Damp weather reminds us to speak of corksoled shoes and that recalls a recent incident.

A customer kindly notified us that a pair of corksoled shoes bought of us last winter, sent to a cobbler to halfsole, were said to have no cork, but only "punk" under the leather sole.

The cobbler's "punk" was a bit of anti-squeak felting; the layer of cork was under the next sole.

There are shoes with imitation corksoles, but ours are a different kind—the very best—although we sell them at $7 a pair.

May justly be proud that their skilled needlecraft, with its origin back in tradition, is now ranked with that of the Médieval lace makers. We are now displaying some of the best examples of their work which have ever come into our hands, to which we invite the attention of all interested in fine needlework. The collection includes tea and luncheon cloths, sideboard and bureau scarfs, doylies, pincushion squares, and pieces for various other uses, and those seeking something out of the common for wedding or holiday gifts may find in these just what they desire.

Those really interested in MEXICAN DRAWN WORK should have our new book, 500 designs in Mexican Drawn Work, by Mrs. Criss-Wise, sent postpaid on receipt of 50c.

Stand to reason that the Makers of shoes can sell direct to the Wearer at Less Price than the Retailer who buys his stock of the Manufacturer and pays that Manufacturer a profit. The "Korrect Shape" shoes come to you at First Cost. Our works at Brockton, Mass., are the largest and best equipped in the United States. We have our own exclusive designs. Together with these facts we are the longest established makers of Strictly Fine Shoes. Wear the "Korrect Shape" shoes.
