LAST OF STEWART HOUSE.

THE MARBLE MANSION SOLD FOR JEWELRY AND DEMOLITION SPREE.

Workmen Gutting a Rubbish Room Purchased by the Marble Kitchen Floor and the Grate Doors Which They Lugged the Iron Plates of the Roof To Pack the Rubbish.

The famous mansion which A. T. Stewart built as a residence for himself more than a quarter of a century ago, at the corner of Fifth avenue and Thirty-fourth street, which was the home of the Manhattan Club, and which has been, and the scene of innumerable dinners. The mansion and lot were sold and it was sold as it stood, not withstanding for its antiquated value as a city residence and building material. Its demolition began on Thursday and will continue until the material has all been removed to a yard in Avenue B and Eighteenth street, and there piece by piece for what it is worth, chiefly iron and wood.

Inside the Manhattan Club owned not the house but been recent. When the Knickerbocker Trust Company bought the land and buildings some time ago it had no use for the mansion. Page was all but stubborn, and the trustees in the end with the proprietors of the Manhattan Club, who leased the mansion on semi-demolition. Mr. Coggeshall, Mr. Page, Mr. Stewart, Mr. Fairchild, Mr. Dodge, the Rev. Dr. Parker, Morgan, Stewart, Dodge, Parker, Thorne, Green, George A. Mortimer and William H. Robertson, the trustees of the Manhattan Club, formerly President Harrison, Secretary of the Treasury Gage, the Minister of Great Britain, and Mr. Choate, the Ambassador to Great Britain, and Mr. Carnegie, Mr. Rockefeller, Mr. Morgan, Mr. Vanderbilt, Mr. Astor, Mr. Gerry, Mr. Depew, Mr. Cleveland, Mr. Hewitt, Mr. Cooper, Mr. Tilden, Mr. Bayard, Mr. Thurman, Mr. Hendricks, Mr. Bancroft, Mr. Sherman, Mr. Evarts, Mr. Conkling, Mr. Arthur, Mr. Blaine, Mr. Garfield, Mr. Grant, Mr. Lincoln, Mr. Buchanan, Mr. Pierce, Mr. Polk, Mr. Tyler, Mr. Van Buren, Mr. Jackson, Mr. Adams, Mr. Monroe, Mr. Madison, Mr. Jefferson, Mr. Washington, Mr. Franklin, Mr. Adams, Mr. Hancock, Mr. Lincoln, Mr. Grant