"We make your clothes-money-by-the-year as little as it ought to be."

How general! dull! and altogether unbelievable!

Well, then, how do you like this? Suits and overcoats that'll give all the satisfaction you want or your money back; $3 derby that'll earn its pay; $5 patent-leather shoe as good as patent-leather can be; shirts and collars that fit and don't chafe each other (and you) to death—is that specific enough? or shall we multiply the list and make this advertisement long and dull?

With difficulty we have secured, in Paris, large assortments of these rich fabrics to meet the demand.

Effects can be produced in fashioning this material, impossible with any other fabric.
