ANOTHER DULL THUD.

THE NEW YORKS WHITEWASHED BY THE CHICAGOS.

Brooklyn Takes a Game from St. Louis—Washington Wins Twice from Pittsburgh and Jumps to Fifth Place—Boston, Baltimore, and Philadelphia Win

The baseball situation, so far as New York city is concerned, has assumed a decidedly painful aspect. Bright anticipations, based on the known ability of the men representing the metropolis, are fading away like a dissolving view, and instead of battling for first honors with Boston and the other leading teams, the Gothamites are apparently striving to get below Chicago, St. Louis, and Baltimore. Uncle Anson may smile and labor under the impression that he has done a commendable thing, but New Yorkers fail to see the humor of the affair. The New Yorks are now ninth, and unless they recover from the effects of the miserable weather very suddenly, there is apt to be shrieks of anguish, then a loud swash, and the champions of the world will be floundering in the twelve hole. The Brooklyn spoiled themselves together and polished the Browns very neatly. The Senators made a big jump yesterday. By beating the strong Pittsburghs two games in one day the Wagner-ites leaped from ninth position up to fifth. Baltimore celebrated yesterday by winning its second game of the season. New York was the first victim and Cleveland yielded the second scalp. Boston chalked up its usual victory, and Philadelphia helped its position by knocking Louisville down. The scores of yesterday's games are as follows:

Chicago, 8; New York, 0.
Brooklyn, 4; St. Louis, 3.
Boston, 3; Cincinnati, 2.
Baltimore, 4; Cleveland, 3.
Philadelphia, 6; Louisville, 3.
Washington, 2; Pittsburgh, 1 (1st game).
Washington, 5; Pittsburgh, 1 (2d game).

CHICAGO, 8; NEW YORK, 0.

CHICAGO, May 7.—A large crowd to-day saw the Chicagos defeat the New Yorks for the second time this week. The day was extremely disagreeable, a fierce freezing wind from the north sweeping over the park all through the game. The grounds were still soggy from the recent rains, and this also added to the discomfiture of the players and the 3,000 spectators. The game was wholly one-sided. Hutchison pitched and batted like a demon, despite the cold. His support was excellent, the errors charged to the home team being excusable and not in the least disastrous. King was hit freely from the start, but in the latter part of the game the Colts beat a lively tattoo on his curves and shoots.

O'Rourke was the only visitor to reach third during the game, and the only man to get a safe hit off Hutchison's delivery. The visitors got but seven men to first, and only two as far as second. Anson broke the ice in the fifth inning, when an error by Piller of Cooney's ground ball, a sacrifice by Kittridge, a single by Hutchison, Wilmot's sacrifice, and Dahlen's ripsnarling drive into the right field gave the old man two runs.

There was a heap of trouble for King in the sixth inning. Anson, Dungan, and Canavan pounded out singles as fast as they came to the plate. Cooney sacrificed. Then Old Bill Hutchison walloped the ball for two bases and Wilmot for a single. This cannonading gave the home team five earned runs. They scored their last run in the ninth on an error by Piller of Ryan's hard hit, the latter's steal to second, and a single by Anson.

Fuller's work was as ragged as on the previous day, and while it did not affect the result it contributed largely in swelling the score of the Colts. Aside from Hutchison's pitching and batting the only feature of the game was a running catch by Dungan of a terrific line hit from O'Rourke's bat. The score:

BROOKLYN, 4; ST. LOUIS, 3.

ST. LOUIS, May 7.—In love affairs "the best man stands knocking at the door," and in baseball the best club usually makes the most runs. To-day the Brooklyns were the best club. They outplayed the Browns, and won the game. Dame Fortune played the coquette with St. Louis. She smiled sweetly up to the last moment on the home boys, and then she "gave them the laugh" and waltzed off with the Long Islanders.

It was a hard game for the Brooklyns to win and a harder one for the Browns to lose. The contest was a close one, and was only settled by a lucky hit for Brooklyn and two unfortunate errors for St. Louis in the last half of the ninth inning, just when exactly that kind of playing was needed by the visitors. Dave Foutz was principally to blame for the victory for his club. The 4,000 spectators could not help admiring the splendid work of this popular ex-Brown Stocking, but it was hard experience to see him the principal factor in the defeat of the club he had helped to win so many victories.

Dave was in the box for Brooklyn and pitched up to his best old-time form. He has pitched six games this season and has won them all. To-day he was as steady as a clock when steadiness was the proper thing. In the eighth inning, when St. Louis had Glasscock on second base and a hit by Caruthers would have won the game, he deliberately sent Bob to his base on balls rather than risk his adding another hit to the two he had already made. Gleason pitched for St. Louis and he came near winning the game. Although he was wild at times, his general delivery was good. His home-run hit in the seventh inning sent Stricker home ahead of him and put the Browns in the lead. He hit clean and hard again in the ninth, but the men following him could not help him to the home plate. The Brooklyns played a perfect fielding game. With the exception of Glasscock and Caruthers the Browns excelled in this department. Brodie's work in centre was of the highest order. He stopped a great line drive of Collins's, in the seventh inning, after a hard backward run, and, jumping into the air, captured the ball with one hand. The score:
