EXPERT CHEMIST of the highest standing and reputation having discovered a new element with many wonderful properties, and having devoted a great deal of time and research in the development of same, desires to enlist the interest of a gentleman of intelligence with commercial experience and a little capital, with a view to exploiting and selling the product. A prominent exhibit has been arranged for the Paris Exposition under Government auspices. This new element bids fair to create a great sensation throughout the world when its many commercial qualities become more generally known. It will have a great commercial value in the following industries: Tanning, dyeing, hardening steel, bleaching, refining, enameling, etc. It also has valuable medicinal qualities. For full information address HENRY WEBB, Temple Court, New York city.
