NEVER OWNED THE STOCK.

PORTER'S AND MARTIN'S PART IN PHILADELPHIA'S SCANDAL.

The Republican Bosses of the Quaker City Say the Mutual Automatic Telephone Company Placed Their Names on Its Stock Books Without Authority.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13.—State Senator Charles A. Porter and Republican National Committeeman David Martin were the chief witnesses at this afternoon's session of the Councilmanic Committee which is investigating the alleged disposal by the Mutual Automatic Telephone Company of $362,000 worth of its stock to Councilmen and others to secure a right-of-way ordinance. When the stock registry of the company was recently placed in evidence it was shown that 1,525 shares each were recorded in the names of Messrs. Martin and Porter, and it was to explain this evident ownership that the well-known Republican bosses were called.

Mr. Martin testified that the stock was placed in his name without his authority, that he never became interested in the company, although the refusal of from 1,000 to 2,000 shares at $10 per share had been given to him, and that he did not assist directly or indirectly in getting the Mutual ordinance through Councils. He said he was asked in July last by John P. Persch, the Treasurer of the concern, to take an interest in the company, and that the stock was then given to him. After consulting with Mr. Porter, however, and also being advised by Thomas H. Martindale, a well-known member of the Trades League, to have nothing to do with the company, Mr. Martindale saying that the patents could not be operated in Pennsylvania, Mr. Martin notified Treasurer Persch that he would not become interested. The witness declared that he had never seen nor held any of the stock.

The testimony of Senator Porter was largely corroborative of Mr. Martin's except that the use of his name in connection with the company was said to have been brought about by Treasurer Persch asking him to bid for the construction of a telephonic line. The witness, who is a contractor, testified that as the terms mentioned by Treasurer Persch were "partly cash and bonds and stock," he did not entertain the proposition and gave the company no further consideration. Like Mr. Martin, Senator Porter declared that the stock was entered in his name without his knowledge, and that he did not aid in the passage of the ordinance. The witness was also advised by Mr. Martindale to have nothing to do with the company or he might "get himself into trouble," because of the alleged patent irregularity.

A statement by Senator Porter that he had not caused his name to be effaced from the stock registry led Chairman Roberts to inquire why he had not taken this step, inasmuch as he had been advised to not become interested in the venture. To this the witness replied that he had practically banished the affair from his mind.

Lawyer William S. Price was called, and said that as he was engaged as counsellor for the company after the passage of the ordinance, he would refuse to answer questions regarding the affairs of the concern. He was excused. Charles R. Arlen, a Pinkerton detective, related his futile endeavor to engage board at the residence of Mrs. Simmons, where Julian C. Gale made his home, and that Mrs. Simmons told him that Gale had gone away to avoid giving testimony that would be damaging to the telephone company. Gale was employed as a clerk by Persch, and the blocks of stock for alleged distribution were made out in his name.

Charles W. Bergner, whose name appeared as a director of the company, was sworn, and testified that he never was a director. He never held any stock and did not know who held the shares of stock registered in the name of Julian C. Gale.

Common Councilmen Schlegelmilch Porter ton exculpated themselves, as have the other Councilmen, and the committee adjourned until Friday.

Judge Finletter in Common Pleas Court this afternoon issued an order directing Common Counsellor Shoemaker Frederick C. Siman to disclose to the Councilmanic investigating committee the name of the person for whom, as an attorney, he purchased six shares of the stock of the Mutual Automatic Telephone Company from the administrator of Hugh T. Pigott, a late Common Councilman. This will, it is believed, have an important bearing upon the investigation of the allegation that $362,000 worth of the stock waf distributed among Councilmen.

THE "BIG FOUR'S" SENTENCE.

Relief in Jersey City that It Will Be Determined To-morrow Morning.

It is expected that the Guttenberg "Big Four," Fred Walbaum, Nick Crusius, John C. Carr, and Denny McLaughlin, will learn what their fate is to-morrow morning. A branch of the Supreme Court will sit in the Court House in Jersey City, and rumor has it that the case of the "Big Four," which has been under consideration for more than a year, will be disposed of. The defendants were indicted for keeping a disorderly house in the shape of a race track at Guttenberg. They pleaded guilty, and gave bonds to appear for sentence.

It was confidently anticipated, of course, that the sentence would be a fine, but, to the great surprise of everybody, the court divided on the question. It was understood that Justice Lippincott and Law Judge Hoffman were in favor of fine and imprisonment, but Law Judge Hudspeth and Lay Judge Kenny considered that a fine alone would be sufficient punishment. Then Allan L. McDermott raised a question as to the law under which the sentence should be imposed, and to settle the matter Justice Lippincott certiorari'd the case to the Supreme Court. This will be the first time that a branch of the Supreme Court has sat in the Hudson county Court House.

ROSA COLLINS MISSING.

She Went to the Grocer's a Week Ago and Has Not Come Back.

A week ago pretty 17-year-old Rosa Collins threw a white nubia on her head and left her home in 102 Halsey street, Astoria, to go to Grocer Schluer's store, about a block from her home, to get a can of milk. She got to the store all right, but the milk can given her leaked.

"Get me another can," she said to the clerk. "I am just going up the street, and will be back in a few minutes for it."

The can was procured, but the girl has not returned. Late in the day her parents began to search the village, but no one had seen anything of her. Relatives of the family were communicated with, but no one knew anything of her. It is not known that the girl ever had any male friends, and the police are inclined to think there is some mystery about the case.

Her father, G. L. Collins, is a pilot on the Ninety-second Street Ferry. He has offered a reward for information concerning her whereabouts. The missing girl is about 5 feet 4 inches tall and has dark hair and dark eyes. She was of a quiet disposition, and a member of the Church of the Redeemer in Astoria and belonged to several societies of that church. At the time of her disappearance she wore a check plaid dress and black jacket.

THE MYSTERIOUS COTTON FIRES.

Phosphorus Probably Used in the Attempt to Burn Steamers' Cargoes.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 13.—The substance placed in the bales of cotton at Southport, waiting there to be loaded aboard the steamer Floridian, and supposed to be dynamite, proved this morning not to be that explosive. The supposed explosive was taken to the United States Court and put under a glass case. This morning when the case was examined the supposed explosive was gone. It had ignited in the night and completely burnt up, only a few ashes being left. It was a sort of Greek fireball, and its purpose was not to blow up the Floridian, but to start a fire in her hold. An analysis will be made of the ashes. Phosphorus seems to form an important ingredient.

It is thought that it offers a clue to the men who have been setting fire to ships here and at other Southern ports, about which there have been so many complaints, and an investigation of which the British Government asked. Peter Gates, who used the fire ball, is a cotton handler, but unknown here, having been in New Orleans for only a few weeks. He came here from Savannah. The most numerous cotton ship fires have been in Savannah and New Orleans.

JENNIE LEWIS, HIGHWAY ROBBER.

Convicted in Jersey City of Robbing Robert Teal of $8.

Jennie Lewis, a robust colored woman, was convicted in the General Sessions Court in Jersey City yesterday of highway robbery. Frank Teal of 152 Railroad avenue, was returning home at 2:15 A. M. on Jan. 16, and, when he was within a short distance of his house, he was struck on the back of the head with some weapon, which he supposed was a sandbag. At the same moment a woman grappled with him and robbed him of $8. He followed the woman, who ran to 128 Railroad avenue, climbed over a low picket fence, and disappeared in the hallway. Teal and two policemen found Jennie in bed. A colored man, who said he was the woman's husband, took Teal into another room and gave him the $8. The defendant denied having robbed Teal, but said she struck him because he insulted her. She was remanded for sentence.

MISS BROWER BEATEN AGAIN.

Judge Tighe Refuses to Order Edward Whitlock to Support Her Child.

Edward Whitlock, the son of a broker doing business in this city and living at 88 Ashland place, Brooklyn, was before Justice Tighe in the Butler Street Court yesterday for the purpose of determining whether he was responsible for the support of the child of Miss Mary E. Brower of 184 South Elliott place. Whitlock recently came into an inheritance. He is only 22 years old, nearly six feet tall, sturdy, and handsome. He met Miss Brower in the Hanson Place Methodist Church Sunday school and fell into the habit of visiting her at her home with great regularity.

Mrs. Whitlock declares that Miss Brower set a trap for her son, as she knew he had expectations, and Mrs. Whitlock sought to put an end to the acquaintance. With this object in view she sent the young man off on a cruise in the schoolship St. Mary's. While he was away he wrote the young woman feverishly loving letters. Whitlock called on Miss Brower again when he got off the St. Mary's, and she alleges that he seduced her under a promise of marriage. She endeavored to force him to marry her and provided a minister for the purpose. This is how young Whitlock describes his experience with the minister:

"One day I met Miss Brower, and she asked me to go to her house on important business. I went there next day, and she said I would have to marry her. I told her I would have to see my parents before I took such a step, and I went to the front door and found it locked. Mr. Faust, assistant pastor of the Hansom Place Methodist Church, was there and advised me to marry her. He told me to act like a man and treat the matter philosophically. I finally escaped from the house by the basement door and did not return."

Miss Brower sued Whitlock in Massachusetts for $10,000 damages, but the jury gave her only $400, the expenses of her confinement. Then she had him arrested and placed on examination before Justice Walsh on a charge of seduction under promise of marriage. After a prolonged hearing the magistrate decided that there was not enough evidence to prove the promise and dismissed the case. The proceedings yesterday were taken as a last resort to compel young Whitlock to pay for the baby's support. The evidence in the case was not sufficient to convince Justice Tighe that Whitlock was alone to blame for the young woman's condition, and the magistrate discharged the defendant. Miss Brower nearly fainted when she learned of the magistrate's decision.

LEGALITY OF SUNDAY BILLIARDS.

Kenney Discharged for Lack of Proof—Possibility of Another Trial.

Justice Ingraham yesterday, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, rendered a decision in regard to the opening of pool rooms on Sunday. Robert Kenney, a pool room proprietor of 90 Mott street, was tried for playing billiards in violation of section 256 of the Penal Code. Lawyer Charles G. F. Wahle had Kenney taken from the Tombs on habeas corpus proceedings. Assistant District Attorney Hennessey appeared for the prosecution. The action was a test case by the Billiard and Pool Room Keepers' Association, and Lawyer Wahle argued that pastimes such as billiards were excluded from the ban of the law. Justice Ingraham discharged Kenney on the evidence. He said:

"I do not think there is anything to hold him on the facts presented. According to my idea the Legislature did not make it a crime for a man to play billiards in his own house or in private. In case, however, it should be shown that this was a public place, open to the public, then the District Attorney can certainly go before the Grand Jury again and secure an indictment. There is not sufficient proof to that effect in this case, and it would be unjust to keep the defendant in prison."

If the District Attorney should see fit to go before the Grand Jury again, Lawyer Wahle said the case would be carried to the Court of Appeals. Messrs. Daly and Slosson were present at the hearing.

SLOSSON AND HAMMACHER TRIED.

A Decision to Be Rendered in the Court of Special Sessions To-day.

The cases of George F. Slosson and Charles Hammacher, manager for Maurice Daly, who were arrested in their billiard rooms at 948 and 1,241 Broadway respectively on Sunday, Feb. 3, were brought up for trial before Justices Hogan, Meade, and Ryan in the Court of Special Sessions yesterday. They were arrested under section 265 of the Penal Code which forbids public sports and all kinds of games that would tend to disturb the peace on Sunday.

Lawyer Peter Hendricks appeared for the defendants. He argued that there was no allegation that there was any disturbance of the peace by the people who were playing billiards on the day of the arrest in Slosson's or Daly's. The persons present were all reputable people, and there was no evidence whatever that they were disturbing the peace or had any intention of disturbing the peace.

He further set forth that Judge Ingraham had an hour previously disposed of a similar case which was brought up on habeas proceedings by dismissing it. He also quoted a case of playing ball on Sunday in 1885, which was dismissed by Judge Barnard when it was shown that there was nothing to prove a disturbance of the peace.

Lawyer Hendricks asked for an immediate dismissal of the case, but presiding Justice Hogan decided to adjourn the case until the Justices could familiarize themselves with the decisions of the higher court on the subject matter. A decision will probably be rendered to-day.

SAYS CAPT. ENNIS CLUBBED.

Capt. Christensen Charges a Brooklyn Police Captain with Abusing Him.

Capt. H. B. Christensen of 190 Broadway, Williamsburgh, asked Justice Goetting in the Lee Avenue Police Court yesterday for a warrant against Police Captain Ennis of the Stagg street station for assault. Christenson declared that the Captain clubbed him without provocation on Tuesday afternoon. The business wagon belonging to me and my partner, Mr. Selkin," said Capt. Christensen, "was at the curb in front of our sewing machine store when a truck of the Ulmer Brewing Company which came along was struck by a Ralph avenue car. The force of the collision swung the brewery truck against our wagon and it was broken to pieces.

"While I was trying to get the number of the car and the name of the motorman a man jumped off the car and ordered me away. When I asked him who he was he whipped a club out of his trousers pocket, and shouting, 'I'll show you who I am,' struck at my head with the club. I put up my left arm to protect my head, and received the blow on the arm. He aimed two more blows, which I dodged. Then I retreated, but watched him. Afterward I went up to him and demanded to know who he was. He told me he was Capt. Ennis. I demand a warrant for his arrest, as the assault was unjustifiable, and I also propose to bring the matter to the attention of Mayor Schieren."

Christensen was advised to complain to Police Commissioner Welles.

He Wronged a Girl and Killed Himself.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 13.—John S. Owens, a young artist, committed suicide in his room in Moler's Hotel some time last night by taking poison. He left a letter to his relatives explaining that remorse over his betrayal of a young woman had driven him to the act.

