IT'S A VERY STEEP HILL,

AND THE NEW YORKS ARE SLIPPING DOWN WITH GREAT RAPIDITY.

They Were Severely Beaten at Pittsburgh Yesterday—Wright's Men Gave Anson Another Black Eye—Boston and Cleveland Play Two Games, Each Winning One—Brooklyn Finally Whips Cincinnati.

Rather a doleful state of affairs. The prospect is strong that if many more members of the New York team are incapacitated it will be necessary to hire some club to play out the schedule. Meanwhile, Anson and his braves are sharpening their scalping knives and awaiting the advent of the disabled New Yorkers. The latter begin their last games of the season at Chicago on Monday. Philadelphia going to Pittsburgh, Boston to Cincinnati, and Brooklyn to Cleveland. The crippled Philadelphias gave the Chicagos another tumble yesterday, all of which was very encouraging. Cleveland got up courage enough to win one of two games played with Boston, and Byrne's men brought a warm blush of gladness to the cheeks of Brooklynites by winning a game, after losing seven times in succession. The results follow:

Pittsburgh, 11; New York, 2.

Brooklyn, 7; Cincinnati, 4.

(First game) Cleveland, 6; Boston, 3.

(Second game) Boston, 11; Cleveland, 8.

Philadelphia, 6; Chicago, 2.

PITTSBURGH, 11; NEW YORK, 2.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 29.—As soon as to-day's ball game at Exposition Park was over Messrs. Day and Mutrie left the grounds just as fast as a hack, a pair of horses, and a hack driver could take them. They hadn't a word to say, and there never were two more disconsolate men in Pittsburgh. The cause of it was that for the third time in succession the New Yorks fell victims to the sluggers of this city, and the victory wound up a glorious week for the victors. There is no denying the fact that Manager McGunnigle has the team doing great things just now. He deserves all the credit that he gets, because no man could have worked harder to get the team into playing form, and he may now rest assured that the local cranks and fans have him as an idol.

There were 2,823 persons present, and never a more delighted crowd witnessed a ball game. The home players began in a way that left little or no doubt as to what the result would be. In fairness, it may be said that the visitors were in a wrecked condition, generally speaking. Long John Ewing is unable to pitch, and young Arthur Clarkson was put in to do the twirling. It was soon discovered that Arthur was not the man for the position, as in three innings eight runs were scored against him. In that time six big hits were made, four wild pitches, and four bases on balls. Then Barr replaced him, but the game was won then by the home team.

Old Sport Galvin was in the box for the home talent and Jeems never did better. The sixth inning was reached before a hit was made off his delivery, and the ninth inning was reached before a run was made by the visitors. Up to that point the interest in the game was centred in the question as to whether or not the New Yorks would be shut out, but the first run of the visitors was made in a remarkable way. Tiernan led off the inning, and he cracked the ball fairly on the nose, and it went sailing over the right-field fence for the first time since the grounds were opened. The hit was, indeed, a great one, and Tiernan received hearty cheers for the feat. Then Connor made a double and Richardson followed with a single, and Connor scored on O'Rourke's sacrifice. Although the contest was one sided there was some brilliant playing done in it. Shugart's work was remarkably good. Corkhill, Lally, and Ward made great catches, and, to make a long story short, McGunnigle's men outplayed the visitors at every point and scored their eighth victory out of the last nine games.

In the first inning Bierbauer filed out to Tiernan and Shugart got his base on balls. Miller wha-cked out a triple to left, Beckley sent a single to right, two bases on balls followed, a life hit, and another single. In the mean time there were two wild pitches and a passed ball, and all these things combined netted five big runs. In the next inning Bierbauer led off with a double and Shugart again got his base on balls. A fumble by Bassett and a wild pitch scored Shugart after Bierbauer and Beckley had been retired on a double play.

In the third inning Ward led off with a single and Reilly was retired on a foul fly by Bassett. Richardson's fumble allowed Corkhill to reach first and Galvin followed with a single to left. Bierbauer made a single and as a result two more runs were scored. From the end of the third inning on Barr did the pitching and did fairly well. In the sixth inning Beckley made a single and Lally a double and these with Reilly's single scored two runs. In the eighth inning, after Beckley was out, Lally made a single, Ward got his base on balls, and Corkhill's single scored Lally. The score:

BROOKLYN, 7; CINCINNATI, 4.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 29.—Once upon a time the name of Ned Crane gave a Brooklynite palpitation of the heart. Yesterday, however, Capt. Ward's young men treated the strong-armed boy just as if he was a mere common hired hand. They hit him freely, ran bases well, and found after many days of tribulation that life was still worth living. Ward played a marvelous game at short, and Collins and Pinkney were both valuable aids in the line of fine fielding.

With two men out in Brooklyn's half of the first inning, Pinkney reached first base on balls. He stole second, and a passed ball allowed him to reach third. Burns sent a line fly toward third, and it pirouetted by Latham, while Pinkney scored. Collins appeared in Darby O'Brien's accustom ed haunts. Reilly sent a high bounder to O'Brien, and Reilly reached his base. Smith hit to Pinkney, and a force out resulted. Keenan caught a ball squarely and drove it on a line to centre field. It was one of the cleanest drives ever seen on the lot, and Keenan scored a home run.

The Reds were now one ahead, but they did not stay there long. Griffin subsequently made the rounds on a gift, a steal, Crane's wild throw, and Ward's hit, which Reilly fell upon, but did not stop. The third inning was full of mingled joy and sorrow. The crowd grew jolly when, with Latham on second by the grace of O'Brien's poor throw, Halligan smashed the ball over Griffin's head, and he raced the entire course with the second home of the game. The stands howled once more, but they never smiled after.

Brooklyn at once passed Cincinnati, and four hits, in succession by Burns, Foutz, Collins, and Collins netted them three runs. Crane being responsible for two of them. His slower in fielding stretched Foutz's and Griffin's drives into scratch hits. All this trouble occurred after Pinkney's retirement. The inning closed with a sensational catch by Reilly of Daily's fly, on which Griffin was doubled up.

Brooklyn clinched the victory in the next inning, when Latham, by stopping to sulk over a low throw by Smith, lost a chance to put Ward out at home, and made it possible for Pinkney to drive O'Brien home. That ended the scoring. The score:

PHILADELPHIA, 6; CHICAGO, 2.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—Gleason was altogether too much for the colts to-day, and received almost perfect support, a slow throw by Donoghue being the only mistake made by the Quakers. Gumbert also pitched a good game, one that ordinarily would have been a winner, but a little stupid work by the infield allowed the visitors a couple of scratch hits, after which they did their real hitting.
