CHAUFFEUR HELD FOR MURDER

TWO WOMEN SWEAR HE KILLED CHILD AND WENT ON.

Stopped Only to Blanket His Lamp and Burn Telltale Hairs, They Say—Said He'd "Fix" Them if They Told—Another Hunted Driver Is Dodging.

George Jones, a taxicab chauffeur who ran over and killed Jennie Bernstein, 8 years old, of 73 East 144th street at the corner of Park avenue and 115th street on November 4 last, was sent to the Tombs without bail yesterday on a charge of murder to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Jones is held under the same section of the Penal Code under which Chauffeur William Darragh was sentenced to Sing Sing for twenty years for killing young Ingvaard Trimble last March. The statute says that killing a person by an act imminently dangerous to others and evincing a depraved mind regardless of human life is murder in the first degree.

Jones was arrested on Tuesday night by Central Office detectives and arraigned before Coroner Harburger yesterday. The affidavits of Mrs. Hattie Touchette of 32 West 109th street and of Mrs. Alice Humphreys of 2121 Vyse avenue, The Bronx, who were in the taxicab at the time of the accident, were submitted to the Coroner. They were the same in substance. Both women averred that the car jolted when it ran over the child at 115th street and Park avenue and that Jones immediately increased the speed and did not stop until Eighty-sixth street was reached, when he got out and spread a blanket over one of the front lamps.

Then the car was driven through Central Park to Seventh avenue and down Seventh avenue to Thirty-seventh street, where another stop was made. Jones got out and struck several matches. Mrs. Touchette says in her affidavit that when Jones reentered the car she asked him what he had done and that he replied, "I was burning some of the hair that adhered to the lamp."

Mrs. Touchette says that she then accused Jones of killing the little girl and that he cried and admitted it, begging them "not to squeal" on him. Her affidavit says that she had several visits from Jones after the accident. "He said he would 'fix' us if we told," she says.

Mrs. Humphreys's affidavit says that Jones admitted running down the child when Mrs. Touchette accused him in the taxicab. She says Jones visited her also after the accident and threatened to take the lives of both her and Mrs. Touchette if they told.

Coroner Harburger tried to reach William Simpson, a fireman at the Harlem court, in time for the examination. Simpson also is said to have been in the machine at the time of the accident. When Simpson arrived the Coroner had already committed Jones to the Tombs and left the Criminal Courts Building.

There was considerable activity yesterday among the authorities in this city who have been investigating the automobile accidents that aroused public interest last month. At the offices of the National Highways Protective Society, 6 West Twenty-eighth street, they announced that detectives of the organization had a clue that might lead to the arrest of the chauffeur who injured Alice Mohen at Broadway and 137th street a few weeks ago. The girl was knocked down by a touring car. Her clothing was caught in the frame of the car and she was dragged.

Witnesses told the police that the chauffeur drove the car across the street and plunged in several directions in order to lose the girl without stopping. It was impossible to get the number of the machine.

Edward S. Cornell, secretary of the society, says that the detectives have a full description of the chauffeur, who has given fictitious names and addresses wherever he has gone. Mr. Cornell said that the chauffeur gave a false name to the Secretary of State when he got his license for driving. He was last seen in the Hotel Imperial about a week after the accident. Central Office men are working on the case independently of Mr. Cornell's men. Miss Moyen has almost recovered from the effects of the accident.

Charles S. Whitman, District Attorney elect, sent in his resignation as counsel to the Highways Protective Society yesterday. He is compelled to, but he said last night he is heartily in favor of the work it is doing.

THINKS GIRL WAS POISONED.

Mother Hints That Rival for Young Man's Love Caused Death.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29.—Believing that her eighteen-year-old daughter, Bessie May Priest, was poisoned, Mrs. Jennie Priest has asked the District Attorney to investigate the death of the young woman.

It is alleged by the mother that Miss Priest was engaged to Harry Sayre, a rich Newark, N. J., man's son, and that she had a rival. Search is being made for the other woman.

