the depositor or holder, have increased from $725,000,000 in 1866 to $6,189,000,000 in 1907, and public confidence in our national banking system has grown with each year. Whenever such currency is put into circulation and becomes a liability of the bank some good asset, presumably the note of a solvent customer, goes into the assets of the bank, thereby offsetting the liability. There is no fear to be apprehended from a possible maximum issue under the proposed plan.

"It is assumed and asserted in some quarters that such a currency would redound greatly to the advantage of the speculative market in the city of New York—'Wall street.' This is quite erroneous. The New York stock exchange has a clearing-house of its own, based upon the same principles as the clearing house for banks; and brokers instead of paying for all the stock they buy and receiving pay for all the stock they sell, report to this clearing house and settle for the balances. The stock exchange, produce exchange, cotton exchange, all the exchanges dealing in commodities, as well as all the varied interests of any considerable magnitude in the city of New York, have a currency of their own—the certified check. Actual money or currency in any form, is practically unknown in the city of New York in any transaction except of a retail character. The bank check performs the function of payment, and if the amount reaches into the thousands the check is certified. It is a perfect currency, it is elastic, responding in volume to any demand; it is predicated upon the credit of the parties to the transaction. Its redemption is speedy and it is unvexed by arbitrary laws. It is not subject to government interference, it is absolutely responsive to the demand of trade and without it the commerce of that great city would be impossible; and, except for supplying the retail demands incident to every community, it answers every purpose.

"The proposed currency would not be usable between banks in the city of New York. Balances at the clearing house in that city can be settled only in gold or silver or their representative and legal tender money. The present bank notes are not available for such purpose. Whenever the present bond secured bank notes come into the possession of New York banks they send them to the United States treasury for redemption and receive in exchange legal tender money, which counts as part of their reserve. One hundred and thirty-six million, two hundred and fifty-two thousand, three hundred and sixty dollars ($136,252,360) national bank notes were so presented for redemption by the banks of the city of New York last year.

"I call attention to these facts and circumstances in order to show that New York has no greater comparative interest in the proposed note issue than any other locality. When the interior demand for currency is strong, New York banks can issue and ship such notes to their interior correspondents, and by so doing satisfy the commercial demands without impairing their reserve money. Such notes, if issued in small denominations, would undoubtedly come into use for the purpose of the retail trade. Under the proposed plan banks would pay out their own notes and present the notes of other banks for redemption, and the fact can not be too strongly emphasized, that with ample facilities for redemption inflation is impossible. The notes would remain in use only to serve a business need, and so long as they served such need they would be promoting the interests of all, and when the demand slackened, they should and would, logically and naturally, seek the nearest point of redemption. I believe such a currency would materially serve the public interest, relieving and preventing the periodical stringencies which occur under existing laws.

"No currency system can relieve such a money stringency as exists at the present time for the reason that it is more a question of mobile capital than currency. This is evidenced by the fact that practically the same condition of money stringency exists throughout the world."

TEN MEN CONTROL PRICE OF NECESSITIES OF LIFE

A Chicago dispatch to the Omaha World-Herald follows:

Investigation of the packing trust now under way by government officials is alleged to have developed that ten men in Chicago compose the dynamic force that control prices from those of meat on the hoof and shoes, and from breadstuffs to cattle transportation. These ten men are asserted to hold the balance upon the world's supply of the commonest necessities of life:

J. Ogden Armour, E. F. Swift, Ira N. Morris, Thomas E. Wilson, S. A. McRoberts, L. F. Swift, Edward Morris, T. J. Connors, Arthur Meeker, Lawrence A. Carton.

The most casual newspaper reader will readily recognize the list as being from the inside of the big packing plants of Chicago. That fact becomes significant when it is stated that they are all directors of the same corporation—the National Packing company, organized under the laws of New Jersey, with a capitalization of $115,000,000. The directorate controls the following:

The price of meat to all consumers.
The price of cattle to all breeders.
The price of leather to all factories, and thus incidentally:
The price of shoes.
The grain trade is controlled, and, it follows:

The price to bread.
Thus without taking such endless details as the fertilizer market, where the trust controls the price that a farmer pays for his fertilizer, it appears that the latest fight of the government in the trust field is directed to the two chief essentials of life—bread and meat.

That the big ten at Chicago has

Catarrh of The Stomach

A Most Dangerous Disease, Which Causes Serious Results, Unless Properly Treated

Catarrh of the Stomach is very common and is known as one of the most obstinate diseases, which, when neglected or improperly treated with cheap patent medicines, tonics, drugs, pills, and other secret quack remedies results in a broken down constitution and often consumption and death.

Catarrh of the Stomach, like every other disease of the stomach, except cancer, is the result of poor digestion. The digestive organs have become weak, there is a lack of gastric juice, your food is only half digested, and as a result you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure and fullness after eating, heartburn, vomiting, waterbrash, tenderness at pit of stomach, slimy tongue, bad taste in the mouth, constipation, pain in limbs and face, sleeplessness, nausea, belching of gas, diarrhoea, sick headaches, dizziness, mental depression, nervous weakness, and many other common symptoms.

If your stomach cannot digest the food you eat, then the stomach needs a rest, as that is the only way you can get rid of your catarrh, but in the meantime your body needs plenty of nourishment, because you must live and in order to live you must eat, and if you must eat, your food must be properly digested, and if your stomach is too weak to do the work, then you must get a substitute that will do the work.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the only known substitute that will digest your food as well as any healthy stomach. They contain vegetable and fruit essences, aseptic pepsin (gov. test), golden seal and diastase, the very elements necessary to digest all foods.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not a secret remedy and for that very reason thousands of physicians all over the United States recommend them to their patients for catarrh of the stomach, dyspepsia of all kinds, and other stomach troubles. Experiments and tests have proven that one grain of the active principle contained in these tablets will digest 3,000 grains of food.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are in the form of pleasant tasting tablets or lozenges and are sold in large fifty-cent boxes at all drug stores.

Send us your name and address and we will send you a free sample package. The relief you will get from the trial package alone will convince you of the merits of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.
