TOOK POISON IN BROADWAY

A NURSE KILLS HIMSELF WITH CARBOLIC ACID.

Last Rites of the Church Administered Before He Dies—Known Apparently by Several Names—Denounced at a House He Had Worked at for Involving It in Notoriety.

At 9 o'clock last night a young man took hold of a lamppost at Thirty-fourth street and Broadway to support himself and said to Policeman McQueeney, who stood near by, that he had taken carbolic acid. Then he fell unconscious. The policeman carried him into a neighboring drug store and sent for a priest and an ambulance. The priest arrived in time to administer the last rites of the Church, but the doctor was too late. The suicide was dead within fifteen minutes.

His body was taken to the West Thirtieth street police station and searched. In his pockets were letters addressed to Mrs. A. L. Eastland and to Miss Mitchell, both of 41 West Forty-fifth street. They were sealed but not stamped. There was also a letter addressed to John Hugh Vanderbeck and signed by Mrs. Eastland. It said: "If I have ever done you the smallest good I am glad. Be true to yourself and you will be true to the world. Good-by."

In the same envelope was a letter of recommendation, setting forth that Vanderbeck was a good servant. There was also a letter from the New York Port Society, written by one Campbell, recommending as a faithful employee John Hugo Beck. Still another recommended John Burke as a splendid masseur. It was dated Ambler, Pa., and signed by Max F. Thiel. Those desiring city references were referred to Mrs. B. H. Franklin, 24 Clinton street.

Policeman McQueeney went to 41 West Forty-fifth street with the letters. He was accompanied by a reporter. The two were admitted by a French woman, who refused to talk about the matter until threatened with arrest. She said that Miss Eastland was too ill to be seen. Miss Mitchell came into the room, but the French woman would not let her speak. The French woman explained that Vanderbeck had been employed by Mrs. Eastland as a nurse up to a month ago, when he was discharged because he was no longer needed. Why he should kill himself she did not know, she said.

"He was a contemptible cur, at any rate," she added, "to involve this house in his death."

"Was he in love with any one?"

"All men are fools, especially over women. He was an idiot like the rest."

The young woman at last refused to speak further, and refused to call Dr. Francis M. Frazier, who, she said, was master of the house. The policemen would not allow the women to open the letters addressed to Mrs. Eastland and Miss Mitchell. They were sent to the Coroners' office and the body to the Morgue.

Vanderbeck, or whatever his name may be, was a German, about 33 years old, and rather good looking.

B. A. R. READY TO TAKE UP ARMS.

Patriotism and Politics Combine to Make the Annual Meeting a Lively One.

It was long after midnight before the Sons of the American Revolution, who held their annual meeting and election last night at the Windsor Hotel, found out definitely whom they had elected as officers. The voters belonged to the Empire State Society of the order, and the fight was against the party in power. At midnight the latter party claimed, in the absence of returns, that it had won by at least two votes to one for the opposition. Four men's election was assured beyond doubt because nobody opposed them. They were Chauncey M. Depew, who ran for President; Robert B. Roosevelt, Walter S. Logan, and John C. Calhoun, the candidates for the three Vice-Presidencies. The opposition made a fight on the managers and the delegates to the National Congress.

W. H. Kelly of Newburg, N. Y., introduced a resolution which declared that the members of the society "volunteered their services" in case of war between the United States and Spain. This was adopted, but later was withdrawn upon the protest of several members that it wasn't exactly the thing to volunteer to fight until war had been declared.

The society passed resolutions deploring the loss of the Maine and her gallant sailormen.

JAMES YORK STABBED.

He is One of Many Who Claim to Be Relatives of Commissioner York.

James York, 20 years old, of 460 Hudson avenue, and Christopher Daly, 21 years old, of 64 Lafayette street, Brooklyn, attended a dance at Uris's dancing academy, on Fulton street, Monday night, and quarrelled over a girl. When they reached the sidewalk Daly stabbed York in the left arm. The wound is slight. Daly was arrested, and pleaded guilty in the Adams Street Court yesterday morning. He was committed to jail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

The policeman who made the arrest informed Magistrate Teale that York had said he was related to Police Commissioner York.

"Mr. York must have a great many relatives," said the Magistrate, "for scarcely a day passes that some one does not come before me with a similar statement."

4,000 BUTTER MEN.

They Are All in Topeka Attending Their National Convention.

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 22.—The National Convention of the Buttermakers and Creamery Men opened to-day. Special trains from New England and New York brought several hundred delegates. Exhibits of dairy products and dairy machinery are abundant and much interest is manifested. Four thousand delegates are here from all sections of the country. Secretary Nisseley says the past year has seen the creamery business increase 30 per cent. in the United States and that this increase is largely in the Western agricultural States.

BRIDGE TROLLEY CARS OPPOSED.

Another Suit Threatened by the Manufacturers' Association of Brooklyn.

The Manufacturers' Association of Brooklyn has decided to bring new legal proceedings to prevent the operation of trolley cars on the bridge without awaiting the decision of the Court of Appeals in the two suits before it. The Committee on Bridges and Tunnels has reported to the association that the bridge trolley scheme has proved an utter failure and is a constant menace to life and limb and a serious impediment to traffic over the structure.

GAS THE CHEAPEST POWER.

In the Engineering Magazine for February Mr. Dugald Clerk writes interestingly of the way in which the economy and efficiency of the large gas engine have been made greater by successive improvements. Already the gas engine will do with one pound of coal what it takes the steam engine two or two and one-half pounds to do, and, as Mr. Clerk says, "there can be little doubt that in ten years gas engines of 1,000 horse power will be as common as engines of 100 horse power are now." This only shows how firmly the engineering world is persuaded that the commercial and industrial use of gas is bound to expand. Gas furnishes a power which can be demonstrated to be the highest thermo-dynamic efficiency of coal yet attained, and it is so easily distributed, so saving of space and labor and time, so convenient and effective that it plainly has an immense future before it. —Adv.

TEN YEARS FOR BOY MURDERER.

Barcia Waited Three Years to Kill the Man Who Killed His Father.

In the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court yesterday Peter Barcia, the 19-year-old boy who killed Frank Cassata last August, pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the second degree. His counsel, Stephen J. O'Hare, made a plea for clemency and referred to the fact that the man killed by young Barcia had killed Barcia's father three years ago.

"In passing sentence upon you, young man," said Justice Fursman, "I will take into account your youth and also the fact that the man you shot killed your father. If you were older than you are and the circumstances had been less provocative, I would sentence you to the full term provided by the law, for the sanctity of human life must be respected. But you are young. Your life is yet before you. The sentence of this court is that you be confined in the State prison for a term of ten years. I would send you to the Elmira Reformatory but for the fact that its management does not coincide with my views."

Cassata killed young Barcia's father 3½ years ago, when the boy was 16 years old. At that time, it is said, Barcia swore to avenge the murder of his father. He attended the trial of Cassata daily, and those who know a great deal about the vendetta that had been declared say that young Barcia waited daily with a pistol in his pocket to see whether Cassata would escape punishment for the murder of the elder Barcia. Cassata was convicted of manslaughter in the first degree for the murder of Barcia, but his lawyer managed to get a new trial for him, and it was while he was out on bail that young Barcia killed him.

Young Barcia can earn a commutation of three years and six months by good behavior, so that in reality his sentence is only six years and six months.

AN 8-YEAR-OLD CRIMINAL.

Leads a 12-Year-Old Boy Astray—Arrested for the Second Time in a Fortnight.

Eight-year-old Herman Froelick of 427 West Thirty-fifth street and Francis Regendahe, 12 years old, of 454 Ninth avenue, were arraigned yesterday in the West Fifty-fourth Street Police Court, charged with attempting to rob Augusta Markholf's store at 515 Eighth avenue.

Mrs. Markholf said that the two boys came to her store, and that while Regendahe attracted her attention by pretending to select a penny's worth of candy from the show case Froelick stole around the end of the counter to the money drawer, which he was trying to open when she nabbed him. At the woman's request both boys were arrested by a policeman of the West Thirty-seventh street station.

When they were arraigned Regendahe cried and told Magistrate Cornell that the 8-year-old boy had led him astray. Froelick did not cry and had nothing to say. They were held for further examination.

Froelick was arraigned two weeks ago, charged with breaking store windows, and at that time was held in $100 bonds for his good behavior.

TO THY MAY KELLARD AGAIN.

For Larceny This Time—She Has Become a Voluminous Writer.

In Part III. of the Court of General Sessions May Kellard will be put on trial to-day on an indictment charging her with grand larceny. She was recently tried on a charge of forging the name of Mrs. Virginia Wood to promisory notes, but her defence was that the notes had been given to her by Mrs. Wood's husband, who had represented also to May, in the course of their acquaintance, a brownstone house and more than $100,000 worth of diamonds.

The specific charge against her now is that she purchased a harp on the installment plan and sold it for $50, giving a bill of sale to the man she sold it to, although she had not paid for the harp. She got the harp from Mortimer Frisbie, a musical instrument dealer, whose place of business is on West Thirty-seventh street. Then she sold it to a plumber named Boyd. She now says that she believed at the time she sold the harp that it was fully paid for, because she had given $300 to a man to pay the bill.

Miss Kellard has been in the Tombs prison four months. She spends most of her time writing in her cell. She keeps a diary, and Matron O'Brien of the Tombs prison says she has covered more than 2,500 sheets of foolscap with her writings.

TWO EX-PRINCES.

Kalakaua's Widow Gives All Her Property to Her Two Nephews.

HONOLULU, Feb. 15, via San Francisco, Feb. 22.—The ex-Queen Dowager Kapiolani, on Feb. 11, deeded to her nephews, David and Cupid Kawanaki, all her real and personal estate, valued at $300,000. It is stipulated that her nephews shall pay all outstanding claims and mortgages and give her an annuity of $12,000 during her life.

The transfer was made because she expects soon to receive a third and fatal stroke of paralysis, and she also wishes her nephews to have something besides their titles of Princes.

Weyler's Tobacco Embargo Not Revived.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—A despatch from Consul-General Lee, received at the State Department to-day, implies that there is no truth in the report that the Weyler embargo on the exportation of tobacco had been revived. Lee informs the department that these exports of filler tobacco from Havana were declared recently: Feb. 10, to New York, 503 bales, 46 barrels; Feb. 16, to Tampa, 69 bales; to Key West, 250 bales; Feb. 17, to New York, 121 bales; to Philadelphia, 71 bales; Feb. 19, to Tampa, 232 bales; to New York, 53 bales; to Baltimore, 53 bales, and to Chicago, 38 bales.
