NEW YORKS HIT KENNEDY,

AND DEFEAT THE BROOKLYNS IN AN EXCITING GAME.

Foutz's Men Consequently Drop Back Into Fourth Place—The Baltimores Win Again from the Quakers, and the Champions Hot Out Victory at Washington—Cincinnati Wins Twice, While Pittsburgh and St. Louis Also Win.

The Eastern teams of the League are all journeying West to-day for their first trip in that section. The Baltimore's go there with a strong lead of 30 points over the Bostons and 125 over the Pittsburghs, who are third. The victory of the New Yorks over the Brooklyns yesterday served to push Foutz's men back into fourth place. Philadelphia's defeat in Baltimore caused the Quakers to drop into sixth place, where they are likely to remain, through their crippled condition. The Bostons had an easy time with the Washingtons, and go West securely in second place. The Cincinnatis won two games from the poor old Louisvilles, and St. Louis trounced the Clevelands in unexpectedly severe fashion. Pittsburgh easily beat Chicago. The results:

New York, 10; Brooklyn, 8.
Baltimore, 18; Philadelphia, 11.
Boston, 12; Washington, 5.
Cincinnati, 5; Louisville, 1 (first game).
Cincinnati, 8; Louisville 8 (second game).
St. Louis, 14; Cleveland, 3.
Pittsburgh, 9; Chicago, 4.

NEW YORK, 10; BROOKLYN, 8.

Oh, for a base hit! If the Brooklyns had made one in the ninth inning at Eastern Park yesterday the New Yorks might not have gone West gloating over a victory. The score stood 10 to 8 against Foutz's men with one out, Griffin on third, Shindle on second, and Burns at the bat. The latter had already made two safe drives and Meekin was perceptibly tired. The great crowd of 10,000 cranks held their collective breath and waited. Meekin, by a superhuman effort, struck out Burns, and Dave Foutz came forth looking like a bad man. Meekin sent him to first base on balls and then hypnotized Daily into sending a fly to Tiernan, ending the game. It was an exciting battle and looked like a cinch for the Brooklyns before play was called. Davis was sick again and Stafford had to play third base for New York. Kennedy's accountement on foot Ward's men, and for two innings he came fully up to expectations. But in the next four innings the New Yorks found out his weak points, and hit him so hard that he had to retire in favor of Daub in the seventh inning. Then with the score 8 to 3 in New York's favor, the Brooklyns began to play up hill, and by the time the ninth inning ended the, had the rooters from this side of the bridge literally sweating blood.

Fuller and Ward played beautifully in the field, while Mike Tiernan knocked out his first home run of the season. Both sides hit the ball freely, and kept the crowd in a constant frenzy. Just after the game began, Umpire Gage was taken sick and had to be relieved by Mr. Lynch of the Brooklyns and Wilson of the New Yorks, who umpired impartially and gave general satisfaction.

The New Yorks were quickly retired in the first inning, and the Brooklyns scored two runs. Daly reached first on balls and stole second. Corcoran flied to Van Haltren, and Daly scored on Tiernan's muff of Tredway's long fly. Griffin forced Tredway at third, took third on a wild pitch, and scored on Shindle's single. Doyle began the second inning for New York by taking four balls and stealing second, but the next three men were easy out. In the last half Brooklyn made another run on Kennedy's force and steal, just as Daly hit for two bases.

In the third inning the New Yorks tied the score. Meekin made a hit, and Fuller received a base on balls. On Stafford's hard hit to Corcoran Meekin scored, and Fuller ran in on a wild pitch. Doyle sent a grounder to Daly, who threw Doyle out at the plate, and as Doyle drew a throw to second Stafford stole home with the third run. The New Yorks began to size Kennedy up in the fourth inning, and took a lead of two runs. With one out, Tiernan sent the ball over Griffin's head for a clean home run. Farrell drove one to left centre for three bases and scored on Meekin's crack into the crowd in right field, yielding three bags. Fuller and Burke, however, put up flies and ended the inning.

Stafford led off the fifth with a strike-out, and Doyle put a fine single in centre, but in an attempt to make second while Daly had the ball in his hand he was easily put out. Ward made a base hit, too; but Van Haltren's fly to Tredway left the New York's captain on first. Ward's men kept on thumping Kennedy in the sixth and piled up four more runs, three of which were earned. Tiernan struck out and Farrell got four balls. The latter took third on Meekin's single and scored on Fuller's three-bagger. Meekin came home on Burke's long fly to Burns. Fuller scored on Stafford's two-bagger, and the latter crossed the plate on Doyle's a reaming triple. Shindle ended Kennedy, and Daub, who succeeded him, was a puzzle.

The Brooklyns began to climb up in the seventh, when they chalked up two runs on Daily's three-bagger, Daub's out, Corcoran's single and Tredway's three-bagger. They got another run in the eighth on Burns's double and Foutz's single. The score was 9 to 6 when the ninth began, and Tiernan added another tally to New York's total on his single, another by Farrell, and a clever double steal. Tiernan sliding across the rubber when Daly threw to Corcoran. Then came what might have been a Carlton finish by Foutz's men. Daly took his base on balls, and reached third on Corcoran's single and Van Haltren's fumble. Tredway out scored Daly, and Griffin's single sent Corcoran home. Shindle put Griffin on third with a neat double-bagger, but the hit that the Brooklyn rooters prayed for never came. The score:
