THE OPEN-AIR HORSE SHOW.

ONLY A FAIR CROWD AT THE SOCIETY'S PRETTY GROUNDS YESTERDAY.

There was a Marked Falling Off in the Evening, and the Attendance Must Improve To-day or the Directors Will Be Out of Pocket—Foxhall in the Prize Ring—Good Performances Over the Jumps—Col. Kip's Pet Team Beaten.

The first annual open-air show of the United States Horse and Cattle Show Society at its pretty grounds, 155th street and Eighth avenue, which opened yesterday, is not drawing like the exhibitions held in Madison Square Garden from year to year.

The women had no such opportunity yesterday to promenade and display their lovely costumes as the Garden afforded, and, while the attendance during the afternoon was fair, that of the evening was meagre, and the directors cast anxious looks at the long rows of empty seats in the grand stand. The electric lights were very dim last evening, but they will be reënforced by others to-night, and the management hope to turn night into day before the week is over. The entries are light in some classes, notably those for trotters and hackners, but there is an unusually strong showing of hunters and saddle horses.

Yesterday afternoon the picture was a pretty one, the green sward, with its groups of noble horses, the frowning rocks, and the fringe of trees in the background, all going to make the scene as varied as it was beautiful.

The day's programme began with a contest for hunters over the jumps. The jumps are of the regulation order, consisting of fences, an in and out, hurdle, brush, and stone wall. The Canadian pair, Bismarck and Queensberry, owned by George Pepper of Toronto, and Mayor Grant's gray gelding Oxford excelled all others as regards style, conformation, and performance over the obstacles, but, as performance only counted, the judges placed Bismarck first and gave second place to Mayor Grant's handsome gelding. The Canadian gelding was a trifle too leggy, and, if conformation counted as well as performance, Oxford would have won over him.

In the thoroughbred stallion class everybody wanted to see the famous Foxhall, owned by Lord Rosebery, winner of the Cambridgeshire, Cesarewitch, Duke St. Michael Stakes, the Grand Prix de Paris, and other great events. Foxhall is an American-bred horse by King Alfonso, out of Jamaica, and he was taken to England a decade ago by Mr. James R. Keene of this city. He was sent back to the land of his birth only a month or so ago, and yesterday was the first opportunity the general public had of looking at one of the greatest thoroughbreds ever bred in America and one of the fastest that trod the English turf. His opponents for the prize yesterday were Saxony, twice winner of the Derby, winner and a very fast horse a few years ago; Macbeth, by Maccaroon, and imported Water Level, by Isonomy. Foxhall is fourteen years old. He is a great, strong, powerful bay horse with black points, and while not as smoothly turned as Saxony nor as large as Macbeth, he was more impressive than either, and anybody conversant with the fine points of a thoroughbred would select him as the prize winner. Water Level is a very plain brown horse. Macbeth's tail was docked and that made him look more like a hackney than a thoroughbred. The Judges, Jimmy Rowe, Peter Walden, and Foxhall Keene were a long time deliberating, but of course Foxhall got the blue ribbon. Saxony, owned by James A. Striker, was second, and Macbeth third. There were but two competitors for the class for Arabian stallions—imported Kismet and imported Seglawo. Both are small, and as they are owned by Mr. Russell it was immaterial which won, the award going to Kismet, a small, compact, gray horse, ten years old.

Eight high steppers came out in the class for harness horses over 15.2 hands. The horses were a good lot, two or three being very high-class, and as they were hitched to the neatest carts, and were the most expensive harness that money can buy, they made a fine appearance. Fred Gebhard's chestnut gelding His Highness, whose action is extravagant, but quite in keeping with the present New York craze, received the blue ribbon second prize going to L. C. Potter's black gelding Beau Brummel, while third honors were carried off by George W. Curtis's Fargo.

Col. Lawrence Kip's luck in the roadster classes has been phenomenal at New York horse shows for years, but yesterday his stanch team of mares, Ermine and Eastrada, were beaten by the Eldorado Farm's Addie Lee II., by Electioneer, and Honey B., by Charley B., a handsome pair of bay mares that made a very fine appearance. They are speedy, and can pole in 2:20 or better.

Miss Frances E. Bostwick's chestnut gelding Eric, a winner last fall, was successful in the saddle class for stallions, mares, or geldings over 15 and not exceeding 15.2 hands. Newmarket Horse Company's Firefly was second, and Bloodgood Stock Farm's Porthia was third. Eight stunning tandems appeared for the competition for the best appointed tandems, horses and appointments to count. Harry Hamlin of Buffalo carried off the honors with his spanking pair of mares, Gladys and Queen. C. Weidenfeld's imported Victoria, and imported Forest Queen were placed second, third honors being won by J. Lee Taller's Sister Brown and London. Some splendid specimens of weight-carrying hunters put in an appearance in class 77. Chestnut Hill Stock Farm's Cobasset, a winner at the Garden last fall, was again successful. George Work's gray gelding Sachodon securing second place.

Two burly Percherons were the only competitors in the class for heavy draught horses. Duke of Normandy winning over young Alphyor. Duke of Normandy while on parade, before entering into the competition by way of exercise, kicked the groom leading the trotting stallion Dudley E., owned by Dudley E. Valentine, and knocked him unconscious for a few moments. After disposing of the groom the Duke paid his respects to Dudley E.—planting his huge hind feet on the poor little fellow's ribs twice. Liberal doses of a long whip made the huge gray more tractable.

Ring Cola, a black gelding, won over his only competitor, Lochiel, in the class for heavy draught mare or gelding shown before a wagon. Bloodgood Stock Farm's brown mare imported Pride of Belfast vanquished five high-class entries for Mr. W. P. Douglas's special prize for the best saddle horse over 15 hands and not exceeding 15 hands 3 inches. Three pairs of harness horses in the class for pairs over 15.2 hands flashed up and down the ring to the music of the chains rattling and the highly varnished wheels of the carriages flashing back the glare of the electric light. Theodore P. Gordon, Jr.'s bay geldings Ginger and Allspice won over the same owner's Roscoe and Robbins. In the class for pairs 15 hands or over, the property of dealers, the honors went to Bloodgood Stock Farm's imported mares Jessie and Portia. James Hellerman's chestnut geldings Roscoe and General Hatch were easily second, and Theodore P. Gordon, Jr.'s Ginger and Allspice third.

Chace Wins the Inter-Scholastic Tennis Championship.

CAMBRIDGE, May 9.—Malcolm Chace of Providence is the inter-scholastic champion for 1892. He won to-day in the finals over C. R. Budlong, also of Providence, in an exciting contest full of good tennis. Both boys played in excellent form. The playing of Budlong was a surprise to everybody. He played a neat game and volleyed very prettily, but his strokes lacked pace and he lost his nerve at critical points, putting many balls out. Chace was handicapped by a disabled hand, and did not put a great deal of snap into his game. He stayed in the back court and seldom tried the net. His lobbing was accurate, but he won the greater portion of his points on his opponent's errors. Following are the scores:

Singles, Fourth Round—E. Stevens beat R. S. Howland, 6—3, 6—2; Malcolm Chace beat P. S. Booth, 6—1, 6—3; C. F. Young beat G. M. Chace, 6—5, 6—3; C. R. Budlong beat F. R. Whittemore, 6—3, 6—2.

Semi-finals—Malcolm Chace beat Stevens, 6—2, 6—5; C. R. Budlong beat Young, 6—5, 6—1.

Final Round—Malcolm Chace, Providence, beat C. R. Budlong, Providence, 6—2, 7—9, 4—6, 6—3, 6—4.

The Metamoras Playing for the Pins.

