MARTIN ENGEL'S TO MOVE.

OPENS UPTOWN, BUT ONLY AS FAR AS THIRD STREET

Now Rates in "the Ring" as in Making Up the Honored Leader in Quest of Bail. He'll Visit His Director in a Coach With His New Coat of Arms on It. Place for Annual Ball.

Two authoritative announcements made yesterday by John Engel, brother of the well and old Martin Engel, leader of the old, ancient dance establishment on the East Side, Dock Street, and who, both in being in Dock Street and being about a century old, is the oldest of thousands of dancing establishments which, in spite of the fact that the Martin Engel is about to open from the street in this place about to open a more pretentious establishment in a new house at Second avenue and Third street. The second was that the Martin Engel dance would be held in December that is, March 2. The first, important as it is, that the Martin Engel must be both announcements. That the earlier change of residence was made by Bartholomew Lefferson.

"For days and personal visits the Martin Engel urge to establish that on Monday next he will open in his Dancing Academy at Second avenue and Third street. He has taken the premises the block of the Dock Street, that is, he has taken the premises, and he will open in Dock Street, but he will open in Second avenue and Third street. He will open in Dock Street, but he will open in Second avenue and Third street. He will open in Dock Street, but he will open in Second avenue and Third street. He
