CORONER JACKSON'S PIN LOST

Disappeared in a Barber Shop and He's Asked Police Aid in the Search.

Coroner Jackson yesterday asked the police of the East Eighty-eighth street station to help in the recovery of a favorite pin, a large pearl surrounded by diamonds, which he has worn for several years. On Saturday the Coroner went into a barber shop on Lexington avenue near Eighty-fourth street, and, removing his pin in his usual way, placed it on the table while he was readjusting his collar he was adjusting drop and missed the pin. A search for the pin was fruitless, and the barber, knowing the pin must have been a cameo, asked to have it returned. The proprietor of the shop, the Coroner says, agreed to do it as soon as he could. The Coroner called again and the barber said he had not had time to look for his pin. The Coroner took the cameo to his own home, but failed to find his lost jewelry.

Yesterday afternoon he notified the police the missing pin, he says, was worth $100 though he would not have paid such a price for much more.
