American Window Glass Company.

The reports of the American Window Glass Company for the year ended Aug. 31 shows that the receipts from sales of window glass and all other sources were $874,663. There were charged off for depreciation $126,960, leaving a net profit of $747,701. President Chambers calls attention in his report to the war of prices inaugurated by the Independent Window Glass Company, which resulted in the dissolution of that concern a few weeks ago. Had there been harmonious action by the manufacturing companies in conjunction with the jobbers' association, Mr. Chambers says, all could have had a good year's business. He continues:

The company is operating about the same number of furnaces as last blast, and have about the same number of men at work. While the supply is diminishing in the Indiana field, it has by drilling additional wells and laying more lines, and in some instances substituting larger pipes for smaller ones, kept up the supply.

Business Troubles.

A creditors' petition in bankruptcy was filed yesterday against Morris Cohen and Reuben Rabinowitz (Cohen & Rabinowitz), manufacturers of clothing, at 27 Walker street. Arthur Roth, solicitor, attorney for the petitioning creditors, said yesterday that the liabilities are about $1,000 and the assets probably $100 to $500.

William H. Malcolm, real estate agent at 191 West Fortieth street, who resides at Kerhonkson, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities $1,119.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 22.

Extensive comment is not needed upon to-day's dull, narrow and listless security market. The number of transactions fell to a comparatively low figure and represented for the most part the buying and selling within a small range of prices of professional traders upon the floor of the Stock Exchange. The tendency displayed in these operations was, if anything, that of a desire to cover contracts for the decline that had been put out within the last two or three days, but nothing like aggressive operations for either rise or fall were seen. The market closed at a small fractional net advance, and, on the whole, was stronger than might have been expected in view of the further developments pointing to gold exports. The price of bar gold and American eagles again moved up in London. In Paris the rate of exchange on London fell to 25 francs 12 centimes and sterling exchange here advanced well over ¼ of a cent to 4.8660, or easily within ⅛ of a cent, considering the decline in the Paris cheque, of the point at which gold can be exported from this country at any time. The demand for remittance was exceedingly strong and commercial bills in the market were not plenty. At the close of the exchange market bids were made considerably above the last quoted figures for bills to be shipped on next week's steamers. The sentiment of Wall Street for the moment seems to be that while gold exports may take place, they are not near at hand, and hence that the fear of what may happen because of them is premature. In calculating the gold export or import point, it must be borne in mind that the various foreign exchange houses in this market have means of varying power for shipping or importing coin and bullion, and that what some might consider a profitable basis for either an export or an import operation others might not find it so. Speculators for the rise scout the entire idea of gold exports as absurd and declare that if they really draw near "something will be done" by the "large interests" to avert the evil. Whatever that something is, it obviously will not be another bond call by the Secretary of the Treasury.

Current estimates were that London sold 30,000 shares of stock in our market to-day and has sold about 180,000 shares within the last two weeks. These estimates are, however, greeted scepitically in some quarters. It is asserted that investigation shows that the foreign arbitrage houses making the bulk of these sales are not borrowers of stock in the degree that would be the case if the sales made by them were for genuine foreign account. In selling stock here at the direction of European holders, the New York houses selling the shares have to borrow them for delivery until the arrival from the other side of the original securities. It is argued, therefore, that the absence or alleged absence of this borrowing shows that the sales of these foreign houses stand simply for poorly concealed "short" selling by operators here. But making all due allowance for this, there is no doubt that foreign sentiment is for the moment against our market and that it is the expectation on the other side that our ship of finance will pass over some rough seas before the year is over.

It is also certain that a good deal of foreign selling has been caused by the transfer to this market of American accounts recently kept in London. The settlement of the railroad switchmen's strike in St. Paul and Minneapolis by the grant of increased wages to the men was regarded as favorable in its immediate market bearing, although in its broad aspect it was looked upon as another event in the series of unwelcome additions to corporation expense that now seems entailed upon railroad managers. The news of the election of a dummy board of directors of the St. Joseph and Grand Island Railroad, displacing men well known in the financial community, excited curiosity as to where the actual position of the St. Joseph and Grand Island property now rests. Guesses as to the ownership are about equally divided between Union Pacific and Rock Island interests.
