PRIZES COME WHEN YOU HAVE WON

V. W. Marsden Makes a Gain of 42,000
Votes and Wins Weekly Prize.

It has come to a point where the contestants are settled down to the work of securing and turning in subscriptions. The time for talk and conjecture is passed. Either you are in to win or you are lagging. If the latter is the case the outcome of such a candidate should be plain to you. Nothing succeeds like success and to be successful you must at the same time be persistent and confident in what you undertake. The feeling that you can win if you wish will do much to help you in your work. A person with sufficient confidence can accomplish whatever he or she wishes. As an example the story is told of the man who declared that he would wager a large sum against a smaller one by another, that he could pass through the office of a downtown building with a petition and induce six men out of every ten to sign it just by the assurance he would exhibit as he entered. The wager was made and the petition bearer went through the office. When he emerged he showed the waiting crowd the names of twenty men out of twenty-seven, who had signed the petition to have themselves hung for not looking more closely at the document presented. While this illustrates the tendency of the people to be slipshod in noting petitions and what they call for, the tale likewise is a good example of what confidence on the part of the person who approaches you will call forth. This same confidence serves to make financial successes out of men who start in life with nothing more than a jackknife and an apple core. Have confidence in yourself. You have the best proposition any man could obtain when you talk the Argus' merits.

Omaha, Neb.—A loss of $200,000 and three firemen injured was the result of a fire near the heart of the business district, which threatened for a time a whole business block. Chicago.—Prayers were offered generally in the churches of Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska and Oklahoma Sunday for relief from the deadly siege of heat. ## BOGUS LORD, CONVICT, SEEKS FULL PARDON

"Lord Barrington" Begins a Fight For Freedom.

Jefferson City, Mo.—"Lord" Barrington (P. A. Barrington Seymour), who is serving a life sentence in the penitentiary for the murder of James P. McCann near St. Louis in 1902, has renewed his efforts to regain his liberty. Barrington was convicted in St. Louis county and was sentenced to be hanged. Governor Folk commuted the death sentence to life imprisonment. Barrington's trump card in the recent hearing will be the production of an affidavit made by Cecil Rollins, a son of James Rollins of St. Louis, to the effect that James P. Maybray, who was arrested at Council Bluffs for using the mails to defraud, was in fact James P. McCann.

One Price Clothier, Ontario, Oregon

Barrington in his life history said he was born June 10, 1864, at Barrackpore, Bengal, East India. He claims to be a graduate of Eton college, of Christ Church college and of Sandhurst Military college. He says he saw service in the British army in Afghanistan, Burmah and South Africa. He came to Montreal in February, 1902, he says, accompanied by a sister, later visiting several eastern cities, among them Washington, where his sister died suddenly. With a letter of introduction to the world's fair commissioners from Sir Michael Herbert, he came to St. Louis in November, 1902. Under the belief that Barrington was a titled and wealthy Englishman, a Miss Cochran of Kansas City, Kan., married him. She left him before he was arrested for the murder of McCann.

SAYS HE MURDERED GIRL.

Detectives at Work on New Clue in Alice Crispell Case. Wilkesbarre, Pa.—County Detective James Holman returned from Harvey's lake, where he had been trying to learn from the friends of Miss Alice Crispell whether they ever had heard the girl mention the name of a suitor with the initials A. N., the only signature to a postal mailed from New Rochelle, N. Y., to William Crispell, in which the writer said that he had murdered her. Detective Holman was unable to find any one who ever had heard of a man with those initials. The letters which have passed between Herbert Johns and the girl have been examined and, while references are made to a suitor, no name is mentioned.

County Detective James Price said: "We will thoroughly investigate this case and will ask the postal authorities to help us find the writer. At this time the postal would appear to have been written by a fanatic, but we are not taking any chances."

"We give some credence to the postal because we have reasoned all along that a jealous rival probably figured in the case. It may develop that the initials A. N. are assumed and that the slayer of the girl is really suffering from a tortured conscience."

The Amateur Photographer. An amateur photographer was showing some snapshots of Italy. "And these leaning buildings—what are they?" he was asked. "They are some buildings in Pisa," he replied. "That perfectly straight one near them is the famous leaning tower."

A Misunderstanding. She—I was rather disappointed in that gentleman to whom you introduced me last night. He—Indeed! How so? She—Why, you spoke of him as a bridge expert, and he turned out to be nothing but a famous engineer.—Boston Transcript.
