If there's any sort of a coat that we can make better than another coat—it's the "flock." And it takes a tailor with brains in his fingers to build it right. More price couldn't improve the value of this special coat and vest offered for Monday. It's an Easter garment, made of softish, roughish imported Vicuna of exquisite texture in dark gray Oxford mixtures. Shaped with all the grace of a corset. Exquisitely finished, and lined with rich silk. Coat and Waistcoat, to order, $25; Imported English Trousers, to order, $7.

If you would like samples, just postal, and we will forward them in the next mail along with full set of fashion plates and our simple measuring guide.

Broadway & 9th Street.

"Our bill won't scare you." — W. C. LOFTUS & Co.

Bring us a sample of any tailor's $20 suiting or overcoating and we'll match it for $15.

Ready-made suits and overcoats may fit the wooden figures they were made ready for—they CAN'T fit you. Smart clothes must be made to order.

We are custom tailors, and we're waiting to work for you.

Spring suits and overcoats $15. Others higher, all reasonable.

Special values in trousers, $5.

A CHILD SAYS HE IS A BI-METAL.

Silver Element Up to Dollar to Gold Side Now Doubtful "Date."

Sergeant Rogers was behind the desk in the Bedford avenue police station, Williamsburg, early yesterday morning when a small boy who proved to be Paul Sidlon of 301 Keap street entered and said to him:

"Say, are these two boys locked up here for dust or a job up at 301 South First street?"

Rogers looked at the boy and replied: "Yes, they're charged with burglary."

"Well, you may as well look out for two more in the job and I was in the job with them."

The young prisoners are Henry Smith of 301 South Second street and Charles Tanner of 301 South First street, both 14 years old. They, with Sidlon, an Italian [illegible] in the absence of Tanner's mother, who keeps house for her father, set out a patrol from the stolen door and made [illegible] valued at about $100. The boys opened the property out in the morning which went to Max Tanner and offered to sell her the seven tickets for 50 cents.

When the boys were arraigned in the Lee Avenue police court Tanner was charged by his companions with having instigated the robbery. He was held in $500 bail and the other boys were paroled.

Extraordinary Values in the New Spring Silks!

Right in the midst of a busy silk season—with market prices of raw silk constantly advancing—we are able to offer in our active Silk Department truly extraordinary values. Consider our qualities, which are the best. Consider our prices, some of which are here quoted. It is our invariable policy never to advertise any "seconds" or "job lots" (as such are generally unreliable or unseasonable). Every yard of silk offered by us has either our own or the manufacturer's guarantee as to good wear and long service. It is therefore with the certainty of a prompt and hearty response from thrifty readers that we offer:—

MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY WILL BE OPENING DAYS IN SPRING MILLINERY!

A visit to the Millinery Parlors on the second floor will amply repay any one in search of ideas. Here you will find exclusive Tailored Millinery in rich profusion. The new and novel conceptions are most interesting. Some of them are here detailed.

A Parisian Dolly Varden is a large flaring Hat, made after the rather familiar order. It is partially trimmed with French lace and a spray of pink roses around the crown.

Another novelty is a large tam-o'-shanter that a Parisian confection showing a combination of partially lace with contrasting tones of steel and black is mounted in the latest. It is finished on one side with a bunch of shaggy [illegible] to match.

French taste the sophistication on the premises is shown in a little black felt Hat—and what every Parisian lover will read this author. It is of white straw with a pink bandeau in front. It also shows partly floral embroidery of [illegible] and black [illegible] velvet.

A great "tobacco" Hat made of shaped satin braid with leaves of tan and brown stamped the brim and [illegible] on either side of brim with bunches of shaded cherries in clusters showed conception from the milliners on the premises.

Another fashionable Hat from the same source is a small [illegible] showing variegated shades of blue, green and yellow straw. Its color lacking is red and very blue matron velvet with cherries.

A beauty—and at the same time a moderately priced Hat—is a low mallier in the leading style of Rose. It is embellished with a wreath of blue. Bunches of white roses are on the sides and back. It is from the milliners on the premises and is bound to have a tremendous sale at the rather small price of twenty dollars.

The Jaughty "Dinah" Straw Hat should not be overlooked. Its under leaf has been cut away and a [illegible] fashion mounted over a contrasting coloring of mallier. The outside is finished with the same shading, together with a [illegible] [illegible].

Further French Bonnets in all popular leaves are shown. A jaughty one has a turn-up of leaf falling over the side and leaves of velvet falling over the back.

Little Bonnets with little plaits of white material covered with lace, giving perfect shade effects, all adjusted over shapes. The rather effective Bonnet has a bandeau of [illegible] and a black plaiting as back ornament. It was made in the milliners on the premises.

Flower Hats are the most popular Hats of the season. Bonnets are again popular this year. The Fine Bonnet in particular is favored by Dame Fashion. Flower Hats will be widely worn.

A few rules for millinery from the Bonnet avenue [illegible] and Hat [illegible] are well for widely worn.

Be sure color harmonizes from the Bonnet avenue [illegible] and Hat [illegible] are well for of your [illegible] and [illegible] Hat [illegible] Artistic effects of all the [illegible] Bonnets [illegible] put all the colors of the rainbow and [illegible] Hat [illegible] Bonnet [illegible] Hat [illegible] Bonnet [illegible] Hat [illegible] Bonnet
