BAD BASEBALL PLAYING.

NEW YORKS GO TO PIECES BEFORE A GREAT CROWD.

They Roll Up Fourteen Errors, and Boswell Gives Twelve Bases on Balls, So That the Cincinnatis Have a Picnic—This Defeat Puts the Locals in Eighth Place—Brooklyn Beats Louisville, and All of the Other Eastern Clubs Win—Gossip.

The New Yorks have dropped from sixth to eighth place. They were beaten by Cincinnati yesterday because they played minor league ball, and Boswell's pitching was very amateurish. Their percentage is .512, or twelve points ahead of the Brooklyn, who took a ball from the easy Louisvilles. Boston beat Cleveland by a run, and Baltimore took second place by whitewashing St. Louis, while the Pittsburghs lost to Philadelphia. The Chicagos were beaten at Washington. The results:

Cincinnati, 16; New York, 2.
Brooklyn, 10; Louisville, 8.
Boston, 6; Cleveland, 5.
Philadelphia, 16; Pittsburgh, 6.
Baltimore, 5; St. Louis, 0.
Washington, 9; Chicago, 3.

CINCINNATI, 16; NEW YORK, 2.

When a pitcher gives twelve bases on balls and his players roll up fourteen errors the chances are that the other club wins. This was the case with the New Yorks at the Polo grounds yesterday, and Buck Ewing wore a smile a yard wide as his Cincinnati scholars went to their hotel. As bad Clarke thought he might be taking chances with his valuable right arm, Collegian Boswell was sent into the box. The tall boy from Pennsylvania received the most discouraging support, but that does not excuse him for giving a schoolboy exhibition. He gave an even dozen bases on balls, had two wild pitches, and fielded his position like a backwoods amateur. Whenever he did manage to get the ball over the plate, the Cincinnatis banged it for keeps, and his delivery was so slow that they stole as many as twelve bases during the agonizing contest. But Boswell blundered further when he grew angry at the jests of the crowd, and threatened to "do" a boy in the grand stand, besides delivering an anarchistic lecture to a crowd of loafers who followed him to the club house. Altogether, he showed that he was in too fast company.

It always seems to be the case that on a Saturday or holiday the New Yorks play their worst. Ten thousand persons saw the alleged exhibition yesterday and were disgusted. The home team never played such an awful game in the field, while at the bat the men, barring one or two, were like sticks. Park Wilson was about the only member of the team who played real baseball, and he was continually complimented for his superb catching and throwing. The visitors didn't make an error, and in striking contrast to the home team played a game that was brimful of ginger.

Latham opened for Cincinnati with a base on balls, but the only Buck put up a fly that Fuller neatly caught. Then "Lath" stole second and third, while McPhee walked to first. Miller shot a single to left, Latham scoring and McPhee reaching third. Miller stole second, and both he and McPhee scored on a neat right-field hit by Smith.

Boswell sent Hogriever to first in the second, and the latter stole second on Wilson's high throw, which Fuller stopped in great shape. "Hog" also stole third and Latham got four balls, although it appeared that Boswell struck him out. "Lath" dashed for second, and, as Boswell threw wildly, Hogriever scored.

McPhee got four bad ones in the third, and was caught off first, but Schriver's wild throw allowed him to reach second. Another poor throw by Boswell let McPhee go to third and Miller's single brought him home. Wilson threw Miller out at second and Smith fled to Van, but Hoy got a base on balls, Schriver let Merritt's easy grounder go through his legs, Stafford fumbled Parrott's grounder, and Hoy scored. Merritt came in on Parrott's error of second by beating Stafford's throw, and Hogriever ended the agony by fanning.

Latham put a hit in left in the fourth and reached second on Burke's fumble. "Lath" stole third just as Buck got a base on balls. Farrell made a great stop and throw of McPhee's hot one, but Miller made his third single, bringing in two runs. Fuller threw Smith out on a ball that Stafford failed to stop, and Wilson nailed Miller at third.

In the fifth Hoy took four balls and ran to second on a wild pitch. Merritt flied to Van and Hoy advanced to third. Then Parrott walked on four bad ones, and as he stole, Hoy ran in.

The crowd began to jeer in derision when Schriver got four balls in the sixth, and they kept it up when Farrell forced Hill at second. There was more jeering as Van struck out, but when Jim Stafford sent a liner into the right field seats for a home run there was a wild shout for joy. Wilson planked a hit in left, but Boswell was third out on an easy one to Hoy. These were New York's only runs.

Fuller made a good stop of Parrott's grounder in the seventh, but threw low, and "Tacks" was safe. Hogriever singled, and Latham bunted. Boswell threw the ball to the right field seats and two runs came in, while "Lath" went to third. Buck's finger was sore, so Spies took his place and struck out. McPhee flied to Schriver, Miller made a scratch two-bagger, and "Lath" scored. Smith's grounder was fumbled by both Fuller and Van, and Miller ran home. Hoy took his fourth base on balls, but Merritt ended the comedy by grounding to Fuller.

Parrott scratched a hit in the visitors' half of the eighth, Hogriever received four monotonous ones, and a wild pitch sent the runners along a peg each. Parrott scored on Latham's out and "Hog" crossed the plate on Spies's grounder to Stafford. The Catholic Protectory band, which was present, played far better than the local cripples. The score:

BROOKLYN, 10; LOUISVILLE, 8.

The usual half-holiday crowd was missing at Eastern Park yesterday afternoon. Louisville is not a strong drawing card, and the big race and the bicycle parade kept many away from the game. With these drawbacks 3,000 persons had the pleasure of seeing the home team win. It wasn't a victory to be proud over. While the Brooklyns only had one error they showed weakness at the bat. McDermott deserved to win the game, and with a strong team behind him he would be one of the finds of the season. The Louisvilles, notably Welch, made some bad errors. Foutz made a wise move when he warmed the bench and sent Anderson out to resume his old place in left field. Anderson has partly recovered from a "charley horse." In the seventh inning Welch hit the ball out to left field. It looked like an easy home run, but Anderson made a long run and, leaping in the air, pulled down the ball. Lucid complained of a sore neck at the end of the sixth inning, and Gumbert took his place. The latter's curves just suited the Louisvilles. They found him for a home run, two doubles, and two singles, and with three bases on balls the visitors scored five runs. Tredway was on second base in the seventh inning, and he was just about to steal third on Daly's fly to Preston when O'Brien held the base runner. Umpire McDonald happened to be looking in that direction and he sent Tredway to third. The score:

WILLIAMSTOWN, June 15.—The Williams College team won its seventh consecutive victory to-day by the defeat of Yale for the first time in six years. At the time of this writing the joyful news arrives announcing the victory of Dartmouth over Amherst at Hanover, thus assuring Williams of the championship in the Triangular College League. Williams won the game from Yale by hard hitting in the first five innings, scoring six runs in each of the first two. Yale played a clean fielding game, but lost through their inability to hit Lewis safely when hits meant runs. The game was Lewis's by right of brilliant pitching, and Williams team batted like fiends, making four triples. Lewis was effective at critical points, and only Carter and Stephenson were able to fatten his bushels. The score follows:

HARVARD, 11; NEWTON A. A., 2.

NEWTON, Mass., June 15.—The Harvard nine had no difficulty in taking their last game before the struggle with Yale, defeating the strong Newton Athletic Club nine this afternoon by hard hitting. It was Highlands against Highlands, and Addy did better than his big brother Jack, the famous Harvard pitcher of 1893. The collegians put up a steady game and landed hard on big Highlands's curves in the fifth and sixth innings. The fielding of A. Highlands was fine. Mason caught well and batted hard. The score:
