CUBS SQUARE THE ACCOUNT

TAKE FOUR OUT OF FIVE FROM THE GIANTS.

Brown Shuts the New Yorkers Out in the Final Contest of the Series—Reds Stop Off and Crush Brooklyns—Pirates Beat Bostons—Phillies Down St. Louis

Making their last appearance of the season at the Polo Grounds yesterday, the champion Cubs took occasion to shut out the Giants and take their fourth game in the series of five. The Pittsburgs also were winners, beating the Bostons, and it is now a two team fight for the pennant with the Chicagos having only a fighting chance at the best. At that it isn't likely that the thing will be definitely decided until the closing two weeks. The Brooklyns were roughly treated by the Cincinnatis, and the Cardinals, who are having a hard trip, were walloped by the Phillies. The results:

Chicago, 2; New York, 0.

Cincinnati, 9; Brooklyn, 4.

Pittsburg, 7; Boston, 2.

Philadelphia, 11; St. Louis, 6.

The Cubs didn't win four straight from the Giants in the series that closed here yesterday, as the New Yorks did on their last trip to Chicago, but they squared accounts nevertheless. They shut out the Giants for a farewell performance, taking as big a four out of five as were taken from them on their own field. The impenetrable pitching of Brown and a fielding game, which was every bit as stanch, kept the Giants in the zero zone.

The champions effected two round tours. A wild throw by Schaefer gave them one run; the other they earned. Chance apparently figured on a stiff pitching bout, with runs few and far between, and made use of sacrifice hitting whenever the opportunity afforded. He engineered one run that way and would have had another but for careless base running by Evers in the first inning. Wiltse pitched well, but not as consistently as Brown. It was impossible for the Giants to make more than one hit an inning.

The rapid and reliable fielding of the Cubs was kept up without a hitch from end to end. It was as near perfect fielding as could be. The game drew fairly well, but yet the smallest crowd of the series. There was an end of the season atmosphere about. Weather touched with premature chilliness was one reason; another was that the curtain's fall draws near and we are all but out of it as pennant factors.

Although Evers was on bases three times, he couldn't by hook or crook get to the plate. In the first inning, having been duly passed, he went to second on a sacrifice. Schulte pelted a single over second base, which was stopped by Doyle. Evers turned third, and not having his eye on the ball thought the hit had gone clear. For once he was not his alert self, and Doyle's throw to Schaefer found him off the bag. He was run down.

The New Yorks were still nearer to the plate in their half, but with no better result. Doyle's line single and steal and Seymour's out put Larry on third. He steered for the plate on Herzog's crack to Tinker, but the latter gathering the ball on a difficult bound threw Doyle out. There wasn't anything more alike to a hit until the fourth inning, when Steinfeldt, with two out, singled to centre. Hofman's twister toward third was gripped with one hand by Schaefer, who threw to first without steadying himself and threw along the ground to the grand stand. Steinfeldt came in from first on the error.

Extent of territory had no terrors whatever for Evers and Tinker, nor how the ball came to them. Evers disposed of Herzog in the fourth inning by racing back of second base for a vicious grounder. Herzog being lame, Evers's sharp throw pinched him. There was a howl from the stands over a decision by Johnstone in the fifth inning. Archer's grounder was fielded to first in plenty of time by Schaefer, but Johnstone said Merkle didn't have his foot on the base. There was no kick from the players, only the spectators, and the chances are Johnstone was right. Merkle uncoupled a hit in the second half of the fifth, but when he tried to steal Tinker leaped and clewed Archer's high throw and swung the ball on to Merkle as he came down. Headway against that sort of fielding was out of the question.

Bridwell jumped and snagged a liner from Hofman in the sixth, while in the second half of the sixth Seymour and Herzog took the back trail on flies, with Wiltse and Doyle on the bases waiting vainly for assistance. Spick and span fielding blotted out the Cubs in the eighth after Evers had opened with a two bagger. Scheckard bunted and Wiltse passed the ball on to Schaefer at third, for which encampment Evers was hurrying. Johnny was tapped by Schaefer as he slid. A natty double play retired Sheckard and Schulte.

Chance sundered the quadrangle with a plunging single in the ninth, and the active Steinfeldt-Hofman combine came to Cap's aid as ordered. Steinfeldt sacrificed and Hofman beat a line hit to centre and brought Chance in. Seymour singled in New York's half. Tenney, batting for Herzog, flied to Hofman. As a last chance coup McGraw ordered a hit and run play. Murray's foul tip was held by Archer, who flicked the ball to Tinker and doubled Seymour. The score:

CINCINNATI, 9; BROOKLYN, 4.

Two Brooklyn pitchers, one a veteran, the other a newcomer, were roughly handled by the Cincinnati batters when the latter tribe made a flying visit to Washington Park yesterday. Doc Scanlan was shot from the mound in the third inning by the grapnel and grape, and young Dent, just up from the Carolina League, went in to see what he could do. He stood the Reds off until the eighth inning, when they broke a tie by riddling the recruit's offerings for a single, a double and two home runs. The home runs came one right after the other and were unlimbered by Mitchell and Egan.

It was anybody's game up to that point, having been tied by the Brooklyns in the seventh. Cincinnati's first four hitters were particularly effective and in conjunction with good base running by Bescher and Paskert started the scoring process early. Two runs in the first were supplemented by one in the second on Downey's hit, Clark's sacrifice and a triple by Bescher. Meyers, Jordan and Hummel got together for two runs for Brooklyn in the second, Downey's bad throw helping. There'd have been another run if Meyers had been more wide awake in running bases.

After a two bagger by Hoblitzel in the third Dent relieved Scanlan. Hoblitzel came around on a trio of infield outs, a fumble by Egan, a wild pitch, a single by Clemens, a sacrifice by Lennox and a safe stab by McMillan tabbed up two runs for Brooklyn in the seventh and tied the score.

The ever ready Bescher put the eighth inning in motion with a one bagger. He stole second, and after Paskert had strolled Hoblitzel slapped a two bagger to right and fetched Bescher across. Mitchell further disturbed Mr. Dent's sense of security with a soaring home run to centre, adding three more runs. Egan furnished the fifth by jamming a second cleanup clout to the left extremity of the enclosure. The score:

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Highlanders Win and Lose—Detroits Win and Athletics Lose.

Cleveland is one city in which the New York Americans have held their own all season, and yesterday they broke even there in a double header. That makes three victories and eight defeats since leaving home. The pennant took on a stronger Detroit tinge, the Tigers stowing the Bostons away decisively and the Athletics succumbing to the Chicago White Sox. The Washingtons lost in St. Louis. The results:

New York, 4; Cleveland, 1—First Game.

Cleveland, 2; New York, 1—Second game.

Detroit, 7; Boston, 4.

Chicago, 2; Philadelphia, 0.

NEW YORK (A. L.), 4; CLEVELAND, 1—FIRST GAME.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 31.—George Stallings's Highlanders had a chance to make no less than six double plays to-day. Austin started three that went through to perfection, but Laporte and Knight fell down three times when they had double plays before them. The Highlanders won the first game, 4 to 1, due chiefly to the grand pitching of Joe Doyle. The slow boy was exceptionally fast to-day and held the Naps to six scattered hits, three of them being generously rewarded by the ex-Highlander Neal Ball. Neal also scored the Naps' only run.

The Yanks had no sympathy for old Cy Young and pounded his offerings often and hard. Laporte scored in the fourth on his single to centre, steal of second, an infield hit by Austin and Sweeney's single to short left, which Ball intercepted and fired home, but Austin third when Jimmy overran the bag. Keeler tallied in the fifth on a gift, an out and Chase's single. Ball's error on Laporte's grounder, a pass to Knight and Doyle's single to left, followed by Hinchman's wild throw home, gave the visitors a pair of runs in the sixth.

Cy Falkenberg was a big puzzle to the Yanks in the second game. He fanned ten men. Demmitt was the only Highlander to make a circuit, registering in the eighth on his single, a steal and Chase's double. Demmitt's two base muff of Clarke's fly in the second inning, followed by Birmingham's single, gave the Naps their first run. Clarke's double, an out and Perring's infield single gave them the winning count in the ninth. The scores:
