WITH THE BALL PLAYERS.

PRINCETONS MAKE THE NEW YORKS HUSTLE TO WIN.

The Tigers Tie the Score in the Ninth Inning by Hitting Up Seven Runs Off German's Pitching—The Leaguers Play a Poor Game, and are Favored by Luck.

Good fortune and the umpire saved the New Yorks from an ignominious defeat yesterday afternoon at the hands of the Princeton College team. The Tigers, with the score 10 to 3 against them when the ninth inning opened, fell upon Lester German, and before their heavy batting streak ended they had piled up seven runs and tied the score. This was so unexpected that the Leaguers for a few moments suffered from an attack of rattles and tried to browbeat the umpire, whose work, if anything, had been in their favor throughout. Then they sailed in to make one run, but it was a narrow escape from a ten-inning game at that. With Van Haltren on second and two out, German popped a fly to Smith, the Princeton second baseman, who was so excited that he muffed the ball, and Van ran home.

The game was played on the Polo grounds, and attracted about 700 spectators. The field was in excellent condition, but the weather was cold and threatening. The New Yorks played poor ball in many respects, there being few, if any, fat plays. The men were at the mercy of young Easton, the clever left-hander, who pitched during the first five innings for the Princetonians, holding the New Yorks down to five scattered singles.

Then with the totals standing 5 to 3 in favor of the professionals, Easton gave way to Wilson, whom Manager Seele of the Bostons tried to sign on Friday. Wilson has plenty of speed and puzzled Irwin's men, except in the seventh, when four hits were bunched with a couple of wild pitches and four runs were put up, giving Irwin's men what seemed to be a safe lead.

In fielding the New Yorks were slow, probably due to their lack of condition, but it became apparent early in the game that Connaughton could not begin to cover enough ground in left field. He misjudged several fly balls, and seemed to be all at sea. Gleason did not shine brightly at second base, and Pfeffer was a bit late in getting after sharp grounders. However, one game cannot be taken as a criterion, so that it may be better to await future developments. Seymore pitched very cleverly for six innings. He had lots of speed, and did not show the expected wildness. He retired seven Tigers on strikes, and let them have but seven hits. German, who succeeded him, had a straight, fast ball which was hammered for further orders.

The Princeton men must receive credit for the game, unusual cleverness in the field, and their heavy batting. Kelly, Altman, Ward, and Bradley did some of the cleanest stick work imaginable, and Ward covered short fine perfectly. Smith, at second base, did well, considering his nervousness, and Titus threw to second so accurately that he caught Van Haltren there twice with a yard to spare. The Tigers have been coached by Billy Earle, the professional, and he has instructed them in the methods used by paid players. They really outstripped the New Yorks, but because of errors in base running, they made but two or three sure runs. Judging from their general play, they should prove hard for Yale, and even more so for Harvard. Their pitchers are remarkably strong.

The New Yorks got a run in the first inning that was a pure gift. Gleason got his base on balls and was forced at second, but Smith's terrific wild throw over Kelly's head while attempting a double play allowed George Davis to hustle all the way to third. Tiernan hit a fast one to Smith, but Kelly dropped the ball and Davis came in. The wild throw was the Tigers' only error in the entire game. The Tigers could not fathom Seymore's swift shoots until the third inning, when, with one out, Ward singled and Easton followed his example. Altman forced Ward at third, and Kelly immediately stole a beautiful two-bagger to left centre, sending in two runs. In the last half of this inning, with one out, Gleason took another bases on balls, stole second, and ran in on G. Davis's single to right. The latter ran all the way to third on a passed ball, and counted on Tiernan's out.

Princeton tied the score in the fifth on singles by Altman, Kelly, and Bradley, assisted by a bad error of Gleason's. Then the New Yorks, in their half, made two runs on G. Davis's base on balls, Van Haltren's single, a double steal, and Connaughton's lucky single to right. In the seventh inning the New Yorks increased their lead by the addition of four runs, which were the result of singles by Wilson, Gleason, G. Davis, Tiernan's hit by pitcher, Connaughton's out, a wild pitch, and Harry Davis's clean base hit to centre. Another run came in during New York's eighth, due to three bases on balls and a scratch.

When the ninth opened the Tigers needed seven runs to tie the score, and the betting was 20 to 1 they wouldn't get half that number. Titus, the first man up, landed on German for a two-base hit to left. Then Ward pasted a similar drive in the same place, bringing in the first run. Pfeffer juggled Easton's sharp bounder, and Altman's cracking hard hit landed Ward across the plate. Kelly followed with a single, scoring Easton, and Bradley's double sent Altman in. Smith was thrown out by Pfeffer, and when Wilson walked to first on balls the bases were filled.

Three runs were needed to tie the score, and the little band of Princeton rooters set up a cheer of encouragement as Gunster, a peaceful-looking fellow, walked up to face the music. German wound himself up and let her go. Gunster swung at the ball with all his might, and smashed it on the trademark. Far over Connaughton's bald head the ball sailed, while the Tigers dashed around the bases. It was a clean two-bagger, and as Kelly, Bradley, and Wilson in turn dented the plate with their spikes, the rooters' enthusiasm was let loose, for the collegians had a corner on sympathy just then. The score was tied, and only one out, but there was no more run getting, as G. Davis made a magnificent running catch of Tiernan's high foul, and Van Haltren gathered in Ward's bill for a triple after a long sprint.

The New Yorkers were in anything but a pleasant mood as they came in to take their turn at the bat, and the unfortunate German was subjected to all sorts of uncomplimentary remarks from the crowd, which had climbed over into the field. Harry Davis popped a fly to Ward and sat down. Van Haltren singled, and quickly reached third on two clean steals. Fred Pfeffer struck out, and German came up for a last chance. He hit a short fly to Smith, who was trembling like a leaf, and when the leather slipped through his fingers Van Haltren had scored the winning run. It was practically a Princeton victory, and Irwin's men knew it just as well as anybody. The score:

NEWARK, 18; PAWTUCKET, 1.

NEWARK, April 11.—"Phenomenal" Smith's New England League team from Pawtucket, R. I., received a severe drubbing to-day from Newark's Atlantic League team, who had on their batting clothes, especially when a hit counted. The fielding of both teams was at times ragged, due in a measure to the cold weather. The battery work of the home team was generally fine, while that of the visitors was not quite up to the mark. This was undoubtedly the fault of Foster, who allowed twelve of the Newarks to face him in the ninth inning without a hit. They would probably have been retired had not Manager Smith taken him out. The same teams play again to-morrow and Monday. The score:

LYNN, 20; SPRINGFIELD, 2.

LYNN, April 11.—The Boston league team had little trouble in defeating the home team here this afternoon. The home team was made up of players selected from the Bostons' reserves, and was led by Jim O'Rourke, the veteran player. The Boston men were out for base hits, and got good pounding. Capt. Duffy and Long had a chance, but the Springfielders were unable to find the ball on any of them. The score:

COLUMBIA '98, 23; BARNARD, 8.

The Columbia sophomores defeated the Barnard School yesterday at Columbia oval. The features of the game were the batters work of Fisher and Hill for Columbia and the fielding of Seitz for Barnard. As a whole the fielding of both teams was poor, and Barnard was very weak at the bat. The score:

LAFAYETTE, 9; RUTGERS, 8.

EASTON, April 11.—Lafayette and Rutgers played a most exciting game of ball here this afternoon. Lafayette led for four innings, then Rutgers, owing to errors, managed to tie on four runs, and filled the bases, when Rosencrantz incident a homer bringing in four more. In the next inning Rutgers took the lead, but Lafayette finally drew ahead. The game opened the season in Pennsylvania. The score:

BALTIMORE, 6; TEXAS STEERS, 1.

BALTIMORE, April 11.—Only 500 persons welcomed the Orioles when they made their first appearance in the home grounds to-day. It had rained at intervals all afternoon, and the weather was cold and threatening, and the grounds soggy and unfit for ball playing. The Orioles presented their regular nine and defeated Hanlon, but the local ground interfered with the batting and base running. Sullivan's Steers played a very good game. The score:

Baltimore	0 1 1 0 0 2 2 0 —6

Hits—Baltimore, 11; Texas Steers, 7. Errors—Baltimore, 1; Texas Steers, 8. Batteries—Corbett and Robinson, Gray and Bowerman. "Bullet-proof Ned" and Hodge.

HARTFORD, 5; TRINITY, 3.

HARTFORD, April 11.—The Trinity College baseball team opened the season on the home grounds to-day with a game with the Hartford Atlantic League team. Although the visitors won there was no time up to the end of the game that Trinity did not have a good chance for victory. In the field the Hartfords were clearly outplayed, but had only slightly the advantage of the college boys at the bat. Coggeshall, Trinity's left-handed pitcher, puzzled the Hartford batters so that their hits were too scattered to bring many runs. He was caught by Wilson, who pitched the first four innings for Hartford and bukes the remainder of the game. Bottenus caught both pitchers. The score:

The Belmont A. C. of Harlem would like to arrange games with clubs of players averaging 17 or 18 years old, out of town clubs offering a suitable guarantee preferred. Address J. O'Donnell, 1,313 Amsterdam avenue.

PITTSBURGH, April 11.—Next Monday will be "Harry Wright Day" among the National League of baseball clubs, and all receipts from games played on that day will go toward erecting a monument to the memory of Harry Wright. A. G. Spalding and George Wright, brother to Harry, passed through Pittsburgh to-day en route to Rockford, Ill., where they will on Monday play in a game of old-fashioned baseball between men who were prominent in the ranks between 1860 and 1870. Among them will be Al Platt of this city, who pitched for the old Forest City team of Cleveland, and Jim White of Buffalo.

NEW HAVEN, April 11.—Plans for "Harry Wright Day" among the professional baseball nines of Connecticut are completed. There will be three games in the State. Manager Ted Sullivan's New Haven team will meet James O'Rourke's nine at Bridgeport, the Bostons of the National League will play the Springfield nine, at Derby, and the Hartfords will probably play the Meridens.

Joe Hornung's son, nineteen months old, died yesterday morning.

To-morrow, "Harry Wright Day," the New Yorks will play the Metropolitans at the Polo grounds. The Bostons will umpire and all of the players under contract will take part in the game. The entire receipts will be turned over to the Harry Wright memorial fund. The public should turn out in good numbers.

German's showing will probably result in his transfer to the Metropolitans, so a club official said last night.

Arthur Irwin admits that Stafford can play the outfield better than anybody under contract to the New York club. Connaughton will have to improve two fold to hold his place.

A strong team has been organized to represent the New York Custom House, under the management of George A. Chapman. The team will play on Wednesdays and Saturdays during May. Address George A. Chapman, P. O. box 2,450.

BOWLING.

Dodge & Olcott Win First Prize in Wholesale Drug Trade Tournament.

The Dodge & Olcott bowlers settled all doubts as to which team would win first prize in the Wholesale Drug Trade Association tournament by taking two games at Reid's alleys yesterday afternoon. In the game against Merck & Co. the Dodge & Olcott players had fifteen splits, but were enabled to win, as their opponents missed numerous easy spares. There was a decided improvement in the work of the new champions when they attacked the pins against R. W. Robinson & Son. The latter five were beaten by 137 pins. The scores:
