IN THE FOOTBALL WORLD

DAY OF SURPRISES ON THE COLLEGE GRIDIRONS.

Best Yale Can Do Is to Tie Brown Men, Who Outplay the Elis and Make Two Touchdowns—Quakers Make Big Total—Close Call for West Point Team.

Surprises—and big surprises—were in order on the college gridirons yesterday. One of them was the fact that the best Yale could do against Brown was to tie the Providence men in a game in which the Brunonians made two touchdowns to Yale's one. It was the first time this year Yale has been scored on, and the Elis were outplayed by their opponents. Another surprise was the ease with which Harvard disposed of the Indians and another the defeat of Syracuse by Colgate. The Army team had a close call with Springfield Training School and Cornell did not have the easy time expected with Amherst.

The results boom Harvard's stock and make the Crimson look to be the strongest team of all at this writing. Princeton was humbled by Dartmouth, but just how Yale and Princeton compare on the result of the day's score depends on the comparative strength of Dartmouth and Brown. Pennsylvania made a big total against Lafayette and looms up the strongest apparently of any of the teams except Harvard.

The Yale freshmen were victorious in their annual clash with the Princeton youngsters, and the Navy won easily from Villanova. The latter, however, crossed the Navy's goal line. The results follow:

Harvard, 17; Indians, 0.
Yale, 10; Brown, 10.
Dartmouth, 10; Princeton, 0.
Pennsylvania, 34; Lafayette, 4.
Cornell, 6; Amherst, 0.
Colgate, 6; Syracuse, 0.
Annapolis, 30; Villanova, 0.
West Point, 6; S. T. S., 5.
Yale Freshmen, 5; Princeton Freshmen, 0.
Williams, 0; Vermont, 0.
Trinity, 42; Wesleyan, 0.
Andover, 12; Exeter, 0.
Rutgers, 6; Delaware, 0.
Michigan, 62; Kentucky State, 0.
R. P. I., 11; N. Y. U., 0.
Stevens, 16; Jefferson Medical, 0.
Union, 38; Hobart, 6.

YALE VIRTUALLY BEATEN.

Brown Makes Two Touchdowns but No Goals, Hence a 10-10 Tie.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 7.—The Yale football team was held for a tie this afternoon. Brown and Yale finished with the score 10 to 10. A decade or so ago Brown tied Yale 6 to 6, and that has always been one of Brown's most treasured athletic memories. Brown played all around Yale to-day individually and as a team. Yale played without Kilpatrick at end. Warren, who started the game in his place, had not played the position for two years. Then he was end on the Washington and Jefferson team.

A good crowd of Brown rooters were on hand at the start of the game and the Yale cheering stands contained 10,000. In a stand by themselves, where they could cheer to their heart's content, were several hundred boys of the city, the guests of the Yale management.

Hobbs kicked off for Yale and on the recovery McKay punted. Coy received the punt, gained ten yards and then dropped the ball. Raquet got it for Brown. The ball then was on Yale's 30 yard line. Mayhew made two line plunges, which brought the ball ten yards from the goal. Dennie took the ball on a forward pass from Sprackling and scored, bringing the thousands in the stands to their feet. It was the first time the Yale goal line had been crossed this year, and that in the first five minutes of play. Mayhew failed to kick the goal from touchdown.

Yale took new life, and after the kickoff Brides rushed the ball to the 30 yard line. There Brown held Yale for two downs. Murphy dropped back and held the ball for a placement kick. Coy made the goal, to the surprise of the Yale cheering section. It was not known he had ability along this line. Brown still led, 5 to 4.

The ball was put back in play again but Yale was listless. Sprackling ran the Brown team with snap and vigor and McKay and Mayhew made gain after gain. Mayhew made a pretty ten yard run around Warren's end and made a forward pass to Dennie. Dennie took the pass, but was thrown by Biddle without gain. Mayhew punted back to Yale's 30 yard line and Coy made a good twenty yard run through a broken field.

Philbin fumbled and Brown got the ball. Sprackling made a quarterback run for twenty yards. The Yale goal line was near again and a forward pass, which had been so successful before, was tried. Coy broke up the play, caught the ball and ran back twenty-five yards, relieving the attack on the Yale line.

Brides then went thirty yards straight through the centre, but was sent back on account of holding. Coy punted and Logan tackled Mayhew after a thirty yard run. This ended the first half.

McKay kicked off for Brown in the second period. Coy punted back. Sprackling tried a quarterback run, but was thrown so hard by Goebel that he was unable to get up for five minutes. Murphy left the game and Johnson took his place at quarter. Johnson got the signals off quickly. A punting contest between Coy and McKay took up five minutes.

Philbin made an onside kick, which Coy recovered for twenty yards, following it up with a thirty yard run and threatening the Brown goal. A fumble by Philbin stopped the advance. Mayhew made two ten yard gains and McKay punted. Coy returned it.

The Yale tackles were doing no work at all and the backs, Brides in particular, were playing their positions and those of the line men too. On McKay's next punt, however, Coy ran in thirty yards. Johnson made a quarterback run of ten yards across the field. A delayed forward pass to Logan got thirty yards. The Yale cheering section arose, yelling "touchdown." Johnson tried another forward pass, this time giving the ball to Haines, who went over the line for a touchdown. Hobbs kicked goal. With the score 10 to 5 the outlook for Yale brightened.

Regnier was withdrawn from the game by Brown. Jarvis took his place. Philbin got the ball from Johnson and tried a forward pass to Logan. Dennie intercepted it and ran thirty yards for another touchdown for Brown.

With the score tied McKay punted out, but the ball was not held properly and Brown lost the trial for the goal and the chance for victory. The Yale back field was changed, Daly and Holt taking the places of Brides and Coy. Holt and Philbin rushed the ball to the fifty yard line and Daly made a twenty yard run. Daly tried a goal from the field against the wind and missed it.

The feature of the day came just at the close. McKay took the ball from Sprackling and went fifty yards over the line, with good interference and outstripping all would-be tacklers. Referee Thompson called the ball back on account of holding and the whistle blew before another play.

MANY PENN TOUCHDOWNS.

Lafayette Scores First and Stirs the Red and Blue to Great Things.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7.—Pennsylvania put a crimp in Lafayette's unbeaten record to-day on Franklin Field, winning 34 to 4. After McCaa kicked a goal from placement from the 35 yard line for the first score of the game Pennsylvania woke up, got busy and tore her way through the Lafayette line for touchdown after touchdown in grand style. The Easton team was quickly beaten in the first half, 17 to 4, and the finishing touches were put on in the second period, when the substitutes got a chance to take a little practice.

All that with Coach Yost of Michigan an interested spectator. Pennsylvania did not uncover anything new in the way of plays, but the Red and Blue did display a lot of good interference and good line work.

It was first blood for Lafayette that put life into the Pennsylvania team, for before that incident the Quakers did not play very aggressively and were several times repulsed in their attacks on the Lafayette goal. The first time they were held for downs on the 46 yard line. A fumble by Lamberton lost the ball on the 40 yard line and a little later Braddock fumbled a forward pass, which gave Lafayette the ball on its 30 yard line. Again a fifteen yard penalty stopped Pennsylvania on the 5 yard line and prevented a touchdown.

McCaa got off one of his long punts, which fell between Miller and Hollenback. Gross raced down the field and got the ball on the bound. He dashed for the Pennsylvania goal and was not caught by Big Bill Hollenback until the fifteen yard line was reached.

It looked pretty good for Lafayette's chances, but Pennsylvania held the visitors for downs.

The excitement continued, for Hollenback made the mistake when so near his own goal and in the face of a breeze to punt directly ahead and into the arms of Edwards, who made a free catch on the 35 yard line and directly in front of the goal posts. McCaa made a very accurate kick and sent the ball flying over the bar. Then the deluge. The line-up and summary:

WALDER DID IT ALL.

Cornell Captain Beat Amherst, 6 to 0, Apparently Unaided.

ITHACA, Nov. 7.—One man, towering over the heads of all of his fellows, won for Cornell to-day in the game against Amherst. Capt. Walder, playing one of the greatest games in his career, staved off an Amherst touchdown in the first half by a series of superb punts and in the second fought his way almost alone from the 50 yard mark to the goal line. Gardner kicked goal and the game ended with the score 6 to 0.

Gray, Amherst's negro right halfback, ripped up the Cornell line from tackle to tackle, and when plunges failed he managed to wriggle and worm his way through almost every time. Smith and Blake were almost as successful. The Amherst team gained five first downs through the line in the first half and worked several forward passes with great effect.

The ball was forced continually into Cornell's territory throughout the first half, but fifty and sixty yard punts by Capt. Walder sent the New Englanders back to begin all over again every time they approached the Cornell goal line.

In the second half Cornell braced. After Hutchinson and Shearer made several vain attempts to score by end runs Cornell suddenly settled down with a series of irresistible line attacks that would not be denied. Except for two short dashes by Tydeman and Shearer, Capt. Walder carried the ball all the way down the field. Right and left of centre, through centre and outside of tackle he repeatedly gained ground.

Four times in the advance the big captain was stretched motionless on the ground, but he revived and went back to the attack. Once the coaches sent out Pope to take his place, but waving his substitutes aside Walder ordered Gardner to call on him again.

On the 4 yard line Amherst made a stand but Walder on a fake wing formation crashed through for a touchdown. After that the ball was constantly in Amherst territory, once on the 4 yard line, but Cornell could not score. Walder made two fruitless attempts at field goals in the first half. The lineup and summary:

SYRACUSE TRIPS UP.

Colgate Wins by Following the Ball Better Than the Orange.

SYRACUSE, Nov. 7.—Colgate defeated Syracuse here to-day by a score of 6 to 0. Syracuse kicked off to Colgate. The latter was unable to gain and kicked on the third down. McDonnell of Colgate got the ball after it bounded and ran nearly the length of the field for the only touchdown of the game. Woodman kicked the goal. This was in the first two minutes of the game.

For the rest of the half the play was in Colgate territory, but Syracuse was unable to get the ball beyond the 20 yard line. Just before time was called Cadigan of Syracuse failed in trying for a goal from placement.

The field was a mass of mud. Syracuse three times got the ball within fifteen yards of the goal, but each time was held for downs. The game ended with the Syracuse ball on the Hamiltonians' 5 yard line. Colgate's individual playing was excellent and the backs were sure of every play. The lineup and summary:

NAVY SHOWS UP WELL.

Villanova First to Score, but Outclassed Thereafter.

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 7.—After being scored against in the first two minutes of play this afternoon against Villanova by a forward pass which Barry intercepted the Navy played a dashing game and ran up 30 points, made up of three field goals and three touchdowns and goals. Pennsylvania and Carlisle scored only twice on the same team and Princeton only once. The whole eleven played with great vim and spirit and kept its head after having 6 points made against it before the team had really warmed up.

In the second half nearly every position was filled with a substitute, but the scoring went on just as regularly. The Midshipmen scored three field goals, probably the largest number ever made in one game by a Naval Academy team, certainly the most in recent years. There were five chances, Lange kicking the first and Northcroft taking two and missing as many. Lange's and one of Northcroft's were rather easy, but the big captain's other accepted chance was at a hard angle from the thirty yard line.

The visitors were discouraged by the failure of the combinations of forward and backward passes and short kicks, which are said to have worked against the big teams they have played this season, but which did not amount to much against the Navy this afternoon. Frequently the passes were intercepted, while most of the short kicks went straight into the arms of Navy backs, who got splendid chances of running the ball back.

Dalton's touchdown, the first in the second half, was made after he had received the ball on a short kick and he made a fine fifty yard run. Slingluff, the Navy centre, scored the second touchdown of the half by some remarkable playing. Villanova had the ballon its own 20 yard line and Barry punted. Slingluff blocked it but Barry succeeded in recovering it. On the next play Slingluff again blocked the punt and this time was able to fall on the ball behind the visitors' goal line.

Barry's run after he had intercepted a forward pass from Lange intended for Reifsnider was a spectacular play. He received on his own 15 yard line and ran ninety-five yards for a touchdown.

ARMY REGULARS TO RESCUE.

Philoon and Greble Sent In to Save Game From Springfield.

WEST POINT, Nov. 7.—West Point, with a substitute team in the lineup, got a scare to-day, but by rushing in Greble and Philoon after Springfield Training School scored late in the second half won out by 6 to 5. The cadets kept the visitors on the defensive almost the whole game. Two forward passes gave Springfield its opportunity, and Winters plunged around right end for the touchdown from the 5 yard mark.

Greble and Philoon went to the rescue and in five plays Greble and Brown tore through straight for a touchdown and later again after a fifty yard run by Greble lost the ball on Springfield's 5 yard line on an unsuccessful forward pass.

The Army got within the 5 yard line four times during the game. Twice the visitors held and twice penalties took away the chance.

The lineup and summary:

R. P. I. ROUGH AND VICTORIOUS.

New York University Likely to Stop Meeting the Trojans.

TROY, Nov. 7.—By a score of 11 to 0 the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute football team defeated New York University this afternoon. The game was marked by such rough play that Coach Olcott of the visitors said he would go before the faculty and insist that R. P. I. be stricken from the schedule.

The field was wet and slippery and fumbles were many. The New Yorkers outplayed the students in the first half and got the ball to the 5 yard line, but could not get it over. In the second half the Trojans went through the line and around the ends for two touchdowns. The lineup and summary:

STEVENS WINS, 16 TO 0.

Jefferson Medics Heavier but Not So Clever, the Returns Show.

The Stevens Institute football team defeated the Jefferson Medics on Castle Point Field yesterday afternoon by the score of 16 to 0. The home team scored twice in the first half and kicked one goal from a touchdown and in the second period of play registered another touchdown. The visitors outweighed their opponents but made first down only once. The Stevens team was fast and made frequent gains of twenty yards on end runs and forward passes.

The home team also went through the Medics' line for good gains. When the whistle blew at the end of the second half Stevens had the ball on the visitors' 3 yard line.

The lineup and summary:

Rutgers and Delaware Tie.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 7.—In a loose game, marked by much fumbling by Rutgers, the teams of Rutgers and Delaware College played a tie to-day, 6 to 6. The Rutgers team went into the game with too much confidence, having defeated Delaware last year by the score of 39 to 0, but from the start the Southern team showed they would put up a desperate fight.

Rutgers scored early in the first half and kept the ball constantly in their opponents' territory. They were prevented from scoring again only by costly fumbling. In the second half Rutgers took the ball the whole length of the field to their opponents' 8 yard line only to fumble and let a Delaware man recover the ball and carry it the length of the field for a touchdown.

It looks as though the Rutgers team has too heavy a schedule. The last two weeks they have been playing two games a week.

Erasmus Hall Makes 46 Points.

Townsend Harris was defeated by the Erasmus Hall eleven at Saratoga Park, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon. Erasmus ran up a score of 46 points in thirty minutes, Townsend failing to score. The Townsend line was strong and nearly all of Erasmus's gains were made by end runs. Another play which worked well was a fake pass in which the tackles were shifted over to end as though to receive the ball. When the Townsend line went over to intercept the supposed play the fullback, Latham, was sent through centre.

HARVARD PLAYS GREAT GUNS

CRIMSON SIMPLY SMOTHERS INDIAN ELEVEN.

All the Craft and Guile Goes for Nothing, Because the Cambridge Men Are Alert and Capable—Score, 17 to 0, Shows Strength of Victorious Team.

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 7.—Harvard humbled the pride of the Carlisle Indians this afternoon and took a sweet revenge for their last year's defeat by running up 17 points and preventing the Indians from scoring. To those who went down to the stadium in the expectation of seeing the Indians reel off spectacular runs and kick goals from the field the game was a disappointment. To the Harvard crowd the powerful offence of their eleven, their dogged defensive work and all around aggressiveness was the most agreeable sight that has ever been presented in the stadium.

The weather was magnificent for football, with a cloudy sky and a brisk breeze blowing from the west goal. The field was in elegant shape owing to the hay with which it had been convered for the last few nights and was as dry as Coach Warner could have desired for his fleet footed charges. More than 25,000 people packed the immense stadium, 12,000 of whom were there as early as 1 o'clock. On the side lines were some football scouts anxious to see how the Crimson was shaping. Among them was Jim Hogan of Yale

The game was a splendid exhibition of old fashioned football on the part of the Crimson, interspersed with just enough open playing to bring the spectators to their feet again and again in their excitement. Carlisle tried a few open formations and used the direct pass to its backs frequently, but on the whole found that its best ground gaining plays were tackle bucks, with Thorpe carrying the ball. There was a lot of punting, in which respect the visitors had a slight advantage over the Crimson after Kennard left the game. As a whole the contest was clean. There were many penalties on Harvard. On one occasion this was nearly costly to the Crimson.

Kennard, the Harvard fullback, was put out of the game early in the first half by Umpire Edwards for unnecessary roughness and Harvard lost forty-four yards, or half the distance to their goal line, as a result of it. Kennard did not actually strike a Carlisle man, but after a rush in which there had been some strenuous work the Harvard fullback grabbed an opponent who had been blocking him off and shook him. This did not escape the vigilant eye of Bill Edwards and he sent Kennard to the side lines.

In the first half the Harvard team lost 79 yards by reason of penalties, while infringements of the rules, mostly in the matter of holding, cost her 50 in the second half. Carlisle was penalized once only, losing 5 yards in the first half for offside play.

Two of Harvard's touchdowns came in the first half, the first after about sixteen minutes of play. The Crimson had the wind at its back and managed, after receiving the kickoff, to keep the ball in Carlisle's territory. After skirmishing for a while Cutler caught a punt on his 35 yard line. Browne took the ball from his position of left end for nine yards through right tackle. White, Verwiebe and Corbett advanced the leather by hard line plunging to the Carlisle 46 yard line.

Cutler made an onside kick, enabling McKay to recover the ball on the 22 yard line. Corbett burst through right tackle, and aided by magnificent interference on the part of White and Cutler evaded little Balenti in the back field and planted the ball squarely between the goal posts. McKay failed at his try for goal.

The next score was at the end of the half almost as time was being called. A punt caught by Cutler at midfield was advanced by the Harvard quarter five yards before he was tackled by Wauseka. Corbett and White advanced the ball to the four yard line by a series of magnificent line plunges in which the whole Harvard line gathered around their runner and tugged and hauled like cart horses. Here Leslie was substituted for Corbett and aided by the fresh man White slammed through left guard for a touchdown. McKay kicked this goal.

The final touchdown came as the result of the most consistent ground gaining of the whole game. After taking the ball on downs on the Crimson one yard line the Harvard players carried it straight down the field by a series of desperate line plunges, aided by a forty-eight yard run by Cutting, who had succeeded Gil Browne, and a forward pass from Cutler to Fish which netted a gain of sixteen yards.

White, the line bucking halfback, contributed perhaps most of all to the steady advance, and after the ball was on Carlisle's 8 yard line he was relieved by Smith. The wisdom of the change was shown by the increased steam in the back field, and in two more plays Leslie was dragged across the goal line for the third and last touchdown, McKay kicking the goal.

Harvard had it on Carlisle in every department of football except punting and handling kicks. Even in this latter part of the game there was a vast improvement on the part of the Harvard back field. Although punts were fumbled none was recovered by the Indians. Gil Browne, who was brought back from end, greatly strengthened the team in catching punts. While he played back Corbett was sent up into the line at left end.

Only three times in the game did the Indians get within Harvard's 30 yard line. On only two of those occasions did they seem dangerous. In the first half, after Harvard's first touchdown, Carlisle braced and her offence showed its only consistent form of the day. There was a flash of the daring strategy which has made Warner famous.

Cutler punted out from his 20 yard line after Corbett had touched Balenti's kickoff down behind the Harvard goal posts. Thorpe fumbled the punt but recovered it on his 45 yard line. Thorpe and Paine netted eight yards through the right side of their line. Then Balenti worked the only fake he was able to pull off in the game.

The ball was passed to Thorpe direct as for a run around right end. He ran a few steps and passed to Hendricks, who started for the other extremity of the line. When on the point of being tackled he deftly hurled the ball to the giant Wauseka, who caught it and ran to the 18 yard line. Paine took two yards through left guard and then Thorpe cut loose through right tackle for a beautiful run such as he made in the Pennsylvania game. He was downed on Harvard's 4 yard line by Cutler.

Hendricks was stopped for no gain at right tackle. Then Balenti tried a straight forward pass to Wauseka, but Harvard obliterated the crafty tackle and the ball struck the ground. Quick as a flash Cutler grabbed it and was off down the field, with the crowd yelling like mad. He was tackled and thrown on Carlisle's 45 yard line, but the play did not go, as the ball was called back on account of the incompleted forward pass. Carlisle got the ball on Harvard's 25 yard line, squarely in front of the goal posts. Now if ever was the opportunity for Thorpe or Balenti to show goal kicking ability, but Balenti tried a forward pass, and the crowd breathed easier, as it landed squarely in McKay's arms on the 15 yard line.

In the second half Thorpe's punt from his 6 yard line was juggled by Cutler on his 40 yard line and after rolling along was recovered by Leslie on Harvard's 4 yard line. Cutler's only error in judgment during the game, in trying to run Browne around the end from a fake kick formation, cost Harvard a loss of eight yards. Cutler's punt went out of bounds on the 17 yard line, and here was another opportunity for the Indian kickers.

They realized it this time and after Thorpe had run the ball out in front of the goal posts he dropped back to the 22 yard line to try for a goal from placement. This was what the Harvard line had been coached for. The men spread way apart, leaving nobody at the centre. As soon as the ball was passed to Kelly, who had succeeded Balenti, the Harvard forwards swept down upon him from the sides and simply smeared Thorpe's kick, which was blocked by McKay. It rolled along to the 30 yard line, where an Indian recovered it.

Only once more, after the last kickoff, did the Indians get inside Harvard's danger zone. After receiving the kickoff, the Crimson was penalized for holding. Galatti, Cutler's successor, punted to Kelly on the 45 yard line, who ran the ball back 20 yards. Kelly again advanced the leather by way of right end to the Harvard 20 yard line, and rushes by Hauser carried it to the 14 yard line when time was called. The Indians looked dangerous at this period.

Harvard's attack was simply irresistible at times and it seemed to gather power as the game advanced. Twice the Crimson lost sure chances of touchdowns through penalties inflicted for holding in the line. At the opening of the second half after receiving the kickoff Thorpe punted to Cutler on Harvard's 34 yard line. From here by steady line crashing, aimed largely on tackles, Harvard carried the ball down the field. White galloped through left guard with nearly all the twenty-one men on the field holding onto some part of his person and took fourteen yards.

Leslie was just as effective by his great twisting and squirming, and finally broke through right tackle and forced his way to the 1 yard line. Here Harvard was set back for offside play. Two rushes by Leslie put the Crimson back again on the 4 yard line and then somebody held and Harvard lost fifteen yards. Three yards by Leslie in two rushes and a forward pass caught by Crowley failed to net the required distance, and Carlisle took the ball on downs and punted.

The Crimson came back stronger than ever and fought her way back to the 3 yard line on the same kind of tactics, only to be penalized again fifteen yards for holding. Again Carlisle took the ball on downs and again punted. The Crimson resumed rushing tactics and had the ball on the 10 yard line, when White fumbled and Thorpe made his punt which carried the ball far down into the Harvard territory, as has been described.

The Crimson relied mostly on straight line plunging plays from its tandem formation, but also used the forward pass four times, working it successfully each time. Carlisle tried the forward pass four times, but only managed to work it once. Harvard tried the onside kick several times, and twice got away with it, McKay recovering the first time and Browne getting it the second time after a mad scramble on the cinder path over on the Carlisle sidelines. Only two attempts at field goals were made, one by Kennard just before he was taken out of the game, which dropped far short of the goal posts, and the other by Thorpe, which was blocked.

Cutler ran the Harvard team to perfection, feeding the ball smoothly to his backs, choosing his plays well and getting them off very speedily. He was much surer in the back field on punts and helped his runner finely. Galatti, who relieved him, also did well. White, Corbett and Leslie did yeoman work at advancing the ball for Harvard. Verwiebe and Smith, though their part was not so spectacular, contributed a great deal by the way they helped the runner.

The Harvard line from tackle to tackle played better as a whole than any Harvard line since 1901. The men charged together like a snowplough, sweeping back all before them and sliced through and spilled the runner again and again for a loss. McKay and Fish were brilliant, the former recovering an onside kick, catching a Carlisle forward pass and falling on a fumble, as well as helping his runner well and playing his position hard against the powerful Little Boy.

Fish caught two of Harvard's forward passes and got into every play. Nourse and Hoar were as steady as clockwork, and Dunlap showed that Capt. Burr need not worry over the way left guard is being looked after. At the ends Browne and Crowley, who started the game, were reliable on the defence, but were not so much in evidence down the field on punts, except on one occasion when Crowley made a magnificent tackle of the elusive Balenti, downing him in his tracks after he had caught a fine long punt of Cutler's. Cutting, who took Browne's place, ran very well with the ball and was also strong on the defensive.

The Carlisle line was a distinct disappointment. It was slow in getting to work on the offence except on a few occasions, and defensively was far weaker than it was supposed to be. Wauseka and La Roque seemed to be the most vulnerable spots, and Harvard's tandem smashed into them time and time again for substantial gains. Gardner and Little Old Man at the ends were brilliant and tackled like fiends, although their tackling was very high. All the Carlisle men seemed to go instinctively for the heads of the Harvard runners.

Thorpe was the mainstay of the Carlisle back field, although the powerful Hauser showed some of his last year's ability when he succeeded Paine. Thorpe made several brilliant runs and his punting was at all times pretty good. Hendricks, Paine and Libby were slow. Balenti fell short of the high reputation he had achieved as a field general and neglected frequent opportunities to score field goals.

The way the Harvard substitutes were put into the game spoke volumes for the football ability of Coach Haughton and his assistants. Every time at the critical point, where fresh blood was necessary to stimulate the Harvard offence Haughton sent in a new man, and each time his decision was shown to be a wise one. Leslie, Smith and Cutting each did the trick for which they were sent in and a little besides.

YALE FRESH WIN.

Perhaps an Omen in Outcome of Contest With Princeton, 1912.

PRINCETON, Nov. 7.—The Princeton cubs were unable to do the trick against the Yale freshmen here this afternoon, and the final result of their annual football game ended with one touchdown in Yale's favor. The goal was easy but was missed. In the first half Princeton had the advantage. Using Hart and White, the Tiger cubs twice got within striking distance, but Yale held at the critical times.

In the second half Yale started with a rush. Plays directed against Norman and Bissell with Evans and Potter as battering rams netted steady gains. The New Haven men pushed Evans from the 5 yard line for the only tally. Savage missed the goal.

Just before time was called Hart grabbed a fumble out of the pile, but stumbled into a Yale man, losing the chance to score. The lineup and summary:
