WOE FOR WARD'S WONDERS

THEY GET A SEVERE THRASHING FROM POWERS'S LIVELY BOYS.

A Large Crowd and Great Enthusiasm at the Polo Grounds—Philadelphia Again Beaten by Boston, and Chicago Whipped Twice by Cleveland—Baltimore, Louisville, and Cincinnati Winners.

To win a game and yet be forced down in the race appears to be something of a hardship, but that was New York's experience yesterday. It resulted from the way in which the Forest City men trampled on Uncle Anson and his colts. It seems early in the season to start the two-games-a-day nuisance, and doubtless Anson now thinks he was a trifle rash. By winning two games from Chicago, the Clevelands elevated themselves to a tie with Brooklyn and Philadelphia for first place, and thus pushed New York into fourth place. The Gothamites are, however, but one game behind the three leaders, and are quite as likely to go to the top as any of the three. The decisive manner in which the champions disposed of the Quakers shows that the men from the Hub intend to have something to say about the first honors in the second half. At the present time there are nine clubs in a position to go to the top by the winning of two or three games, and the fight is so hot it would be a difficult matter to pick out the winner. While the New Yorks will have a hard fee in the Bostons, with whom they play Monday and Tuesday, their continuous strong work since the opening of the second season is ground for the belief that the Gothamites have a good a chance as any. The Brooklyns have been selected by many as the winners of the second championship, and the New Yorks certainly made matters very interesting for them. On the basis of comparison with the Brooklyns, the New Yorks are decidedly in the swim. Yesterday's games resulted as follows:

New York, 10; Brooklyn, 3.
Boston, 11; Philadelphia, 7.
Baltimore, 8; Washington, 5.
Louisville, 8; Pittsburgh, 2.
Cincinnati, 8; St. Louis, 6.
Cleveland, 5; Chicago, 3 (first game).
Cleveland, 9; Chicago, 8 (second game).

NEW YORK, 10; BROOKLYN, 3.

It has been a long time since such wild, exultant yells have echoed through the grandstand as were at the Polo grounds, and the splendid crowd that cheered the lively New Yorkers to victory has had few counterparts this season. It was a revival of baseball enthusiasm that made the New York manager's face look like a harvest moon and stimulated the players to increased effort. Certainly the big crowd had sufficient reason to feel enthusiastic, for a more exhilarating exhibition of the national game has seldom been seen. Once again did Powers's gymnasts show that they can play the game of baseball from A to Z, and give points to many more pretentious teams. Their base running caused the spectators to smile, their fielding was superb, and their batting effective. True, Burke made two errors, but he also made a hit, two runs, stole three bases, made a sacrifice hit, and accepted seven chances, some of them difficult. The deerlike way in which Burke ran bases aroused the wildest enthusiasm, and the several times raised his cap to loud applause. Fuller also made two errors, but the crowd never gave a thought to a couple of misplays when they saw the sort of ball Shorty was playing. Two runs, three hits, two stolen bases, and ten chances accepted, many of them marvellous plays, raised Shorty to a based all height of about ten feet. Jack Doyle played brilliantly, as did also Boyle and H. Lyons. In fact, every man of the New York team seemed to be alive and conscious that it took runs to win a game. It is probably just as well to mention the fact that Rusie pitched for the home team. The Indiana cyclone and his right arm were very conspicuous throughout the game, as the Brooklyns can testify.

While the Brooklyns committed many misplays, a majority were directly due to the dashing, daring base running of the New Yorks, and the fact that the Brooklyns did not play a perfect fielding game does not in the least detract from the emphatic triumph of the Gothamites. Haddock again did the pitching for the Wonders, and his life was made miserable. The diversified tactics of the New Yorks were very annoying. A bunt hit and the runner beats the ball. Then when the fielders were ready for a sacrifice the ball was lined over their heads. All this was accompanied by such a pattering of feet around the bases as was well calculated to discourage any pitcher. The slightest slip in handling the ball, and a New York sprinter made a base or two.

The New Yorks did the first scoring. Neither side made any impression in the first inning, but in the second Richardson started with a base on balls and stole second. O'Rourke struck out, but Boyle's sacrifice fly to right put Richardson on third. Then Rusie came to the rescue with a single to left, and the first run of the game was in. Rusie was forced out at second.

In their half of the second the Wonders did better. Daly waltzed to first on four balls and took second on a wild pitch. Fuller threw Ward out at first, but Daly reach d third. Joyce also went to first on balls, and then O'Brien made a two-baser to right, sending Daly home. Joyce would have been held at third, but for Richardson's poor throw. Dailey hit one between third and short, of which Fuller made a fine stop. Dailey could not have been caught at first, but Fuller threw to third, and Joyce, who slid over the base, was touched out. Haddock struck out.

Until the fifth inning there was no change in the situation. Then it was that the New Yorks went to the front with a wild whoop, and the Brooklyns were not thereafter in the game. Fuller started with a base hit, and when Burke's awkward bounder was fumbled by Foutz all runners were safe. H. Lyons sacrificed, and then reliable Doyle, with a sharp hit to centre, sent Fuller and Burke to the plate. On Griffin's poor return of the ball Doyle raced to third. D. Lyons sent the ball over the left-field fence, but it was foul. Umpire Snyder was "roasted" by the spectators just the same. Haddock concluded not to give Denny another whack at the ball, and sent him to first. Lyons made a dash to second, and on Dailey's poor throw Doyle scored. Lyons was left, as Richardson hit a fly to Corcoran and O'Rourke had hard drive to centre was beautifully taken by Griffin.

The New Yorks kept right on making runs. In the sixth, with Boyle out, Rusie's ugly grounder was fumbled by Corcoran, and Fuller came along with a single. Burke sacrificed, but H. Lyons made the base hit that sent Rusie and Fuller to the plate. Doyle struck out. In the eighth Burke showed the spectators how he can run bases when he desires to beat the ball. He rapped a twisting grounder that Haddock had trouble in getting hold of and then threw high to first. The ball only went a short distance from Foutz, but before he got the ball Burke was scampering down to second. He beat the ball. Next he made a clean steal of third, getting there with a long slide, and came home on Harry Lyon's third single. At this point the crowd yelled at Burke so that he was obliged to raise his cap. The next three batsmen went out in succession.

The New Yorks made their tenth run in the ninth inning. Singles by O'Rourke, Fuller, and Burke did the business. The Brooklyns looked so lonesome when they went to the bat in the last inning that an effort was made to cheer them up with a run. Joyce's slow, twisting grounder was fumbled by Burke, and O'Brien's out put Joyce on second. Doyle did not go behind the bat, thus allowing Joyce to run home. Dailey hit for a base, but Haddock drove the ball into Boyle's hands, who touched Dailey off the base, and thus ended the game with a double play. The score:
