BEAT RAIN AND BROOKLYNS

NEW YORK NATIONALS MANAGE TO GET IN A GAME.

Shut Their Neighbors Out in Morning Encounter—Pirates Win Two From Cincinnatis, Who Drop From Second to Fifth Place—Cubs Capture a Couple.

The rain played havoc with the Memorial Day schedules in the Eastern half of the big league circuits. There were morning and afternoon games in the West, but two postponements in Philadelphia and one in Brooklyn in the National League. Thousands of baseball patrons were disappointed and thousands of dollars were kept away from box offices that would have flowed in willingly had the weather been good. There was no game at all in Philadelphia, but New York and Brooklyn managed to get in a morning game. The New Yorks won this and moved up to third place. The Cincinnatis were beaten twice by Pittsburg, which team took fourth place, while the Reds dropped from second to fifth. The Chicagos played rings around the Cardinals both morning and afternoon. The results:

MORNING GAMES.

New York, 5; Brooklyn, 0.
Chicago, 10; St. Louis, 2.
Pittsburg, 1; Cincinnati, 0.
At Philadelphia—Rain.

AFTERNOON GAMES.

NEW YORK (N. L.), 5; BROOKLYN, 0.

There was enough dryness at Washington Park yesterday morning for the New Yorks and Brooklyns to get some benefit from the holiday, and the general rain was not so general in that neighborhood that the two teams could not lock horns before the noon hour. Not only did the two teams beat the rain, but the New Yorks beat the Brooklyns. McGraw's revived brigade passed out a second consecutive shutout to the Brooklyns, and Joe McGinnity's many friends were gratified to see the Iron Man perform in the box with all his old time generalship and easy effectiveness.

The New Yorks played in tiptop form from the breakaway. They played with speed and smoothness, supporting McGinnity in almost unsullied style. There were no hitches or crudities in their tactics, and following their good work of the day before the hope was generated that they are about to cut loose with ball that will carry them to or close to the top. There weren't a great many hits by New York off Pastorius, but the Poloists made everything count and did the greatest amount of business for the chances offered. There were errors back of Pastorius that were costly for the Brooklyns.

The New Yorks put their scoring machinery in motion with the last drop of the hat. After Shannon had boosted a fly to Hummel, Tenney separated the wheat of Pastorius's twisters from the chaff. Four balls were wheat for him and chaff for Pastorius. Donlin laid down a sacrifice and put Tenney on second. Seymour justified the confidence reposed in him by wheeling a single to centre and bringing Tenney through. One run from one hit was an encouraging start and showed ability to realize much from little. The Brooklyns made a single in the first and one in the second inning, but each time with two out, and the hits were wasted.

There were two out in the third, when the New Yorks got busy again. Tenney drifted to first by nosing out Sheehan's throw of his roller. Donlin spun a single to right and Tenney hit the road for third base. Donlin kept on for second, drew a throw and when Hummel dropped the throw Tenney rushed home. A circonic catch by Burch of Seymour's line drive ended the inning. The New Yorks ran into a pretty double play in the fourth after Needham had begun operations with a base hit. The Brooklyns were threatening in their half of the fourth, but that was all. Lumley singled and took second on Jordan's single. Sheehan sacrificed. Lumley hugged third while Herzog was throwing Pattee out at first. Tenney, seeing Jordan had taken a big lead off second, whipped the ball across the prairie to Herzog and Jordan was doubled up.

The fifth inning netted a couple of runs for the New Yorks. Herzog walked and McGinnity sacrificed. Shannon singled and scored Herzog. Bergen made a botch of Maloney's throw in, on which Shannon ran to third, and from that encampment he travelled to the plate when Tenney provided a martyr fly to Maloney. Herzog was not feeling well and Nicklin took his place in the second half of the fifth. In the fifth and sixth the Brooklyns went out one, two, three, but in the seventh Pattee singled with one out. A double play by Nicklin and Tenney removed Pattee and Maloney from the base paths.

Wilhelm pitched the ninth inning for the Brooklyns and had a shaky beginning. He passed Devlin and then made a bad throw to first on Doyle. Devlin stole third, Doyle stole second, Nicklin fanned and Devlin tallied on McGinnity's out from Pattee to Jordan. The score:

DETROIT AND NEW YORK TIED

GRIFFITH'S MEN IDLE WHILE TIGERS WIN TWO.

Beat the White Sox in Both Battles—Browns Take Fourteen Inning Tussle From Clevelands, but Lose Second Set-to—Washingtons Break Even With Bostons.

There is a tie for first place in the American League. It is a sure enough race that is on in this organization, and yesterday the Detroits drew up alongside the New Yorks. The Tigers scalped the White Sox twice, while the New Yorks were idle. The Highlanders started their morning game with the Athletics, but the rain came down before a putout was recorded, and there was no chance for a game during the day. St. Louis won from Cleveland in the morning, a fourteen inning clash. The Clevelands got even in the afternoon. The Bostons and Washingtons broke even. St. Louis and Philadelphia are tied for fourth place. The results:
