

MR. BRYAN'S BOOK

The Old World and Its Ways

HIS TOUR AROUND THE WORLD AND JOURNEYS THROUGH EUROPE

Interesting and Instructive Story of Tour

The journey around the world, of which this book is an illustrated and descriptive record, embraced a period of nearly one year. It was a trip to the East by way of the West, and covered practically the civilized world. It was made under the most favorable auspices for observation, for procuring facts, and for study.

Mr. Bryan entered upon his journey after participating in two spirited presidential campaigns as the candidate of his party, and his reception by people of all classes, by those high in civil, official and military life, can be regarded as a high compliment to every American and believer in American institutions. The sources of information given him were exceptional.

Mr. Bryan describes men and things that interested him wherever he went. He gives his impressions of the world's nations—their rulers and inhabitants. He made a special study of systems of government, religious conditions, trade methods, education and monetary systems, and the characteristics of all the people. He portrays, in short, the peoples of the earth as they are today, and as he saw them on the highways and byways. His book will prove of profoundest interest to every reader, and is a work of untold educational value. It should find a place in every home library, and be read by every member of the family. The narrative of this journey will interest every one who reads and thinks.

It will interest the student of governments and of governmental institutions.

It will interest the financier, and everyone interested in the financial systems and theories, because Mr. Bryan looked into the monetary methods of the governments he visited. He outlines these methods and presents his conclusions in a way to specially entertain and instruct.

It will interest the commercial world, because of the detailed information he gives concerning commercial methods of all countries.

It will interest the farmer, because the tillers of the soil, primitive in method and laborious in manner, received his attention, study and comparison of methods with our own.

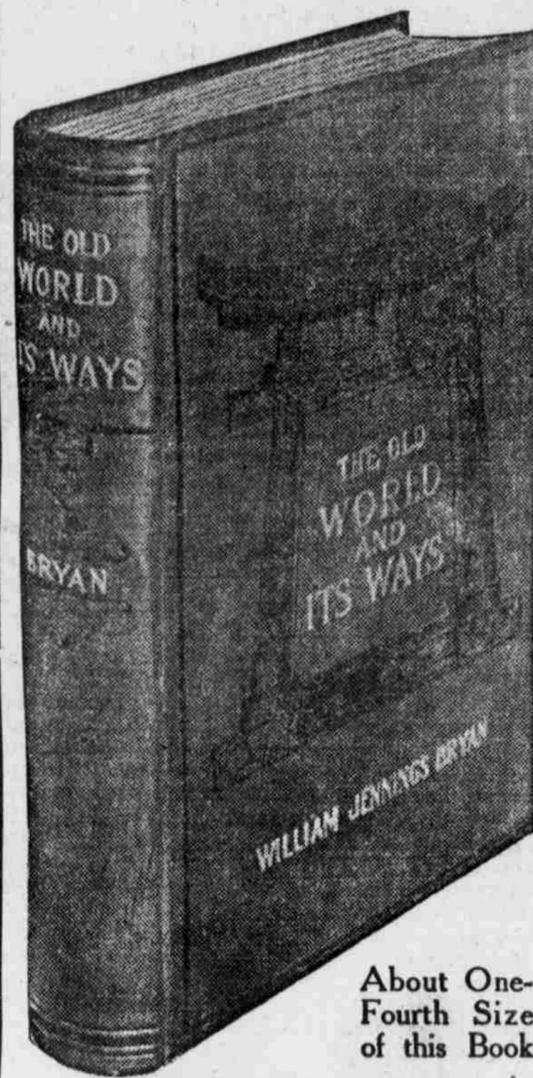

It will interest the minister, the theological student, the church member, because he made a study of the religions of the various countries he visited—theories and practices—and he gives them to the reader with a clearness and simplicity of phrase that will interest and inform all.

It will interest the foreign-born citizen, because it gives, in Mr. Bryan's own words, the story of his visits to the rulers, the high and the lowly, and the beautiful spots of their native land, with faithful illustrations of noted scenes and pictures of prominent countrymen.