The quoit tournament, which was started on Sunday, May 1, by the Metamora Club, was continued last Sunday on the club grounds, 171st street and Boston avenue. The conditions for pitching call for stiff-sticking clay ends, 18 yards distance, weight of quoits unlimited, but not to exceed eight inches in diameter. The games on Sunday were well contested. The results were:

John Delaney beat R. S. Knight, 21—9 and 21—18; Charles Schneider beat Michael Karl, 21—7 and 21—7; Joseph Veth beat William H. Gray, 21—17 and 22—16; M. Fitzgibbons beat H. H. A. Romer, 21—19 and 21—18; William Wiegand beat Louis Camerer, 21—10 and 21—14; A. G. Smith beat D. F. Sherry by default.

These contests ended the first series. The second series will begin next Sunday. The following players will compete: T. Goggin against John Delaney; Joseph Veth against M. Fitzgibbons; A. G. Finnesy against Charles Schneider; George Schwegler against T. C. Ferber; William Wiegand against John Murtha; Daniel Schwegler against A. G. Smith; A. M. Thompson against William Zuhlke. J. M. Ferber draw a bye. The tournament will decide the championship of the Twenty-third ward.

A Protest Against Runner Gleason.

Conrad Marks of Stapleton, who, with Nick Cox and John Gleason, signed articles of agreement to run a three-mile foot race at Columbia Leader Field on May 25, declined to post his second deposit last night and entered the following protest:

"TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN—Sir: I hereby protest John Gleason of Elizabeth, who is entered in the Marks-Cox-Gleason three-mile foot race, to be run on May 25, for $750 each man, on the grounds that Gleason's proper name is John Nolan and he hails from Connecticut. I also charge that he was the trainer of the Pastime Athletic Club of New York city some years ago. I signed articles to run John Gleason and not John Nolan, therefore I refuse to go on any further in the match. CONRAD MARKS."

If the facts as presented by Marks in his protest are true, and the matter will be thoroughly investigated, the stakeholder will undoubtedly declare the match off and return each man his deposit. Last night Cox posted his second deposit of $250, according to the articles, and Gleason made his good on Saturday last.

PITTSBURGH, 4; NEW YORK, 3.

PITTSBURGH, May 9.—Local baseball cranks were feeling happy about sunset this evening as a result of the Pittsburgh team defeating the New Yorks. The name of the New Yorks still carries considerable terror with it, and a very large number of Pittsburgh patrons of the game were fully convinced that the visitors would wallop our sluggers, but in that they were mistaken. Nearly 4,000 persons saw the game, and it was a tolerably interesting one. The score was always close enough to keep everybody guessing, because there were numerous stages where a hit would have changed the complexion of things very considerably.

But the contest was somewhat dull despite the close score, and for this the visitors and the umpire were probably to blame. Everything moved along as if nobody cared to exert himself, and several times the crowd became impatient and yelled for a little more life. The game was won by the home team on its merits, and the contest clearly demonstrated that the New Yorks of to-day are not the New Yorks who a season or two ago were the terrors of the country. Their work to-day was clean enough, but they lacked the work of the famous team.

The truth is, very few of them are in good playing condition, and that fact, combined with their lack of vigor and enthusiasm, may account for their present position. Rusie pitched a very good game, but there were three innings that went very much against him. It was this trio of innings that caused his defeat. He, too, gave evidence of being considerably too big to play first-class ball, as several times he was compelled to stop for a breathing spell. He was blowing like a porpoise at various times, but he hit the ball hard, and that redeemed his wildness on a very important occasion. The fielders behind him played their partes fairly fair, but not brilliantly, with the exception of a stop by little Fuller.

Altogether, when Pat Powers's team get into better condition they will certainly give a good account of themselves. Elmer Smith tried his hand at pitching for the home team and pitched a very good game. He had a capital command of the ball, and the left-hand batters were at his mercy. He also showed good speed and judgment. The fielding was good, as usual, but if "old opportune" batting had been present there would have been considerable more runs scored. Several times there were excellent chances for the home team to make a hit and bring in some runs, but this little shortcoming was to be found on both sides. The score:
