I was passing through Morgan Co., this state, says Mr. H. G. Lester of Martha, Ky., when I was taken with a running off of the bowels and cramping of the stomach. I stopped with Mr. H. M. THE NEWS AROUND HOME.

This morning's rain was a welcome visitor.

Dr. Rosenbaum has equipped himself with a brand new top buggy, one of the finest ever driven on Lincoln county soil. O. A. Rudolph sold the vehicle and the readers of the FARMERS' ADVOCATE are reminded of the fact that he has plenty more of them.

The severe high wind of last Saturday afternoon and evening was a serious detriment to growing fruits. Apples, currents, plums, cherries, gooseberries etc were seriously injured by the storm and in some instances fruit and forest trees were much damaged.

The McGibeny family filled their engagement in this city last Wednesday evening. The entertainment had been well advertised and was attended by a full house. The exhibition was all that was claimed for it and none went away disappointed in their expectations.

On Thursday, July 17, the members of the Norwegian Lutheran church of this city will hold a meeting for the purpose of transacting some important business pertaining to the welfare of the congregation. The FARMERS' ADVOCATE has been requested to announce that every member of the church is desired to be present.

Among the most interesting sports on the fair grounds Saturday was the ball game between the Parker and Rock Valley clubs. It was a horrid day on ball-players, but the game had been advertised and was consequently gone through with after a fashion. At the end of the game the score stood 21 to 14 in favor of the Parker club.

E. J. Kean, the wideawake grocer is one of the few business men who understand the science of advertising, not only through the local press but also in various other channels. Cirous day he chartered one of the big elephants backs to carry an advertising card painted in large letters on canvass. The novel advertisement attracted wide attention and created considerable amusement.

One of the young fellows connected with the McGibeny family concert, who imagines himself pretty light-footed, was tendered an unpleasant surprise the other evening. He advanced the boasting proposition to "run against anything in town" and the boys presented the name of E. J. Kean, the popular grocer of this place, who "runs once in a while," as a proper candidate. The proposition was consummated in a fifty yard race in which the concertist got left nearly twenty yards.

Rev. A. Jameson of the First Methodist church of this city preached two splendid sermons Sunday morning and evening, notwithstanding the intense heat. His morning theme was on the ideal christian life, and in his discourse the reverend gentleman presented a masterly picture of what a true christian life really is. In the evening he spoke on the doctrine of the resurrection of the soul and treated the subject interestingly and satisfactorily. If Rev. Jameson is a true specimen of Canton preachers, the christian masses need not hunger and thirst for effectual preaching.

County court opened Tuesday noon with nine liquor cases on the docket with which it has been wrestling all week. Two of the Lennox cases have been tried—those of Henry Wheelhouse and J. Gaykin, and in both cases the jury found for the state. They are both original package cases and will probably be carried up to the higher courts. Wheelhouse and Gaykin were both up on the charge of dealing in original packages and permitting the contents to be used upon the premises. They are the first cases of the kind so far reported in the state and may create considerable public interest.

This office has been considerably inconvenienced, in the confusion and turmoil attending the matter of starting, in different ways and if there are some of the regular subscribers who have not received their papers regularly, or in some cases have received two or three copies of the same issue, they may charge the irregularity against the inconvenience the office has had. Among other things that have troubled us, are the inking rollers for the power press, the factory sending winter instead of summer rollers, which would be all right if seasoned, but their being new, were too soft to be put to immediate use. It is hoped to receive a new set in time to use the press this week. If this hope is finally shattered like many others have been during the past few weeks, our only alternative is to go either to neighbor Nash or the Sioux Falls Press for consolation.

Sunday was, according to results obtained at THE FARMERS' ADVOCATE observatory, the hottest day in many years in this section. The thermometer registered 104 in the shade a good share of the day and the atmosphere was almost burning hot. Actually, were it not for the well established reputation of this paper for truth and veracity, it would not publish the statement, but the sun was so hot that in some places it scorched the boards on the sidewalk in Canton, and the next day farmers came in from the country with the story that potatoes were baked in the hills under the ground, pigs and chickens were roasted alive in pens and barn-yards and chimneys on housetops were fairly scorched to a char. The editor undertook to attend church that day—the first time in two years—and on his return home he found to his amazement that his toes had melted into a liquid in his boots. Varily, it was hot, awful hot.

The advertising department of this paper has been in an unsatisfactory condition, owing to the fact that the office has been short of type and material to set advertising matter in. About three columns of advertising, in addition to what is now running, has been ordered by business men of this and other points in the county and which has been obliged to wait the arrival of an invoice of more type. It was hoped that this would be received in time to have the waiting advertising appear this week, but railroads and type foundries don't move any faster than the rest of creation, it seems; consequently we are obliged to wait another week.

The races here on the Fourth and fifth were very good, meeting the approval of all attendants. THE FARMERS' ADVOCATE force of reporters were busy getting out the second number of the paper while the races occurred by reason of which it is obliged to apologize to its readers for not having a complete report of the doings. As soon as the paper gets to running smoothly, and everything gets into proper shape—a place is established for for everything, and everything becomes adopted to its place—the paper will contain as near as possible all the news of the week and also more original editorial and miscellaneous matter, but thus far it has been impossible for the management to get up a good paper. But give us time and we'll supply every deficiency or die in the attempt.

Henry Frinkman, the good-looking and jovial assessor of Brooklyn township has been in town most of the week attending court and looking after the interests of his township at the meeting of the board of supervisors. Mr Frinkman has been assessor of his township for six consecutive years and seems to have given excellent satisfaction among his people. From the officials at the court house it is reported that the assessment of Brooklyn township ranks among the very best in the county. It is proper to add in this connection that through Mr. Frinkman's efforts, a number of old timber claims in Brooklyn township, owned by parties who failed to comply with the law, have been made subject to taxation by the board of commissioners. The property involves an assessment of over three thousand dollars.

Messrs. Shanley and Hammit are boring a well for Ed. Wardwell on his farm in Dayton. They are already down one hundred and fifty feet.

The celebration at Worthing on the Fourth was a success in every sense of the word. It takes the Alliance to get up a picnic and no mistake.

Will Brown and Joe Engleman who lately returned from the reservation do not report very favorably of that country and are now willing to work in peace on their farms in Dayton.

Although the Nine Mile Creekers did not come out victorious in the base ball contest at Worthing on the Fourth, they did some pretty good playing considering their not being in practice. Only five of the original nine were present.

Judge Shannon returned Monday from a week's vacation, spent in visiting his former home at Elk Point where the judge delivered an excellent oration on the Fourth.

A. L. Syverud has been up to his neck in politics this week, having attended the Independent State convention at Huron. He says it is harder work for him than to plow corn.

John Allibone, one of Delepre townships enterprising farmers was at the county capital on business Tuesday and called to donate a copper for the support of the new paper and the cause of reform.

Hon. P. F. McClure, of Pierre, was in the city a few hours Wednesday rustling up votes for Pierre for the capital. He says Pierre is gaining every day and that it is going to carry the day beyond a doubt.

A. P. Dixon came home from Washington on Tuesday morning's train after an absence of a couple of weeks. While he seems, acts, talks, walks and even laughs like the same old Dixon that left here two weeks ago, he has in reality undergone quite a change. He left here plain, common, A. P. Dixon, Esquire, ex-heriff of Lincoln county, wearing a slouch hat and an old suit of clothes and he came back Hon. A. P. Dixon a full fledged servant of Uncle Sam.

LINCOLN COUNTY RECOGNIZED.
Two Old Settlers Rewarded For Their Fidelity To The G. O. P.

The many friends of A. P. Dixon and W. M. Dent, both old settlers and gentlemen of high standing in this section, will be surprised, perhaps, to hear that these gentlemen both came to the front this week, each with a government appointment. The particulars of their respective appointments as well as the favor with which they are received in this locality, are fully set forth in the following:

WHAT AN "OLD TIMER" SAYS.
So Lincoln county has finally been rewarded for its loyalty to the g. o. p. with two government appointments: A. P. Dixon and W. M. Dent, are the fortunate appointees. The former, Mr. Dixon has been promoted to the office of Indian agent at Crow Creek and Lower Brule agencies and Mr. Dent will be government farmer, his duty being to make farmers out of young Indians—teach them the science of agriculture. Mr. Dent is an old settler in this county and his appointment is as it should be, a recognition of the pioneer settler of this locality. Mr. Dixon is also an old timer, coming to this state in seventy-five. He is also a farmer and a man of much prominence, having filled the office of sheriff for six years with marked ability. He afterwards became identified with the Alliance in this county and bade fair to become a strong and powerful worker in the cause of labor reform; but, alas! dame fortune has snatched him from us and will, on the fourth of next month place him in a greater field of labor reform—if that be possible—that of reforming and teaching the red man our methods of civilization, our arts and our sciences.

I think the Harrison Administration has made a wise choice—in the selection of these men though it takes from our midst two of our best and most estimable citizens. OLD TIMER.