AWAKENING OF BABYLON.

Revivalists Work Upon Long Island Sinners with Varying Effect.

BABYLON, L. I., Feb. 13.—One of the greatest religious revivals that has been known in this section during the past half century is in progress here, and to-day the leaders marched in a body to the different saloons of the town and held short prayer meetings, and afterward held an open air meeting in the village square. The services, which have been in progress for some weeks, are being conducted by Evangelist E. K. Cressey of Brooklyn, assisted by Pastors George Adams of the Methodist Church and John D. Long of the Presbyterian Church. The meetings, it was alleged, were a trifle dull before the arrival of Evangelist Cressey, and the interest was rapidly falling off. Immediately upon the latter's arrival the entire village seemed fierce with religious enthusiasm, and the churches were packed each evening.

The first saloon visited by the exhorters today was the East End Hotel, of which Tierney & Stanton are proprietors. The exhorters were well received, and after holding a brief meeting went to the Washington Hotel, conducted by Alonzo Matthias, near the station. Quite a crowd had collected there. At the close of the meeting a jolly old fellow surprised Dominie Long by tapping him on the shoulder and saying: "Take something." The dominie turned pale and politely declined. The faintest kind of a smile played about his mouth.

The leaders of the revival left the hotel and went down town, where the open-air revival was held. A small organ was produced, and while one played others sang and preached. A sensationally worded invitation was sent out to the male portion of the community to-day, inviting them to attend a meeting at the Presbyterian church, commencing at 9 o'clock. The invitation winds up: "Come prepared to make a night of it."

A GENERAL SCHOOL SCHEME.

A Company Incorporated in Jersey City Which Has a New Educational Project.

Articles of incorporation of the "Condon School" were filed in the County Clerk's office in Jersey City yesterday. The Condon School is a new educational project. The articles of incorporation declare that it is organized for the purpose of building and maintaining schools in cities throughout the country, in which will be provided a classical, mathematical, technical, or general education. Regular courses of lectures will be established, classes will be organized and conferences and public meetings will be held, and exhibitions given with a view of promoting the interests of education.

There will be a library, reading room, and writing room in each school, and they will be provided with all the current literature, new books, magazines, and newspapers. The school will start with a capital of $100,000, divided into lots, $30,000 of preferred stock and $70,000 of common stock. The preferred stockholders are to receive seven per cent. dividends from the gross earnings, and if the project should not prove a success the preferred stockholders will have their money refunded. The incorporators are E. L. Condon, Mrs. Helen Stuart Condon, and Frederick W. Robinson of this city, and Louis A. Chandler of East Orange, N. J.

EX-SENATOR CULLEN INSANE.

An Order Granted at His Wife's Request for His Removal to Bloomingdale Asylum.

Judge McAdam of the Superior Court granted a commment yesterday for the removal to the Bloomingdale Insane Asylum of ex-Senator John J. Cullen, who lives at 219 East Thirty-ninth street. The order was granted upon the application of his wife, based upon the certificates of Drs. Abbott Hodgeman, the family physician, and Allen Fitch, the expert in insanity.

Ex-Senator Cullen is 70 years old. He first showed signs of mental trouble about ten weeks ago. The physicians say that he is in poor bodily condition, is violent, dangerous, destructive, and excited at times, and not a fit person to be at large.

Dying of Cigarette Poisoning.

TRENTON, Feb. 13.—Richard Young, a fourteen-year-old boy, is at the point of death, due it is said by his physician, to excessive cigarette smoking. He has been in the habit of smoking several packages a day for more than a year, and resisted all attempts made to break him of the habit. Yesterday he had convulsions seven times, and to-night there are no hopes of his recovery.

WEDNESDAY, Feb. 13.

To-day's stock market was very nearly a duplicate of yesterday's. The only differences were that the volume of trading to-day was a little smaller and the tone of the market heavier. This last was due in part to a break of over 5 points in the price of American Tobacco. The dealings in that stock were unusually large and plainly reflected liquidation, which was currently attributed to dissensions in the management. This was really the only feature of the market, and though it may have affected speculative sentiment a little, dissatisfaction with the attitude of Congress toward financial measures depresses the Street to a degree that is actually painful.

Gold to the amount of $1,025,000 was deposited at the Assay Office to-day on account of the Government purchase of specie, making the total amount deposited $5,415,000. The publication to-morrow morning of the terms of the contract between the Government and the syndicate may result in the Street's taking a more cheerful view of the operation than it has up to the present time.

Final sales compare with those of yesterday as follows:
