CAPTURED ONE OF THEM.

THE NEW YORKS PLAYED TWO GAMES AND WON ONE.

Powers and His Men Now on the Way Home—Brooklyn Goes Down at Cincinnati—Boston, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, and Cleveland the Other Winners.

The New Yorks managed to win a game of ball before starting for home, and there is good reason to believe that when they get back to the Polo grounds on Monday, and the cripples get good hospital care, Powers's men will once more resume their regular business of winning games. With the exception of Boston, the Eastern teams have had a sad, tearful time on the trip, which ends to-day. Philadelphia and Brooklyn have been cuffed to a peak, and New York, Baltimore, and Washington have been thrashed till they cannot spell their names. Boston has had a hard row to hoe, but has managed to stand up pretty well. It will take a good many hard whacks to repay the woolly west. The fact that Cleveland has won a majority of its games by the narrowest of margins is ground for the belief that the Forest City lads will slide down the ladder when they come this way. Yesterday's games resulted:

New York, 6; Louisville, 1 (first game).
Louisville, 5; New York, 2 (second game).
Cincinnati, 8; Brooklyn, 5.
Philadelphia, 5; St. Louis, 2.
Boston, 4; Chicago, 1.
Pittsburgh, 8; Baltimore, 0.
Cleveland, 2; Washington, 1.

NEW YORK WON AND LOST.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 2.—Louisville and New York played two games for one admission this afternoon, each taking a victory. Both games were warmly contested and there were many brilliant plays, more than are usually furnished in one afternoon. Harry Lyons came in for most of the applause. He was lively on his feet, and made several catches that were almost phenomenal. Both of the New York pitchers did excellent work, while Stratton for Louisville was severely punished in the first. Burke made several clever stops and did some timely hitting, but his errors were costly.

In the first game Burke, after fouling four balls over the fence, finally got his base on balls. He went to second by a great slide. Harry Lyons then hit one down to Bassett. The ex-New Yorker made a good stop, but failed to steady himself before throwing the ball. Burke easily crossed the rubber, and Lyons got to second on the error. McMahon hit one that bounded over Bassett's head, and Harry Lyons scored. Then Doyle and Lyons sent one skimming down the third-base line, which, by a little sprinting, he converted into a two-base hit. McMahon scored the Giants' third run of the inning. Silver King gave the Kentuckians a run in their half. Taylor made a single over third, and was sent to second on Weaver's base on balls. Pfeffer hit to Burke, forcing Weaver at second. Taylor continued around to the rubber.

Jack Doyle was the first man to battle with Sanders's curves in the third inning. He drove the ball to left centre. It struck the fence, and Doyle made the circuit of the bases. There was a rest until the seventh inning, and then the New Yorks added a couple of runs. Pfeffer first fumbled King's grounder, and Fuller's sacrifice sent him to second. Burke sent him home on a singleto left and Doyle scored on the throw-in. Harry Lyons followed with a single and Burke reached the plate.

In the second game the New Yorks began work in the second inning. McMahon hit to Bassett and he threw high to first. D. Lyons moved him down to second on a sacrifice, and O'Rourke sent him across the rubber on a double to left. O'Rourke got third on Boyle's sacrifice to Whistler and reached home on Ruse's single to centre. Louisville made one run in its half. Taylor reached first on a slow one to second, and Weaver sacrificed him to second. Then Pfeffer hit safe to centre for one base and Taylor scored. Jennings hit to left in the third and O'Rourke muffed the ball. Merritt got first on a scratch hit to short. Stratton then advanced each a base on a sacrifice. Brown hit to second and beat the ball. Burke threw wide, allowing both Jennings and Merritt to reach the home plate. In the seventh Weaver found the ball for a single. Pfeffer hit to D. Lyons, and the latter threw to the seats. Weaver got to third and Pfeffer to second. The former scored on Bassett's out to Doyle. Louisville scored the last run in the ninth inning. The scores:

CINCINNATI, 8; BROOKLYN, 5.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 2.—Many a budding run was smothered on the lines, and six double plays, equally divided, is evidence that there was fielding of the clock-work variety indulged in by both victors and vanquished to-day. The Reds had in their heaviest hitting combination, and the errors made behind Hart were not calculated to enthuse him after his vacation. He was hit quite hard, and so was Dwyer. Old Pete Browning gave proof that he was in good condition, but while on base he became tangled up twice and was easily victimized.

McPhee, Latham, and Corcoran all killed bits in beginning double-ups, and the crowd of 1,292 cheered numerous pretty plays. Hart's wildness cost two runs in the game's earliest stage. The score:

President Young and His Umpires.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—"Selecting umpires who would give satisfaction to all concerned in the national game," said President Young to-day, "has proven the most difficult problem of the present baseball season, so far as I am personally concerned. In the first place I made it a rule when an umpire was urged by a certain following to locate him at that particular locality, and in most cases he proved a failure, just as I anticipated. At least four clubs urged the appointment of Billy Barnie, for instance, but he did not have the required backbone for an umpire and withdrew from the position before he had tried the work half a dozen times. My lines are always out for good men for the places, and whenever it is brought to my attention that such and such a man is doing good work as an umpire in any league outside of the National organization, I have friends of mine go and see his work. Frequently they are requested to put themselves to a little personal inconvenience to accomplish this and submit a detailed report to me at Washington, and in this manner I keep pretty well posted as to the qualifications of umpires all over the United States.

"But as long as local sentiment is brought to bear regarding the appointment of umpires, just so long will there be trouble for all parties, and the safest plan is to leave the appointing power solely in my hands, as well as the privilege of making the selections. Few, if any, games are lost by the rulings of an umpire, despite the allegations of players and spectators to the contrary, but it is popular to put the responsibility for defeat upon an umpire. Thus far I have had little or no trouble concerning men appointed by myself solely on the ground of ability and known integrity, and the season of 1892 bids fair, especially in its second half, to be a remarkable one for its absence of practical reasons for disputing decisions made by my staff of umpires."

Baseball Notes.

To-day's game between the Staten Island A. C. and Staten Island C. C. will be played at West New Brighton instead of at Livingston.

St. Louis, Sept. 2.—Carroll refused to play yesterday and President Von der Ahe suspended him. Carroll was fined $50 for indifferent playing, and declared that he would play no more for the St. Louis Club.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 2.—Pitcher Baldwin's release was recalled by the Pittsburgh management to-day. Catcher Mack left for his Massachusetts home to-day, being summoned there on account of his wife's sickness.

President Day returned from the West yesterday. He attributed the New Yorks recent defeats to hard luck. Several players were also injured which caused the team to be changed about, but as the men will be back to-day or to-morrow they will be in good shape for two games on Monday. Mr Day expects them to win a majority of their home games.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 2.—Pitcher Gumbert of the local ball club was indefinitely suspended this evening by the President of the club. Gumbert, it is claimed, threatened to "punch Manager Buckenberger in the jaw" for saying that the players when at practice took a "sneak" to the dressing rooms when Gumbert started to pitch for fear of being hit by the ball. Manager Hanlon released Pitcher Kling last evening, and Stricker went home to Baltimore.

STRATHMEATH AND FARADAY LEAD THE TRAY IN THE HANDICAP.

Prince George Beats the Field in the Golden Rod Stakes—Garrison Humps Stonenell in Winner on the Futurity Course—Raceland's Close Race—Fitzpatrick Fails to Wake Sleipner Up.

Although there was only one stake event on the programme and the entries in all the races were rather limited at Sheepshead Bay yesterday, the attendance was large and the sport, in the main, first class.

The race of the day was the handicap sweepstakes at a mile and a furlong, with Strathmeath, Tea Tray, Faraday, and Lizzie as starters. Faraday was considered the good thing in the race, and was backed down from 8 to 1 to 2¾ to 1, bundles of money going on the gray colt. Strathmeath was favorite in the books at even money, Tea Tray going at 3 to 1, with Lizzie, the outsider, at 20 to 1. Lambley's red cap bobbed in the front on Lizzie at the start, but Midgley soon had Faraday under full sail, with an open lead of three lengths at the quarter, which he increased to four at the far end of the backstretch, where Strathmeath was second and Tea Tray third, all strung out. "Will they ever catch Faraday?" now came from the backers of Strathmeath and Tea Tray. The question was soon answered. Strathmeath collared Faraday at a mile, headed him off handily, and won by a length in 1:55⅝. Faraday beating Tea Tray six lengths for second place. Green Morris believed that his horse would win, and so did his friend Michael Dwyer, and the latter won a lot of money on the son of Strathmore.

The full field of seven ran for the Golden Rod Stakes. The talent backed Father William Daly's colt Prince George freely, the odds only receding one point at the close. Gideon & Daly's colt Tar and Tartar also had a strong backing, and W. M. Barrick's colt Emin Bey was also well supported. Prince George was first away to a good start, but Lambley held the colt in the centre of the bunch at a furlong, while Lawless and Emin Bey made the running, lapped to the turn for the homestretch. Lambley then sent Prince George to the front again. Lawless made a strong effort to regain the lead, but Prince George moved out like a race horse in the last furlong, and won easily by three lengths from Lawless. Tar and Tartar snatching third place from Emin Bey by a head.

The race for three-year-olds, on the Futurity course, was a battle from end to end. Stonenell, with Garrison in the saddle, opened an odds on favorite and kept so to the close. St. Felix and Sunshine Whiskey carried the second and third choice money. Garrison rode Stonenell for the money by heading the front line at flagfall. Sunshine Whiskey headed Stonenell at the furlong, and the pair raced neck and neck out into the homestretch, where Stonenell moved out and won under a pull by three parts of a length, Sunshine Whiskey beating Dolly McCone a length and a half for the place.

The scratching of Madrid and Monopolist in the first race left four to start, with Raceland a prohibitive favorite. White Rose was second choice at odds of 10 to 1. Lord Motley took the lead in the opening strides, while Lambley held Raceland at the rear of the cluster, waiting to the far turn before he began to move the favorite to the front. Taking second place at the last quarter, Raceland was shaken up a little in the last half furlong and won by a head on the line. Lord Motley beating White Rose six lengths for the place.

Fortunate and John Cavanagh were the selections at short odds in the selling race at a mile and a furlong. Major Covington on The Sheriff and Simms on Frontenac made play at the start. Hamilton keeping John Cavanagh in a good position in the cluster to the far turn, where he began moving to the front. Disputing leadership, John Cavanagh came in a handy winner by a length from Frontenac. Silver Prince beat Snowball a length for third place.

L. L. Lorillard's horse Sleipner was the pick of the talent in the last race at short odds, but Fitzpatrick failed to exert the favorite to a dangerous extent. Hazelhurst and Strephon made the running in turn to the homestretch, where Madrid and Prince Fortunatus fought out the issue, Prince Fortunatus winning by a head from Madrid, Sleipner finishing third, a length and a half away.
