IN THE FOOTBALL WORLD.

PRINCETON MEN RESENT THE CHARGES OF FOUL TACTICS.

Say They Reflect Upon the Efficiency of Referee Wrightington and Umpire Minds—Features of Harvard's Play—How Pennsylvania Uses the Half Backs—Gossip.

The communication in THE SUN of yesterday charging the members of the Princeton 'Varsity with foul tactics in their game with Lafayette at Easton on last Saturday caused a great deal of comment among local graduates of Old Nassau. The presiding officials were Edgar Wrightington, former captain of the Harvard eleven, and John Minds, former captain of the University of Pennsylvania, who refereed and umpired respectively. Princeton men say that if their eleven was guilty of such practices they could have been punished, for Wrightington and Minds have always been strict disciplinarians. There is more or less scrapping in all big football games, and in this case there was probably unnecessary roughing, but Princetonians are indignant over the statement that the Tigers wilfully slugged the Lafayette players with the idea of intentionally weakening the team so that it could be beaten. Two years ago the Carlisle Indians complained of similar treatment at the hands of the Tigers in a game at Princeton and have refused to arrange games since. But these are the only instances where Princeton has been charged with foul play on the gridiron. The Tigers, on the other hand, severed relations with the University of Pennsylvania after the football game at Trenton in 1894. The Quakers were charged with slugging and deliberate attempts to inflict injury and there was so much ill feeling over the incident that all attempts to heal the breach since then have failed. Minds played right tackle on the Pennsylvania team in that contest. It was in the same year that Harvard broke off relations with Yale because of the attack made by Hinkey upon Wrightington. It would certainly be an odd thing if Minds and Wrightington should be mixed up in a breach between Princeton and Lafayette because of occurrences similar to those at Trenton and Springfield six years ago. It is generally conceded to be a fact that Pennsylvania and Harvard are not on the most cordial terms with the Tigers in football, so that it is hard to believe that Princeton would be leniently treated for rule breaking by a Harvard referee and a Pennsylvania umpire. The correspondent of THE SUN, however, is positive that what he saw the Tigers do was in direct violation of the rules and should have been severely punished.

When the Harvard team lined up against West Point last Saturday those who had not seen the Crimson before this year were impressed with the height of several of the men who loomed up like Gullivers among Lilliputians. There were Ellis, Lee, J. Lawrence and Graydon, all of whom were more than 6 feet tall. Campbell and Hallowell are no midgets, but they looked small alongside of the big fellows mentioned. When Roberts got into the game there was still more height although this huge man's bulk makes him look smaller than he really is. Among the substitutes was Biggs, literally a giant. A feature of Harvard's play in that game was the admirable interference created by protecting runner when carrying back a punt. The interference assembled with great quickness around the runner generally Daly, who has a remarkable faculty of being under the ball, forming a sort of "V," which, however, did not hold together as well as might have been expected when the opposing players smashed into it. In the opinion of one who saw both Harvard and "Pennsy" play last week the morale of the Harvard men is better than Pennsylvania's. There is no lack of spirit at Harvard that is apparent. Every one of the Harvard backs, seven of whom were used in the game, wore solid leather headgear, covering completely the crown of the head.

The victory of Hamilton College over Williams on last Saturday, was a remarkable achievement considering the handicap under which the Clinton boys are working. With about 175 students to draw from, the Hamilton eleven has shown wonderful progress this year. There are only sixty men in the freshman class, fifty in the sophomore and thirty each in the junior and senior classes. The eleven has been grinding away at its way to the front during the past three years and the defeat of Williams after the latter's drawn game with Columbia caused unbridled jubilation at Clinton. Hamilton will play New York University here in a few days and many local alumni of the former will attend. They regret that their eleven does not play Columbia, for a victory or a close game with Sanford's men would be something to be proud of.

The University of Pennsylvania eleven is following out a consistent line of offensive work that is nothing if not odd. Usually the half backs on a 'Varsity eleven are the men who advance the ball. But at Pennsylvania the half backs are used almost continually to fill the places of Hare, left guard, and Wallace, right tackle, when big plungers are taken behind the line to be used with McCracken, the full back, in the "guards back interference." In all of the Quakers' games this fall most of the ground gaining has been done by Hare, McCracken and Wallace, who are big enough and powerful enough to stand any amount of work. The half backs, Potter and John Gardner, have seldom figured in either long runs or in line bucking, but are conspicuous always in the interference. Coach Woodruff is a believer in beef. He does not see how a big, strong, aggressive man can be of service to his eleven unless he is compelled to run with the ball. Other coaches, however, have always held to the principle that the rush line should have all of the beef and that the backs should depend upon the aggressiveness of the line to make proper openings for them. If Pennsylvania should happen to lose Hare and McCracken to-morrow the eleven would be weakened at least 50 per cent. In using these two stars Woodruff shows sound judgment. The guards back interference, though many elevens have tried to copy it, has yet to meet and break it up, has been altered so much by "Pennsy's" coach that it is regarded to-day as more effective than ever. But the fact remains that no matter what the formation is, the ball is invariably carried by Hare, McCracken or Wallace, so that opposing teams need know only two plays to stop. In what Harvard will do with them and the guards back play is a matter of unusual interest to the critics. The Crimson coaches have seen Woodruff's methods and they have been preparing their defensive to meet them. Harvard will use Hare and McCracken last year, and for that reason the feeling at Cambridge is not exactly apprehensive.

Coach Hatch of the New York University team has kept the men hard at work in preparation for the game with Stevens Tuttle, who was all to pieces in his last game, is back with the team, and Weidner, too, has returned to work. Dave, the right tackle, is still out of the game and it is doubtful whether he will play again this year. Bergman is filling the place regularly and Weidner will have to hustle to get his position back. Bergman is a good player, is fast, and has become quite proficient. He is needed more in the line than behind it and will continue to play there. At practice yesterday afternoon the team did well. Now that the regular scrub team, the Indians, has been organized considerable rivalry between it and the 'Varsity. Coach Hatch fears the result of the West Point game, but from the standpoint of victory but from the size of the score.

PRINCETON, Oct. 23.—The run of hard luck which Princeton has been experiencing lately continued to-day, when two more players were sent to the clubhouse injured. McCord, the tackle, wrenched his wrist in the Lafayette contest, and is still on the sideline with no prospect of playing for several days. Davis, the end tackle, was carried from the field yesterday with a badly wrenched knee, which is liable to prevent him from playing much more this season, and to-day DeWitt, the promising young guard, and Roper, the end, had to take to the sick list. DeWitt's case is singular as well as very discouraging, for he had just recovered from a three weeks' absence on account of a broken hand, which has been nursed with the best care by the authorities on account of the importance of the player. Palmer Robinson had hopes of being able to be fit to do duty until yesterday, and this afternoon was his first attempt in the scrimmages. Everybody was rejoicing over the prospect of bolstering up the centre trio, when after a few plays attention was called to the fact that DeWitt was limping again. This time, however, it was his right hand, and it is thought that this one also has been broken. If this be the case, it is likely that DeWitt will not be able to play again this year. Roper had his ankle twisted and he will also be out of the game for several days at least. With McCord, Davis and Roper of the regular players in the hospital it is probable that the Tigers will not present a very formidable appearance when they meet Brown next Saturday. The continued misfortunes have cast a gloom over the entire university. The work on the new stands is progressing rapidly and it is certain now that they will be ready for use by Nov. 3, the date of the Cornell game.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23.—Pennsylvania's football practice was secret as usual to-day. The muggy weather had a disparaging influence upon the men. Coach Woodruff had Hare, Potter and Gardiner out for kicking practice. Hare did some excellent place kicking, while Potter showed improvement in his drop-kicking. Grave's punts averaged forty-five yards in the 'Varsity scrub scrap, under Kennedy's leadership, the scrubs played fast, snappy ball and kept the 'Varsity hustling all the time. The scrub had evidently been told to play and runs, for they tried them very often. The line bucking of Davidson was the feature of the play. The freshman game with Harvard has been cancelled owing to the Harvard faculty rule prohibiting freshman teams from traveling beyond a certain distance. Philadelphia is outside the limit. Pennsylvania is hardly likely to go to Cambridge to secure the game. An attempt will be made to get on a game with Cornell's freshmen on the former Harvard date, Nov. 3.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 23.—There was more shifting of players on the Yale eleven this afternoon. The coaches seem to have determined to reconstruct the team. First they took Charley Dupee from the end and put him at half back and then at full back. Next Lincke was taken from quarter and put at half back. To-day John DeSaulles, another quarter, was put on the end of the line. L. M. Thomas, the end rush, was put at half back. All of these players are men who are supposed to have a good chance for the team. They have not come up to the mark at the places where the coaches want them most, hence the coaches are shifting them to try to find places where they will fit in. The most noticeable fact about these changes is that they all tend to lighten up the big heavy backfield and to put more speed there. The heat and weight in the tariff heavy suits to suffer a great deal. For this reason the work was light and many of the 'Varsity players were not asked to line up for the practice game. Bloomer played through the practice for the first time in almost two weeks. He did some good work but he not winded easily. Cook, the baseball pitcher, played at half back for one half of the practice. He has been on the hospital list for some time.

ITHACA, Oct. 23.—Forty minutes Cornell's football assistants struggled to-day on a field exceedingly muddy as a result of the long continued rains. Coach Haughton has returned to the work, determined in the next two weeks to whip a winning 'Varsity out of Cornell material. It must be admitted that he will have a difficult task, but he is bending every energy to do so. All of the 'Varsity men were out, Capt. Starbuck taking his place at full back. The rain and the wet field interfered materially in the work of the men, but after hard effort the 'Varsity scored two touchdowns. One of them came from a long run by Morrison. Capt. Starbuck had several opportunities to kick and handled the wet ball in a very satisfactory manner. Haughton did the kicking for the scrub eleven and aided considerably in getting the ball across the first team's line. Otis was put on the scrub eleven to-day and is likely to stay there unless his work improves.

Another hard day of practice was in order at Columbia Field yesterday. News that Yale was offering 2 to 5 that they would score over 30 points on Saturday put extra spirit into the work where it was needed. Auten's broken nose still keeps him out of the play and Lederman, the new and promising half back, has had to lay off for some time on account of an injured eye. More aggressiveness and ginger are daily being injected into the play and the energy of starting the plays after downs is a hopeful sign. The backs are still too hesitating, but the hard defeats of the last two weeks have meant much to the men. Slocovitch still limps, but will surely play on Saturday. Bruce was played at centre with Wright and Tyson at guard. Most of the individual coaching was for the guards to tackle low. Stillman, the new man at tackle, did well. The scrub only made five yards in ten downs.

There was a committee meeting of the New York Interscholastic Athletic Association yesterday afternoon. It was called for the purpose of taking definite action in regard to the junior football league movement. After much discussion it was decided to lay the matter over. This practically means that there will be no junior foot ball league this year. Some of the youngsters talk of organizing themselves, but without the assistance of the association such a move would be unsuccessful. The proposed interstate games between the winners of the New York and New England Interscholastic associations was then taken up. The boys are enthusiastic over the proposed contest and the matter will be laid before the delegates at the next regular meeting of the association.

NORTH TONAWANDA, N. Y., Oct. 23.—Frank A. Hinkey stated to-day that he gave Capt. Brown no definite answer to his message urging him to come to New Haven at once and use his best efforts in developing the ends, in which the other coaches have been unsuccessful. He thinks it almost certain, however, and that is, the eleven will receive the benefit of Hinkey's counsel ten days before the Yale-Harvard contest. The silent captain has hesitated to come now for business and financial reasons. Hardly a year has passed since Hinkey was a player on the team that he has not gone to the aid of his alma mater each season, paying his own expenses. Although Hinkey's love for Yale is strong, he does not relish the idea of being under the supervision of other coaches, which he has been heretofore.

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 23.—The Harvard 'Varsity eleven played better to-day than it has done before this season. Five times the Varsity scored against the second eleven. Although the touchdowns were made chiefly on end runs, the playing through the line was also improved. Putnam was again behind the line, making many long runs. Hallowell played during the first half. Coach Lewis had the second eleven try the Pennsylvania guards back formation against the first eleven. It was not well executed so that it was easily stopped. The 'Varsity will go behind closed gates to-morrow afternoon for some secret practice preparatory to the Indian game.

Sanford's speech to the freshman class at Columbia last week has resulted in the formation of a freshman football team. L. Bogert has been chosen manager. The candidates reported yesterday and went through their first work. The men are rather light but wiry. The first line-up was as follows:

Centre, Stein; guards, Argall and Canaliz; tackles, Reis and Henri; ends, Poore and Vaughn; quarter back, Hatch; half backs, Benjamin and Day; full back, Arkell.

Games will be arranged with the leading preparatory schools and the freshman classes of other colleges.

Football Notes.

MONTCLAIR, Oct. 23.—The Montclair High School football team had the Dwight School of New York as their opponents this afternoon on the Montclair oval. The Dwight team were no match for the home players, who defeated the visitors by the score of 48 to 0.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23.—J. E. Downing, '01, was today elected captain of the Swarthmore football team to succeed A. L. Hall, Jr., who has been unable to play owing to recent illness. This is Downing's fourth season on the team. He plays a good game at left guard.

Jersey City will be represented on the gridiron this season by a strong team, made up in part by well-known college graduates. The Jackson avenue ground has been secured, and games will be played there every Sunday. Games have been arranged with the Wildes Point Engineers, Seton Hall, Princeton "Scrubs" and other prominent clubs.

At Union Field, West Chester, yesterday afternoon Rutherford High School and Kyle's School teams played an interesting game. From the kick-off the Rutherford boys were the aggressors and were practically making a runaway race of it. In the second half where it looked like a shutout for Kyle the latter eleven played all around the Rutherfords and scored twice. The final score was 18 to 10 in favor of Rutherford. Adler School beat Fessler School at Van Cortlandt Park yesterday afternoon, by the score of 40 to 32. The game resolved itself into a slugging match and much fumbling was done. Both games were for the championships of the Bronx School League.

MR. BELMONT CANNOT ACCEPT.

The S. C. Y. C. Cup Taken Away From the Rainbow to Be Raced For Again.

August Belmont has declined to accept the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht Club cup which the Race Committee of that organization decided was won by the Minnetonka through the disqualification of the Rainbow. The committee notified Mr. Belmont of its action regarding the Rainbow in a letter, of which the following is a copy:

OCT. 18, 1900.

August Belmont, Esq., 23 Nassau Street, New York:

DEAR MR. BELMONT: The Race Committee of the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht Club have disqualified Rainbow in the race at Oyster Bay on Sept. 21, and have awarded the prize for that race to Minnetonka. Very sincerely yours,

C. W. WETMORE,
Chairman Race Committee, S. C. Y. C.

To this letter Mr. Belmont replied as follows:

23 NASSAU ST., NEW YORK, Oct. 18, 1900.

MY DEAR MR. WETMORE: I beg to acknowledge receipt of your favor of Oct. 18, informing me of the disqualification of the Rainbow, by your committee, in the race at Oyster Bay on Sept. 21, and that the prize had been awarded to the Minnetonka.

I cannot express to you how deeply I deplore the unintentional violation of your rules by Mr. Vanderbilt, through which he is deprived of the fruits of a race won in so conclusive a manner. I could not keep the trophy feeling, as I do, that I was fairly beaten by one of the most honorable and thorough sportsmen I have ever had the pleasure of sailing against.

I request you, therefore, to keep the cup to do with it as your committee may see fit during the next season. I shall always hold myself in readiness should you determine to offer it in any race in which Mr. Vanderbilt and I may chance to meet, but please understand that I restrict you in no way as to its disposition, in returning it to your club. Believe me, yours very truly,

AUGUST BELMONT.

MR. CHARLES S. WETMORE, Chairman Regatta Committee Seawanhaka Yacht Club, New York city.

The Race Committee of the S. C. Y. C. then wrote to Mr. Belmont, stating that it would offer the cup for the Rainbow and Minnetonka to race for next year. The letter follows:

OCT. 22, 1900.

August Belmont, Esq., 23 Nassau Street, New York:

MY DEAR MR. BELMONT: I am in receipt of your letter of Oct. 19, declining to accept the prize awarded to Minnetonka for our race of Sept. 21 in consequence of the disqualification of Rainbow.

We fully sympathize with the reasons which have influenced your action, and shall have much pleasure in offering this prize next season for competition between the two yachts, under such conditions as may be mutually satisfactory to you and Mr. Vanderbilt.

Very sincerely yours,

C. W. WETMORE,
Chairman Race Committee, S. C. Y. C.

GOOD RACING AT YONKERS.

EMPIRE CITY JOCKEY CLUB'S SECOND DAY DRAWS A FAIR CROWD.

Miss Hanover and Cresson Score for the Talent—James R. Keene's Former Classic Candidate, St. Cloud, Breaks His Leg in a Selling Race and Is Destroyed—Entries.

Racegoers were much more at home in the Empire City enclosure yesterday than on the opening day when the surroundings were bewilderingly novel to all but the harness horse element. The attendance was quite up to the encouraging standard of Monday, and the transit facilities furnished by the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Company left nothing to be desired. Special trains ran at frequent intervals each way, and many are equipped with parlor cars, some of which are reserved for women. The regular service is also maintained, and the combination insures a prompt and comfortable trip. Unfortunately the trolley connection at the Mount Vernon end is still in a somewhat chaotic state, and the one-track service is totally inadequate. The Grand Central people have nothing to do with this, however, but in order to help out as far as possible they have put on specials in connection with the Sixth and Ninth Avenue Elevated roads from 155th street to Dunwoodie, the latter station being quite close to the track. If visitors will only study the time tables carefully they will save themselves a lot of bother.

The day's sport began with an upset for the talent, owing to Gold Lace and Miss Hanover. Dremond's daughter quit ingloriously after chasing Musette for half a mile. Rintine and Unmasked tried to score where Gold Lace failed, but Musette stood them all off and won cleverly by half a length. Miss Hanover, in the second race, proved a much better investment as she kept Buffoon tiptoed most of the way and finally beat the speedy old gelding a head. The Chamberlain kicked St. Cloud heavily on the off hind leg at the post but the big Keene gelding seemed to warm out of his soreness and lined up again with the others. He had scarcely started, however, when the leg broke, and the once noted son of Candlemas—Belle of Maywood had to be destroyed. It was a sad ending to a career that promised so brilliantly three years ago when St. Cloud ran third in the classic St. Leger and second in the Cambridgeshire Handicap, the race Lord Sloan thought he had won for Mr. Keene until the numbers went up.

Another well-played choice went within an ace of pulling through in the third race as Katherina and Marothen came up the stretch a head apart. Just as it began to look a certainty that Littlefield's filly would last home, Queen Carnival came with a wet sail from the rear and beat the pair half a length. King Barleycorn was in a racing mood yesterday, but so was St. Simonian, and the latter simply galloped over his field when Mel Lace fell down.

Amsey and Macleod of Dare also came along and outran the King in the stretch.

The ripest melon of the day was Cresson in the fifth race. He was played with extreme confidence to beat twelve opponents and he turned the trick after a hot drive with Carnelian and Mark Lane. Watercure won the closing race cleverly in fast time from the false favorite Asquith. Summary:

At Newport.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 23.—The weather was again delightful at Newport to-day, the sport good and the attendance fair. NEWS OF THE WHEELMEN.

A Crisis in Affairs of the New York State Division—New One-Hour Record.

A critical point in the difficulties of the New York State Division of the L. A. W., in relation to the national organization, is to be reached to-day, when President Conway W. Sams will come here from Baltimore to confer with the leaders. In anticipation of this the Executive Committee had an extended meeting last night to agree upon what position should be taken, what demands insisted upon and what concessions made. It was in the nature of a family pow-wow, and no information was authoritatively given out. A reporter of THE SUN gleaned enough, however, to feel assured that there would be no compromise in the defiant position taken by the officers of this State in opposition to any changes that would wipe out or belittle the division as an entity. Those present at the meeting were Chief Consul Milo M. Belding, George C. Pennel, Dr. J. E. Hill, John B. Uhle, C. J. Obermayer and John F. Clark.

The best thing that the coming indoor season can furnish will be matches between the rivals for the supreme middle-distance honors. Never was the championship at the paced game in graver doubt. Stinson's record-breaking performance at Brockton on last Saturday added another to the field of competitors. When Nelson began to break the middle distance records last summer it seemed as if the limit must be reached, but then came Moran, who beat Nelson's figures. Many began to think that Elkes was out of it, but his resourcefulness was shown on Oct. 5 by his ride of 39 miles and 1,045 yards in one hour. He made a new world's records for every mile from two on. It was on the track at Brockton that Stinson went Elkes a little better with his record of 39 miles and 1,353 yards in the hour. This lacks only 407 yards of being forty miles an hour behind motor machines, which is a phenomenal jump from the thirty miles an hour of a couple of years ago.

The ballots for the annual election of the New York State division L. A. W., have been sent out and Nov. 1 has been set as the last day for receiving the man vote. Ballots showing the postmark of that date will be counted. There have been no independent nominations, so the ticket headed by the present chief consul is sure of election.

This is the season when riders should change their gears to something lower than those ones used during the summer. Those who continue to ride with high gears lose much of the pleasure and benefit of wheeling in the fall when the winds are brisk and steady. Last Sunday many women were seen pushing against the wind with a labor that left no doubt but that the pleasure of their outing was being spoiled by too hard work. It is the testimony of experienced riders that for some reason a breeze of a given volume and speed seems to affect the cyclist more in the fall than it does in the spring. This perhaps is due to temperature. A lower gear which gives more rapid leg action produces more bodily warmth, which is a second good reason for a change. The tendency toward high gears, which began by imitating racing men, has spread too much among those who ride only occasionally and dealers recognize that high geared machines have driven many women out of the game because they found riding more work than fun. For those who go out a most every day and keep themselves in condition the high gears are all right, but the parade riders make a grave mistake in trying to pattern after them. Several years ago when women first began to take to the sport a gear of 56 or 60 was thought high enough for them, while now they are given 70 or 74. It is maintained by veterans that there should be a return and that only the experienced century riders among women should ride over a 60 gear. For men no rule is possible to be laid down, but there are undoubtedly many riding gears in the 80s who go out only now and then and who would enjoy the exercise much more if they got gears in the 70s. The hardiest riders lower their gears for winter work, the same as racing men do for a windy day in summer.

AMERICAN CYCLIST ATTACKED.

A French Mob Rushes at MacFarland for Refusing to Race.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN.

PARIS, Oct. 23.—A bicycling match was arranged for Sunday at Auteuil, between the French sprinter, Jacquelin, and MacFarland, the American. The latter asked for a postponement owing to the rain which was falling, but the conductors refused to grant his request. The pacemakers tried to take the track, but found it impossible, whereupon MacFarland refused to race. The spectators were furious and raised a riot. They demolished the track and savagely attacked MacFarland, who narrowly escaped lynching. He was besieged in his dressing room for half an hour. The drenching rain finally caused the mob to disperse.

Owing to the riot the owner of the track has notified MacFarland to remove all his clothes, bicycles and other property from the premises and not to show himself there again. He similarly evicts all American and English bicyclists who are entered for events there, notably Walters, Newman Brothers and Chase, who are MacFarland's pacemakers. The only reason given for this action is that all those evicted sided with MacFarland, but the fact is that the owner lost considerably through the damage caused by the mob and also had to refund the gate money. Many French professional bicyclists sympathize with the visitors and express regret for their treatment.

Two More Drawn Games for the Checker Championship.

BOSTON, Oct. 23.—The two opening games of the second series of fourteen in the tournament for the checker championship of the world between Charles F. Barker of Boston and Richard Jordan of Scotland were played this afternoon and evening. Both resulted in draws, so that the score of the match is 14 games drawn and one victory for each man. Barker opened the game this afternoon with the standard 11-15, which by the conditions must be used by each player during his section of the tournament, Jordan answered with 24-14. The game soon developed into the "Second Double Corner." In the evening Barker used 24-14 for his answer and a slow game resulted in a draw.

OUR TROTTERS IN AUSTRIA.

CAPT. TUTHILL TALKS OF HARNESS-RACING FEATURES IN THAT COUNTRY.

No Complications About the System, and the Rules Are Strictly Enforced—The Horses Are Handicapped by Their Records—Royalty is Greatly Interested in the Sport.

Capt. B. H. Tuthill of Goshen, who took several trotters to Austria late last winter and had his first experience on the European trotting tracks, was in the city yesterday. He is so enthusiastic about the Austrian system of racing and the character of the horsemen in that country that he will take another consignment of American trotters to Vienna in February or March. On his first trip last February, he took over Royal Baron, 2:10¼, by Baron Wilkes; Carrie Shields, 2:13¾, by Legal Test; Belle J., 2:11, by Ben Johnson, a sensational mare in 1898; Queen For
