COMSTOCK MAKES A HAUL.

He Seizes More Than Thirty Thousand Books and Pictures.

Anthony Comstock concluded yesterday a crusade against contraband literature which lasted nearly a week and extended into Pennsylvania. It netted 16,000 books, 17,000 pictures, and 16,500 circulars advertising the books and pictures. In all seven men were placed under arrest.

The campaign began at Hurleyville, Ulster county, N. Y., where Frank B. Teel was arrested, and 11,400 wood cuts found at his house were seized. Then Clarence F. Stratton, who carries the mail between Fallsburg and Thompsonville, was arrested, charged with distributing the matter under cover of his mail contract. Henry Milton Upp was arrested in Philadelphia by Comstock's agents, and on Monday he was tried and sentenced to two years' imprisonment and $500 fine for sending immoral books through the mails.

On Monday afternoon Mr. Comstock went to Lancaster, Pa., where Charles Rickerson, 17 years old, and Millard M. Dellinger, proprietor of the Aurora House, were arrested. On the fifth floor of Dellinger's hotel was found a complete printing establishment on a small scale. Composing, printing, and binding were all done in the place, and thirteen varieties of books were captured. Some of these were the same as had been sold in New York and had been found in circulation at the Peekskill Academy.

Yesterday morning Mr. Comstock got up at 5 o'clock, and going to 115 South Eighth street, Brooklyn, he arrested Eugene Le Boeuf, Jr., before he was out of bed, charging him with selling unlawful reading matter. He is a bookkeeper for Samuel Bilsinger & Co., wholesale liquor dealers at 468 Sixth avenue. For some time, Mr. Comstock said, Le Boeuf had been receiving his mail at 33 Marion street, whence it was forwarded to his real address. He was formerly an actor and used his stage name in his advertisements. He prepared his own circulars, and 500 of them were found in a closet and more than 2,000 photographs. Commissioner Bellows held Le Boeuf for examination in $2,500 bail.

Yesterday afternoon, on a warrant from Judge Grady, Mr. Comstock arrested Lewis Cathomen of 174 West Fourth street. He had been selling pictures on the steps of the Jefferson Market Police Court and was arrested on the sidewalk near by. Twelve of the objectionable pictures were found in his possession.

MRS. HERZOG GOES TO LAW.

She Will Find Out Whether She Can Close Those Collender Point Roads or Not.

BRIDGEPORT, Aug. 22.—Mrs. Fanny Herzog's right to build fences across the roads which run through her property on Collender's Point will soon be settled beyond dispute, for the matter has to-day been taken to the courts. THE SUN told about a month ago of Mrs. Herzog's efforts to close two roads that run through her property at Collender's Point and the violent opposition of John D. Crimmins, the New York contractor, who owns a country place on the point. After Mrs. Herzog's carpenter had begun to build her fence Mr. Crimmins's coachman pulled up the posts, and the matter remained in that state until the action was begun to-day.

Mr. Crimmins contends that his deed from the Collender estate entitles him to the use of all the roads on the point that were open when he purchased the property. Mrs. Herzog is equally certain that the property over which the roads run were included in her deed when she purchased the land from the Collender estate two years ago. Now Mrs. Herzog's attorneys, Hart & Keeler of Stamford, who are also the attorneys for the Collender estate, have filed a complaint in the Superior Court here to restrain any interference with an attempt to build fences across the roads. The closing of the roads will compel Crimmins and the other cottagers who dwell further down on the point to use one road in place of the three which were formerly available.

Local Business Troubles.

Edgar F. Hale, wholesale grocer at 15 Jay street, made an assignment yesterday to Cromwell G. Macy, lawyer, of 261 Broadway, giving preferences for $6,525. The liabilities are about $15,000 and the nominal assets $25,000. Mr. Macy says he thinks he could pay in full if the accounts could be collected.

Peter A. Henize, dealer in butter and eggs at 832 Washington street, made an assignment to Andrew Henize, Jr., giving preferences to the Gansevoort Bank $250 and Josephine Pfeiffer $350.

An order to show cause why the People's Cold Storage and Warehouse Company, formerly at 231 and 233 East Forty-seventh street, should not be dissolved was granted by Judge Beach yesterday, returnable on Nov. 26. The company was incorporated in May, 1887, with a capital stock of $300,000, but has not done business for two years, its property having been sold out. The principal stockholders were D. Percy Morgan, William Fellowes Morgan, Thomas McLean, Elliott F. Shepard, and E. R. Martinez. The actual liabilities are about $60,000, of which there is due to William F. Morgan $49,868, D. Perry Morgan $21,894, and the Central Stable Company $9,224. There is a contingent liability of $225,000 to the trustees of the Peabody Educational Fund on bond secured by mortgage. The assets are: book accounts of $531, and doubtful claim against the Elevated Railroad Company.

Port Jervis Gas Works Purchased by a Maine Syndicate.

PORT JERVIS, Aug. 22.—The Port Jervis Gas Works, of which Congressman Francis Marvin is President, was purchased to-day for cash by a Mr. Duncan of Portland, representing a Maine syndicate. The purchase price is not made public. The capital stock of the gaslight company is $20,000, but the plant is worth double that amount. The syndicate owns a large number of gas and water works in Maine.

WEDNESDAY, Aug. 22.

The stock market to-day presented no noteworthy features, and was chiefly remarkable for its indecisive tone and the trifling character of the speculation. The volume of business fell off sharply, and Distilling and Cattle Feeding furnished nearly one third of the total transactions. There was less liquidation and less foreign selling than on yesterday, and the bears, who attempted to follow up the advantage they gained then, found stocks very difficult to borrow, except at premiums for use. The opening prices were a shade below yesterday's closing figures, and the subsequent trading resulted in a gradual recovery. In the last hour there was rather more marked strength shown, the short interest retreating on a rumor that the President had made public his intention of signing the Tariff bill. Conjectures on this last event formed the gossip of the day, and the various views held thereupon by the traders were presumably the moving influence in their operations. The strength shown by Distilling, in the face of the prevailing reports in regard to the Tariff bill, led to the conclusion that the company had at last succeeded in obtaining the needed financial accommodations. If such is the case, and no positive information could be had, the officials of the concern and their accredited local agents, not unnaturally, kept their own counsel concerning it.

Sugar certificates were relatively inactive and closed with a small net advance, as did Chicago Gas, the next most active stock. The Granger shares were unaffected by the comparatively poor showing made by the Chicago and Northwestern for July. It was argued with reason that the decreased earnings on an increased mileage were not temporary, in view of the cessation of business in that month, on account of the general strike. American Cotton Oil and New England were specially strong features. The sale under foreclosure to-day of the Oxford and Clarksville and Clarksville and North Carolina Railroads completes the sales contemplated under the plan of reorganization of the Richmond Terminal Company. The foreclosure of these two minor properties brings under one control the many separate companies heretofore embraced in the old system. When the details of the reorganization are completed by the exchange into the securities of the new company, as provided in the plan of reorganization, the properties will be represented by one issue of stock, and practically one mortgage, as only a few of the old mortgages were left undisturbed. The securities of the new company will probably be ready for issue within the next sixty days.
