MONDAY, June 27.

Nothing has occurred to-day to give character to the current speculation in stocks. The market is dulness itself, only relieved by an occasional movement of strength in one or two specialties, but even in such instances the buying has lacked animation. The assignable causes for such a condition are, chiefly, the renewal of gold exports and incidentally the holiday spirit which is expected at this season and increased by an additional two days of business interruption. So far as gold shipments are concerned, it is the opinion of the largest exporters of the metal that the movement will be short lived. Sterling exchange rates are a trifle easier. At the present quotations they show only a slight margin of profit, and the hardening rates for money on call seem to suggest a further concession in sterling in the very near future.

The opening prices were strong, the buying power coming almost entirely from London and Chicago. The crop news was fairly up to its recent good character. But later in the day, on less favorable reports, there developed a selling tendency, which became more marked as these reports again broadened into floods in the upper Mississippi regions. The effect, naturally, was to throw the market into increased dulness, which was accompanied by a reaction that very nearly wiped out the early advance.

The activity to-day, if such it may be called, was limited to New York and New England, Jersey Central, North American, and Ontario and Western, for the railway shares, while Sugar Refining lead the industrials. They were all strong. The advance in Sugar Refining was based upon the published statement that the wholesale dealers in several of the Middle States had agreed to maintain the price, and that a rebate of ⅛ cent ⅌ pound was to be tendered by the company in return. The trading in Louisville and Nashville was stimulated by an increase of $37,570 in its gross earnings for the third week of June.

The buying of 2,500 shares of Ontario and Western accomplished an advance of 1 ⅌ cent, from which there was a fractional reaction. Other features were those of Columbus, Hocking Valley and Toledo, and Chicago and Grand Junction Stock Yards. The last named scored a net advance of 3¼ ⅌ cent. The closing was without feature, the reaction of the afternoon leaving the list with few net changes as compared with the final sales of Saturday.

Final sales compare with those of Saturday as follows:

New York Markets.

MONDAY, June 27.—FLOUR AND MEAL—There was a better demand for the high grades of wheat flour, and prices were steady and unchanged. The market was dull.

COTTON—Futures again reflected a wabbling market, and the close, though slightly dearer, was at a decline from the best prices of the day. There was an early decline of 12@17 points under an easier report from Liverpool. That came a brisk rally of 10@12 points on a report that the Senate Judiciary Committee had decided that the bill to compel Southern planters to sell their cotton for whatever price spinners might choose to pay is unconstitutional. Then came selling to realize, under favorable crop reports and large stocks, causing the loss of nearly all the general advance. Spot cotton was quiet; middling uplands, 7 7-16c., do. Gulfs, 7 13-16c. The following are the details of the transactions in futures, with sales of 100,200 bales:

GRAIN—Wheat futures were dull, but the probable uncertitutionality of the Hatch bill to enable the big pirates to buy at the wheat market caused a firmer closing, to which a material reduction in the visible supply contributed. Sales 1,070,000 bush. at 86⅝@86⅞c. for July, 86½@86¾c. for August, 86⅝@86⅞c. for September, 87⅛@87⅜c. for October, 88½@88⅝c. for November, 89⅛@89⅜c. for December, and 89⅝@89⅞c. for May. Spot wheat was very firmly held, checking trade; still, there was a very fair business for export, with local millers buying fairly. Sales 1,016,000 bush., mostly No. 1 Northern spring at 87⅞@88½c. afloat and delivered from store, but including No. 2 Chicago spring at 81½c., and other parcels on private terms. Corn firm; No. 2 mixed for June, 59½c.; July, 54½c.; August, 55½c.; September, 54½c.; October, 54½c. Oats steady; No. 2 mixed for July, 37½c.; August, 36½c.; September, 35½c.; No. 2 white for July, 39½c.
