TO ERADICATE POLICY PLAYING.

Judge Hudspeth of Jersey City Makes that His Mission.

Judge Hudspeth of the Court of General Sessions in Jersey City fined William Maxwell $50 and costs yesterday for selling policy slips. Maxwell had pleaded guilty. Before pronouncing sentence Judge Hudspeth said:

"It is a matter of common repute that lotteries have, from time immemorial, existed in this country. The particular form of lottery referred to is called policy. It is a form of gambling that is most pernicious and far reaching, and it must be stamped out. It is the intention of the court to try to eradicate this business, root and branch. All persons who are guilty of this offence must be reached and punished, and if persons persist in these violations of the law imprisonment will certainly be their punishment."

The policy men are very much exercised over the stand taken by Judge Hudspeth.

The Tunnel Shaft Seized.

A ninety-foot shaft and two lots of ground in Fourth street, Long Island City, the property of the New York and Long Island Tunnel Company and the scene of the big dynamite explosion about a year ago, were seized yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Louis C. Walters of Queens county, on a judgment for $15,100.97, obtained against the Inter-Island Construction Company by John O'Toole, guardian for Mary Greany. The construction company was doing the work under contract when the explosion occurred. Nine Greenpoint men were among the injured. The execution was issued by the Supreme Court in New York city. Following the disaster the place was abandoned, and no attempt made to settle the claim for damages. These foot up to more than half a million dollars.

Prendergast's Trial Postponed.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—The trial of Patrick Eugene Joseph Prendergast for the murder of Mayor Harrison has been postponed one week because of the illness of L. A. Wade, one of Prendergast's attorneys. The defence will not ask for a change of venue.

GENUINE "BOTTLE MILK."

IT IS NOT SUFFICIENT TO HAVE IT BOTTLED WITHIN CITY LIMITS,

For then, Brought from the Country in Cans, it Runs All the Risks of Infection en Route—A "Bottle Milk" that is Beyond Captious Criticisms, Sterilized, and Digestible.

Never before in the whole history of New York city life has bottled milk come so greatly into vogue as during the past few months. This is logical and reasonable, because there can be no doubt in the minds of even the least scientific man or woman that milk that is bottled as it comes from the cow—bottled and sealed—is far less liable to be burdened with the insidious germs of disease than is the milk that comes from the country districts in the cans of bygone days and style.

Just here there is an interesting "distinction and a difference" to mark. Not all bottle milk is genuine bottle milk. That is, while all milkmen claim that their milk sold in bottles has been put up in the country within the limits of the dairy itself, nevertheless, when the actual facts are taken, out of the million quarts sold daily in New York city there are only a few milkmen—about half a dozen in all—who really bring their milk to the city in bottles. The majority of them freight it down in cans and bottle it at their city warerooms. It needs but little forethought to prove that such milk cannot be considered pure.

Among the dairy milks that are beyond captious criticism, and whose purity is unassailed, the Appleberg Sterilized Milk stands preeminent. Not only is this milk actually bottled in the dairy regions, sealed and brought into town with the greatest of care, but it is subject to a process of sterilization, which effectually kills every germ that may be lurking in it.

A popular misapprehension seems to cling around sterilized milk. This is solely because the process is not understood. Sterilized milk is not boiled milk; it is merely milk that is subjected to a certain degree of heat, considerably below the boiling point. This, while it absolutely destroys every possible germ, does not alter the milk's characteristics. Some people suppose it to be a concoction and a mixture. Actually it is only a first-class drinking milk, as fluid, as drinkable, as palatable as the most fastidious taste could demand. It has been claimed that sterilized milk is indigestible, but this charge does not tally with the opinions of the highest medical authority in the country. Both for the use of invalids and infants and also for drinking and culinary purposes it is most useful.

The Appleberg milk is really cheaper than ordinary milk, though it costs ten cents per quart. It is so much richer and has such a large proportion of cream that one can only use from one-half to two-thirds of the amount one would take of the average fluid. It is to be obtained any time at the office of the company, 769 Sixth avenue, between Forty-fifth and Forty-sixth streets, or on mail or personal order it will be sent out to any part of the city. It is put up in quart bottles, which are never unsealed from the time they leave the country dairy, and, if intended for a journey, they will be packed in cases by the dozen or the half dozen. Sterilized milk keeps pure and sweet so long that it is invaluable for an ocean trip.—Adv.
