GLEASON CUTS OUT HIS AXES.

Chops Down Some Posts in Front of the Ferry and Announces Other Raids.

Mayor Patrick Jerome Gleason of Long Island City, candidate for Mayor of Greater New York, whetted his battle axe yesterday morning and took a whack at his old adversary, the Long Island Railroad. Shortly before 11 o'clock six men carrying big axes assembled in front of the Mayor's office at 112 Front street. A crowd soon gathered. Then the Mayor drove up in one of the city wagons. The workmen lined up. Toward the Hunter's Point entrance to the Thirty-fourth street ferry moved the procession. About 100 feet out from the ferry gates three big yellow pine posts about five feet tall and sixteen inches square, were anchored in the street paving. They were placed at intervals of about twenty feet apart as guides for teams in passing into and out of the ferry. In front of these posts the Mayor and his axmen halted. Two men were told off to each post and then the chips began to fly. From his wagon the Mayor directed the fight. No one appeared from the railroad to molest the raiders, and they plied their axes undisturbed. The wood was tough and the axes dull, and the workmen, apparently more used to digging trenches than swinging axes, made little headway.

For a block or so around the ferry everybody quit their work and assembled to witness the demolition. The posts were soon toppled over and were left close to the stumps where they fell.

While the work was going on the Mayor announced other raids he had in view. He said the soft coal smoke nuisance on the railroad would have to be abated or he would make the railroad yard and arrest every fireman and engineer he found aboard a smoking locomotive. He had notified the railroad company to this effect and was simply waiting the answer. The Standard Oil Company will also receive his attention if it does not abate the smoke nuisance as directed. Gleason says the forty-foot house stands six inches on city property, but he does not propose to disturb the building at present.

No effort was made by the railroad company to interfere with the raid. Officials of the company said Gleason and his men could chop away until they were tired out.

THEIR YACHT WENT DOWN.

Narrow Escape of Three Men from Drowning in the Sound.

SOUTH NORWALK, Oct. 19.—The schooner yacht Belle of New York sunk in the Sound off Norwalk harbor at an early hour this morning. Three New Yorkers, her owner and two friends, had a narrow escape from drowning. For nearly six hours they were buffeted around in a small boat by the heavy seas. They only saved themselves by constantly bailing the water from the boat, and when they reached this city they were nearly exhausted by their efforts.

The three men were Frederick Stillman and N. Martenson of New York and Capt. John Damers of Damers & Durling, shipbrokers at 88 Wall street, New York. They left New York on Saturday on the Belle, which is a sixty-foot schooner yacht, owned by a friend of Stillman's, Edward Coles, a John street jeweller, who lives in Brooklyn. The men intended to be gone a week. They left Huntington harbor, L. I., on Monday, but the weather was so rough that they decided to put back again. This they were unable to do, so they set out for Bridgeport. At 11 o'clock in the night, when near the Sheffield Island light, the yacht, which was tearing along at a good rate in the heavy wind, struck a bit of wreckage, which stove a hole in her side. She began to fill, and the three men jumped into a small boat and rowed away. A few minutes later they saw the yacht sink. The men were in a sorry condition when they landed here.

SWINDLED A BROKER.

A Brooklynite Under Sentence for Another Crime Arrested.

WILLIAM J. Hazard, 41 years old, of 91 Norwood avenue, Brooklyn, was arraigned in Centre Street Court yesterday by Central Office Detective Flay, on a charge of being a suspicious person. Flay told Magistrate Wentworth that Hazard had been arrested for swindling a Wall street broker out of a large amount of money. He added that Hazard was under sentence of one year in prison for passing boomerang checks, but was out on bail of $2,500 pending an appeal.

Magistrate Wentworth remanded Hazard to the Tombs for examination to-day.

Large Increase in P. O. Money Orders.

In addition to the quarterly report, recently published in THE SUN, showing the large increase in the money order business of the General Post Office, Auditor Thomas A. Jardines has prepared a supplemental statement which exhibits an equally remarkable gain at the branch and sub-stations. During the last quarter there were 106,280 money order transactions, representing $1,229,981.85 at the branch stations, as against 97,974 transactions amounting to $1,181,882.46 during the corresponding period in 1896, an increase of 8.25 per cent. At the sub-stations during the last quarter the transactions numbered 19,669, and the amount was $190,708.81. This is an increase of 32.35 per cent. over the corresponding quarter of last year.
