CURRENT SPORTING TALK.

FARMING BASEBALL CONJECTURES ARE PLAYING FINE PROFITS.

American League Schedule Meeting on March 30 Seems Regarded as Be Weakening in the Association. The Players' Hold Up Almost Laughable. Football Games.

It has been announced by President Ban Johnson that the schedule meeting of the American League will not be held until March 30 and that the club owners will convene at Philadelphia. This means that if the National League adopts and promulgates a schedule next week Johnson will have plenty of time to avoid conflicting dates. In other words, it is Johnson's plan to keep the National League guessing as long as possible. If the National League men sent their schedule a secret, however, Johnson will be in a quandary. It appears to be now a case of the politics on both sides, with the National League compelled to make the first battle move. In Philadelphia Ben Shibe has been elected President of the American League club, a move that has created much speculation in view of the fact that Shibe is the business partner of A. J. Reach, president of the National League club of that city. Reach's partner in base ball is John I. Rogers, who has shown partiality toughtly to the Johnson organization. Rogers is the principal owner of the Philadelphia ball club, Reach holding only a small block of stock. Whether Reach is financially interested in the American League club remains to be seen. C. W. Somers is in Boston, where he is making arrangements to rush the work on the Huntington avenue grounds. To an interviewer Somers says that, peace or no peace, Boston will remain in the American League circuit and that Selkirk will be spent to put his plant in working order. President Soden of the Boston National League club is quoted as saying that he does not believe the American Association should have been allowed to enter the field and that, as to the location of grounds, the American League has a big advantage over Irwin's Charles River Park over in Cambridge. As ball player Clarke has found it a most difficult task to get the Association movement under way in Baltimore, and as Promoter Whiteside of Louisville says he will not put up a dollar to run an Association club unless he is sure of a long term agreement with the protection of organized baseball, it looks as if it would be an easy matter to knock the props from under the Association in case a compromise between the National League and the American League should be deemed necessary at the last moment.

The news from Baltimore that the star players of the National League have organized a sort of Brotherhood, irrespective of the Protective Association, and that they will make a strike for even higher salaries than they received last year does not surprise those baseball men who got a hint some time ago that the American League had a perfect understanding with the players. It is safe to say that if the National League grants the demands of the Protective Association it will not deter the players from offering their services to the highest bidders, especially if President Zimmer rescinds the rule which at present prohibits players of the National League from signing with the American League. That the players see a chance to feather their own nests by taking advantage of the strained relations between the warring leagues is apparent. For that reason it would seem to be a cold business proposition for the two leagues to get together for mutual protection. If it comes to a case of outbidding each other for the services of attractive players, it is the general opinion that the National League will make a big effort to retain the cream of the talent. That big American League intends to bid for National League stars is shown by the statement of Connie Mack of Philadelphia to the effect that the American League will respect signed contracts for the season of 1901, but will pay no attention to the "option clause" which the National League say binds all players for this year, even if they have refused to sign contracts.

As another "war measure" it is reported that the American League people stand ready to transfer the Detroit or Milwaukee club to Cincinnati on a week's notice. John T. Brush has made no move to rebuild the stands that were burned on the National League grounds in Eorktown last summer and has also refrained from outlining the policy of Manager McPhee. Brush had some trouble with the city authorities last year and is said to be disgusted. President Johnson has paid a number of visits to Cincinnati lately and is quoted as saying that the baseball patrons of that city would welcome an American League club with open arms.

Yale will sustain a great loss in the withdrawal of Ralph Bloomer from the university. Though a freshman from Andover last fall Bloomer not only made the Yale Varsity eleven, but also turned out to be the best tackle in the country. His work against Princeton was a big surprise for he was used more in advancing the ball than any other Yale player, and seldom failed to make his distance. Against Harvard, Bloomer excelled his performance at Princeton and was the talk of the big crowd. Bloomer has left Yale because he was dropped from his class for low standing in his studies. According to Yale's new eligibility rules, adopted last Monday night, Bloomer cannot play football again for Yale before the fall of 1902. He is the first victim under the rule which says that no student who has been dropped for low standing can play on a Varsity team until one year has elapsed from the date of his suspension. Bloomer experienced difficulty in getting into Yale and has had considerable trouble in keeping up with his studies since entering. He failed last week in his midyear examinations and has gone to his home in Cincinnati.

In regard to the report that Lafayette is to be shut out of football games with Pennsylvania, Princeton, Cornell and Columbia, there appears to be much speculation. At Princeton the football men say no definite action has been taken in the way of arranging a game, while the Pennsylvania manager says that several dates have been offered to the Easton eleven. Columbia is on record as desiring a game with Lafayette for Thanksgiving Day, and it will probably be arranged. Cornell men say that their football schedule has not been completed and that they are in favor of asking Lafayette to play all games in future at Ithaca. Lafayette, if guilty of breaking eligibility rules has offended no one but a few of her principal opponents. It was only two years ago that Cornell played Walbridge, who had previously made a reputation in the football world as Lafayette's star half back. Walbridge, for this reason, was protested by Pennsylvania. Columbia could not find fault with Lafayette's methods inasmuch as the local "Varsity" has been built up by men from other colleges.

LAWN TENNIS.

Rapid progress was made yesterday in the lawn tennis tournament for the national indoor championship at the Seventh Regiment armory, and when play was suspended for the day, only five of the original twenty-four players were left in the singles.

The postponed match between Arthur Cragin and E. L. Tailer, which was stopped at 3 all in the last set late Wednesday afternoon, was played all over again yesterday and once more produced a battle royal.

Another surprise came when Bostwick and "Shep" Homans, the famous old Princeton full back, came together. Instead of furnishing an easy victory for the West Side captain, the match was close all through. In the doubles George Miles of Orange appeared as Ward's partner, and began his first match late in the afternoon. Arthur Cragin and Kopp were the Orange team's opponents, and they surprised the veterans by a clever play. The score:

Racing at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 21. The cold wave which reached here on Tuesday night still remains, but it has no effect on the attendance at the races. A large crowd, coupled with a fast track was about the only feature attached to the races this afternoon. There were no new developments in the steeplechase scandal to-day, but the stewards have secured a great deal of evidence since yesterday afternoon, and it is said that the majority of those suspended yesterday will be ruled off of the turf. It was learned to-day that the schemers had money "planted" in all of the principal pool rooms from New York to San Francisco, and had the scheme gone through, those that were in on it would have cleared something like $100,000 on the deal. By declaring all bets off the stewards alone saved the local bookmakers $50,000. Elmer James was signed to ride in England next season for George Edwards, the owner of the Gaiety Theatre in London. Jockey Melvin was suspended pending investigation of his ride on the horse Goodale in the first race. Summaries:

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 21.—For the first time in the history of baseball at Yale University a Yale nine will play two games in one day on May 10. The Yale men will meet Exeter at 10 A. M. and then leave a team in Andover to play there at 3.30. The next day Yale goes to Providence to meet Brown University, crowding in three games in quick time.

PRINCETON, Feb. 21.—The recently organized Princeton basketball team defeated the representatives from Columbia by 38 to 21 in the gymnasium here yesterday afternoon. It was the first exhibition of the sport ever given here and the building was crowded. The visitors' defence was weak during the entire game, but their team work proved in the second half when they rolled up 17 points against the Tigers. Prince was penalized six times for fouls. Whitehouse and Pell of the football team played well for the local team and Allen's goal driving for Columbia was good.

Capt. Pennock of the Harvard basketball team saved the game for his team by his clever work against the Columbia five in the latter's gymnasium last night. With the score 7 to 5 against the Crimson players Pennock, who had not played in the first half went in at centre in place of Clark. He immediately began to infuse a little ginger into his men and they scored three field goals. The Columbia boys played splendidly in the early stages of the game, but were woefully weak in defensive work when Harvard started to play fast ball. The final score was Harvard, 11, Columbia, 9. The Horace Mann School team and the Columbia Freshmen played the opening game, and the latter lost by a score of 4 to 2.

DR. WILSON IN THE LEAD.

CRACK RIFLEMEN'S SURPRISE TO WING SHOTS AT CARTERET.

Seventeen Marters for the Amateur Championship. High Wind and Fast Birds a Handicap to Hand Scorers. Harold Money Finishes Second to the Savannah Man.

Seventeen of the best amateur wing shots in the country met at the Carteret Gun Club yesterday in the annual competition for the championship. The trophy this year is offered by W. P. Thompson and is a beautiful silver cup valued at $100. The conditions are that each man shall pay an entrance fee of $10, which is divided among the four high guns. All contestants stand at the thirty-yard mark and shoot at 50 birds. It is the highest competition for the championship on record, and among the entries are three ex-champions and the champion rifle shot. The former are Robert A. Welch, who won in 1897 with 48 kills of the twenty-yard handicap; George S. McAlpin, who tied in 1898 with 48 kills at thirty yards, and C. A. Painter of Pittsburg, who won last year with 48 kills. The rifle shot is Dr. E. C. Wilson of Savannah, who only tried his hand at pigeon shooting last fall. When the contest was stopped last night Dr. Wilson was in the lead, having killed 46 birds out of 48. The weather was such that the shooters were tried as they have rarely been tried before. The northwest wind swept across the traps blowing half a gale. It was biting cold, too. The birds, a picked lot, were probably the best ever trapped and mostly were frequent. If a shooter did not get well on with his first barrel the chances were that the bird would get away.

George S. McAlpin, entered as a member of the Westminster Kennel Club, was the first man to go. He drew a fast left-hand bird and brought it down with his second barrel. Harold Money, who is regarded as many as the coming shot, followed. He also killed. W. S. Elder drew a fast bird from his trap and got away, leaving only a few feathers behind. Elder and Money shot alternately, but Dr. Wilson's every trap time and his first bird fell safely. Martin, H. H. Stanley, L. H. Durrye, L. S. Hitchcock and H. Yale Dolan each missed in the second round. McAlpin, C. H. Palmer, Hill and Dolan missed. McAlpin missed again in the next round. Dr. Wilson lost a right-driver that shot out of the trap like a streak of lightning and Durrye let his bird get over the boundary where it fell dead. At the end of the fifth round there were only two who had straight scores, Harold Money and Kirkover. Money soon after this lost two birds in succession, and at the tenth round the score stood:

Kirkover, 10; Wilson, Martin and Palmer 9, Welch, Guthrie and Harold Money 8, Bradley and Dolan 7, Elder 6, Stanley, Money, Hill, Vandergrift and C. P. Palmer 5, Durrye and McAlpin, 5.

Many remarkable shots were made and many of the missed birds died just outside the boundary. Kirkover held his lead of one bird over Dr. Wilson until the fifteenth round, when he lost a left-driver. Harold Money, Welch and C. A. Painter had lost three each up to that time. Elder, Bradley and Dolan with four misses each. Dr. Wilson was shooting in fine form and Kirkover stuck to him until the twenty-fourth round, when he let a left-driver get away from him and dropped to second place. The score at the end of this round was:

Wilson 23, Kirkover 22, Harold Money 22, Bradley 20, Palmer, Guthrie and Col. Martin 20, McAlpin, Welch and Dolan, 19, Durrye and Edo, 18, Capt. Money, Hill and Stanley, 17, Vandergrift, 16, C. P. Palmer, 14.

Kirkover, who had been shooting well up to this point, then began to fall back. He missed five birds in quick succession, before he got in shape again. Dr. Wilson missed his thirty-second, having made a run of 29, a remarkable performance under the conditions. Harold Money lost his thirty-third, having had a run of 14. C. A. Painter, last year's champion, ended with a run of 23 and is regarded as a dangerous man for proper honors. He made a number of brilliant kills. If the wind blows strong to-day there will probably be many changes in the positions of the contestants. Walker Breese Smith was the referee and he kept the men at work until dusk. Shooting will be resumed at 9.30 o'clock this morning. The scores yesterday follow:

Dr. T. C. Wilson, Savannah, Ga.— K M.

SEMI-FINAL RACQUET MATCH.

Mackay Beats Potter of Boston in Three Straight Games.

C. H. Mackay of the home club beat Austin Potter of Boston in an easy way yesterday at the New York Racquet and Tennis Club, in the first half of the semi-finals for the Amateur Racquet championship of America. Mackay's speed and persistency could not be resisted by Potter, who was plainly puzzled by the strange court the moment the play was around the walls, for he could not make the angles at all. Potter won the first game by two aces by service and it was nip and tuck work until the score stood 8 to 6 in his favor. Then the luck turned and Mackay won out. The second game also stood 8 to 5 for Potter at the beginning, but the third Mackay won all the way. The scores:

Mackay	0	1	1	2	2	0	0	5	2	0	1	3	15
Potter	2	0	0	0	3	2	1	0	0	0	0	0	8
Mackay	0	0	3	0	2	0	2	2	2	3	3	15
