The Chautauqua last week at Fruitland was splendid from beginning to end and clean throughout. There were several lectures and musical numbers any one of which was worth the price of the ticket. There are thirty signers for next year's Chautauqua which assures Fruitland another five days of good entertainment and so long as the entertainment is as good as this week, Fruitland will continue to stand back of the Chautauqua movement.

A most interesting and profitable school of instruction in the making of dress forms was held at Fruitland last week which resulted in the making of fifteen dress forms at Fruitland, forty-five in the county, under the leadership of Miss Jacobson of the University Extension Department and Miss Scrivener, Club Leader who assisted in the meetings. More pupils wanted to come into the class which was supposed to contain only twelve so it has been decided to select two of the fifteen who will in turn instruct others who desire to make forms. Those who are interested in joining this class please report at once to Mrs. Cary Tussing who will instruct you as to the time of holding the class.

Pungent Paragraphs From Secretary Meredith's Speeches And Writings.

A Lesson From Trees

"The tree, for one thing, keeps its feet firmly on the ground. It is a good citizen. It is substantial citizen. The stronger the wind, the more uncertain the foundation, the more firmly it attaches itself to the soil, the deeper it sends its roots until solid foothold is secured.

"A tree has its hardships just like an individual. Every time there is a strong wind and it is blown back and forth, the tree is strengthened. In fact, it needs that bending back and forth to develop its powers of resistance just as we in our lives are made better because of our difficulties and hardships. If we meet them and overcome them, we are stronger and better in our everyday lives and in our attitude toward others. We are of better fiber.

"If you plant a tree too close to others where it is shady it is deprived of its light—and to us education is light. Such a tree is either stunted or grows up in a narrow sort of way. It does not have a wide outlook. It is narrow in its view. The same is true with you and me. Unless we get light, unless we study and are educated, unless we broaden out and see the problems of others, we are likely to be narrow in our views."

Don't Be A Knocker!

"I think it is wrong, I think it is poor advertising—you know I cannot get entirely away from advertising—to be talking all the time about the waste, and about the grafters and snaps, and all that, in Washington. I heard a lady say the other day that there were things they did not discuss in her family before the children, as they were too young to understand and that she thought it all wrong for us in America to be complaining about the Government, to be saying that this man and that department is inefficient, even dishonest, and so on, because it is poor advertising. There may be somebody standing around who believes you mean it; there may be some foreigner who is not acquainted with our ways over here, and he hears you and goes out and repeats your statements to others. How many of us simply fall into the habit of complaining and criticizing? It is poor advertising. Don't do it."

LABOR EXCHANGE

The following will co-operate with the Farm Bureau in maintaining a free labor exchange for the county. Persons who want work or persons who wish to employ help, should apply there, or register in advance. The Farm Bureau office will serve as a clearing house to keep the different communities in touch, so that a surplus of men in one community can be moved to a point where there is need for them. Make use of this service and get others to make use of it, and the labor problem will not be near so serious, and the men will be helped to keep employed.

SEEKS GASOLINE SUBSTITUTE

An appropriation of $250,000 to enable the Department of Agriculture to make experiments to discover a substitute for gasoline would be provided by a resolution recently offered in the House by Representative Harold Knutson, of Minnesota. The importance of increasing the supply of motor fuel is evident at the request of the House of Representatives regarding the production, distribution and sale of gasoline and other petroleum products in the United States.
