HACKETT-CARHART & Co.

¶ A good tailor can put style into a garment even if the fabric is a cotton mixture or a mercerized cloth. But he can't make a worthy garment of it.

¶ The worth of a Hackett, Carhart suit or overcoat is determined not only by its style, but by the quality of the cloth, which in every instance is absolutely all wool.

Our $25 Winter Suits and Overcoats set a standard that is not excelled by any of the higher price to-order tailors. They come in all the new models and fabrics.

¶ The best $1 Shirt ever shown is here in our men's furnishing departments—fancy stiff bosom shirts with cuffs attached or detached. Special at $1.

After we hit the boy's Derby question, as part of "Everything Boys Wear," we found it an open question which no hatter seemed to care to solve.

But we made a variety of boys' blocks, have kept them up-to-date each season and the other day had the pleasure of hearing from a customer that our most famous hatting friend had sent her to us, as the only place in New York where she could find boys' Derbies of first-rate quality in a variety of stylish blocks.

An Extraordinary Presentation of CERAMIC ART WARES Marble Statuary and Bronzes

There will doubtless be many who are surprised to learn it, as there will be many who will doubt the fact, that here, at WANAMAKER'S today, is an exhibition of Art Wares that has neither counterpart nor equal, in this country.

One famous house will show you a very much greater stock of Bronzes; but not newer or more carefully selected subjects.

Nowhere is there a broader or handsomer collection of Carrara and Castilena Marble Statuary.

Our superb collection of Royal Doulton Wares includes one of the finest vases ever produced by this famous factory. It stands three feet high, is richly laid with gold, and the decoration of the body is a wonderful painting of "Cattle" by Hancock, the acknowledged leader in this class of art. The price is $1500.

Another beautiful vase, by Hancock, is "The Sphinx," at $800.

Many would admire most of all, an exquisite Royal Doulton vase, decorated with Orchids by Dewsberry—so rich and life-like that one can almost smell the perfume. Price, $600.

Each of these vases is a masterpiece of its kind—specimens that are rarely found, and eagerly seized upon by connoisseurs. The entire collection is rich with carefully selected pieces, ranging down to the most popular prices.

The Rörstrand Pottery, probably the most wonderful product of ceramic art, was only introduced to America at the St. Louis Exposition. We secured the exhibit at the close of the Fair. A few straggling pieces may be found elsewhere, but American representation of the Rörstrand Potteries is through John Wanamaker, New York and Philadelphia. This concession was secured by placing with them the largest order the factory had ever heard of.

Art lovers recognize in Rörstrand wares several features that are unknown in any other ware. First, every piece is free-hand work. No moulds are ever used. Each vase or figure is a new creation. All relief work is hand sculpture, and some of it is marvelous. Second, the painting is under-glaze—unknown in the other famous wares. The colorings secured are wonderful, and of a distinctly different character from any other ware. Prices range from $2.40 to $200.

Of course this exhibition is unprecedented with us, as well as with other stores. Our experts were instructed to buy lavishly of the finest things that could be secured, for the opening of our new building. While we were disappointed in opening the new store, we have provided the greatest array of fine art wares for holiday buyers that New York City has ever seen.

The story might continue, if space permitted, through the magnificent collections of Teplitz, Royal Bonn, Royal Vienna, French Mounted Pieces, Vienna Bronzes, Solid Bronzes, French Art Bronzes, Marble Statuary and Pedestals. We have written, and you have read enough.

Lovers of Art, and seekers of rare gifts—Welcome.

FOLDED BALLOT INSIDE OUT.

THEN, THEY SAY, REYNOLDS GOT $2 FOR TAMMANY VOTE.

Sent Back to Fold It Right, He Took the Opportunity to Add a Cross for Jerome—Young Negro Is Held for Trial—Alleged Bribe Giver Evades Detectives.

Lamie W. Reynolds, a negro, 23 years old, who lives at 319 West Forty-fifth street, was arraigned in the Yorkville police court yesterday. The complaining witness declared that the man had received $2 to vote the Democratic ticket at the last election. Reynolds was arrested by one of Capt. Morgan's deputies last Thursday. The charge against him was not disclosed until yesterday, as Attorney-General Mayer was anxious to get a Tammany worker in The McManus's district who was accused of giving the bribe. Sleuths haven't found him yet. It was intimated in court that Reynolds was willing to tell all he knew.

Benjamin McCoy, a negro coal and wood dealer of 332 West Fifty-second street, and Flavius S. Scott, another negro, of 334 West Fifty-third street, made affidavits charging that Reynolds voted in the Twenty-second Election district of the Fifteenth Assembly district. McCoy told Magistrate Breen that on election day the Tammany Hall man asked Reynolds to vote the Tammany ticket by putting a cross in the circle under the star emblem and offered to give him $2. Reynolds, he said, expressed some doubt of his right to vote as he had moved out of the district, but the Tammany man told him it would be all right. The young man was instructed, the witness went on, as to how he was to prove that he "delivered the goods."

"Reynolds came out of the voting booth with his ballot," said McCoy, "folded so that on the outside could be seen the star emblem and the circle under it with the cross in the circle. He held the ballot up so that the watchers could see the cross in the circle. The polling clerk told him that his ballot was not folded right, and sent him back to the booth to fold it properly. He came out again with the ballot folded right and voted."

The witness said that he had been with the young man when the bribe was offered to him and watched the whole proceedings. He also went with the young man when the latter applied to the Tammany man for the money after voting.

"Reynolds told the man that he had voted as directed," went on the witness, "and the man said he knew it, and gave him two $1 bills, and asked him if he had had any trouble in folding the ballot. Reynolds said he had had no trouble, but as he was folding it he saw the name of Jerome in another column and he put a cross in the circle under Jerome's emblem also.

"'What? You voted for Jerome, and I paid you $2 to vote for Osborne and the whole Tammany ticket? You've spoiled the ballot,' the Tammany man responded, according to the witness.

McCoy said the Tammany worker declared that he had a notion to take back the $2, but he didn't attempt to do so.

"Why is not this man who is charged with doing the bribing arrested?" asked Magistrate Breen.

"We are looking for him, but he seems to have got wind of this and seems to have slipped," replied Deputy Attorney-General Chilvers.

Reynolds was held for the Grand Jury.

EFFORT TO TRACK KRUP'S BAIL.

Lawyers to Be Before the Grand Jury—Assemblyman La Fetra Sick.

"The $5,000 floater case" will be before the Grand Jury to-day. One of the witnesses will be Lawyer Charles P. Dillon, who was the floater Krup's attorney. Dillon is a former Assemblyman from Tammany Leader Murphy's district, where Krup is accused of having voted illegally. Another witness will be George Simpson, who put up the $5,000 cash bail for Krup. Simpson says he got the money from Dillon. It is probable that Lawyers Levy and Unger will also be examined. Krup went to their office after he was released on bail, and the detectives let him get away from them when he left the office.

Alderman James E. Gaffney is under a subpœna, but Mr. Mayer refused to say last night that he would be called to-day.

Assemblyman Edward B. La Fetra of Leader Murphy's district was taken suddenly ill on Sunday. Dr. Rufus E. Hubbard, who is attending him, says he is threatened with pneumonia. Mr. La Fetra has said that his connection with the Krup case was simply as counsel for two members of the election board, Zinn and Abendschein, in the district in which Krup voted.

HORSE BLOCKS THE TRAINS.

Ran Over One Trestle Safely, but Got Caught in Another.

BELLEVILLE, N. J., Nov. 20.—A horse belonging to Dr. W. C. Johnson, a veterinary surgeon of 248 Riverside avenue, ran away this morning and took to the Greenwood Lake Railway tracks after having first climbed the steep embankment of the railroad at Washington avenue. The horse crossed the bridge over the latter thoroughfare in safety, but in attempting to cross the Riverside avenue trestle came to grief.

The horse's legs slipped down through the ties, and there he remained for nearly an hour, causing a blockade of all trains. A gang of twenty men got to work and by the aid of boards and ropes succeeded in extricating him.
