizona.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Commissioner Morgan of the Indian Bureau has received a telegram from Superintendent Collins of the Moqui Pueblo Indian School at Keams Cañon, Arizona, in which he says that the Indians threatened to kill the whites and forcibly take their children from the school, and asks that military reinforcements be sent to the school. It is said that there are 104 pupils in the school, which is under the supervision of one of the most efficient teachers in the service. Commissioner Morgan and Gen. McCook visited the Moqui last fall, and directed the superintendent to gather into the schools all the Indian children he could find of school age. The present difficulties, it is said, have grown out of the fact that the Indians are bitterly opposed to sending their children to school.

Youthful Train Wreckers.

URBANA, Ohio, June 25.—Detectives George W. Caldwell of the Erie Railroad and M. H. Fort of the Big Four have been working several days on the attempted wrecking of the night express train on the Erie road. Yesterday they arrested Edward Evilsizer, aged 15; Charles Lence, aged 18, and Charles Steinbarger, aged 15. Young Evilsizer confessed that three attempts had been made to wreck the night express train. After piling the obstruction on the track they hid in the woods near by to see the train run into it. Fortunately no damage was done. The boys were arraigned before Mayor Ganson last evening and entered a plea of guilty. They will probably be sent to the reform farm.

A Protege of Secretary Blaine.

BANGOR, June 25.—William P. Drew, the bank examiner, whose name has been so prominently connected with the defalcation of Cashier Bardsley of the Keystone National Bank of Philadelphia, is a native of Augusta, being the son of William A. Drew, for many years pastor of the Universalist Church in that city. He has always been the protege of Mr. Blaine, and held office in Washington for many years, and it was through the Secretary's influence that he was appointed to his present place.