Miss Priest died at Glendale on Christmas eve after an illness lasting twenty days. Five physicians who attended her said that her death was caused by poison. Two diagnosed the malady as ptomaine poisoning, a third called it zinc poisoning, and others have not expressed an opinion.

It has been learned that Miss Priest was the guest of her supposed rival at a dinner in a restaurant and that she became violently ill soon thereafter. In her delirium she accused the woman with whom she had dined, and in lucid periods she exhibited letters from Mr. Sayre in which he is alleged to have warned her, though giving no reason for his fears. Sayre is said to be in Arizona.

In the city directory of Newark the name Harry Sayre appears twice. Each of these men said yesterday that he did not know the young woman named in the Los Angeles despatch.

GRADE CROSSING TO GO.

P. S. Commission Orders the L. I. R. R. to Close Calamus Road at Maspeth.

An order was issued yesterday by the Public Service Commission which will do away with another dangerous crossing on the Long Island Railroad system in the Maspeth part of Queens. The order calls for the closing of Calamus road where it crosses the Montauk division of the railroad.

By the terms of the order the traffic over Calamus road is to be diverted by the construction of a new street to the present overhead crossing of the railroad on Grand street. The expense of laying out the new street is to be borne by the company, and it is also directed that the company shall deed to the city the ground to be covered by the new street. The commission has been informed by the company that it will carry out the order at once.

Fire Over Bank Building Roof.

Crossed wires set fire to the bottom of a water tank on the top of the Hudson County National Bank building in Jersey City yesterday afternoon, causing a commotion among lawyer tenants above the banking house. Somebody telephoned from Collins & Corbin's office to fire headquarters for engines, but before the firemen arrived a stream from the water tank had quenched the flames.

Safety Doors for Trolley Cars.

The Public Service Corporation yesterday put in operation on its Jersey City-Bayonne line new style pay as you enter cars. The conductors operate double iron doors, which they keep closed until the car comes to a dead stop before they permit any passengers to board or leave the cars. The company believes this will be a safeguard against passengers being injured getting on or off the cars.

SIXTEENTHS OF A MILLION.

Nephews and Nieces of James P. Wallace Did Not Get Them and Sue.

A suit over the $1,000,000 estate left by James P. Wallace, for many years president of the New York Produce Exchange, who died in 1896, came before Supreme Court Justice Dowling yesterday. It is brought by Walter T. Wallace and Florence Wallace Cunningham, a nephew and niece, and is against Guerdon Howard Wallace, executor of the will of their uncle's widow, Mrs. Juliet Wallace, who died in September, and other beneficiaries under the will of Mrs. Wallace.

The plaintiffs says that James P. Wallace had an agreement with his wife by which he was to leave all his property to her and that on her death it was to go in sixteen equal shares to his nephews and nieces. They say that Mrs. Wallace ignored this agreement in her will and distributed the estate among her relatives, with whom her husband had had no social relations. They asked Justice Dowling for an injunction restraining the executor from distributing any of the estate until the suit is disposed of.

The executor said in opposing affidavit that the estate went to Mrs. Wallace without any restrictions and declared: "She was a person of high character, strictly religious, of great moral excellence, upright, scrupulous and exact in all her dealings and devotedly attached to her church. No one can charge her with bad faith or failing to keep any moral or legal obligation with her husband, to whom she was devotedly attached and whose memory she held in reverence."

Justice Dowling denied the injunction on the ground that if the executor disposed of the estate before the suit was tried he would do so at his peril.

WILL CONTINUE THE FIGHT.

Postal Life Insurance Co. Doesn't Accept Justice Dowling's Dictum.

ALBANY, Dec. 29.—The case of the Postal Life Insurance Company, in which Justice Dowling recently gave his decision, will be pressed further by the company. In a statement to-day it was said for the company:

This is an action to prevent the publication of a statement, which, while in no way affecting the solvency of the financial condition of the company, conveys the impression that the company has abandoned its non-agency method of doing business; the inference being that the method in question is a failure, whereas it has been exceptionally successful.

Such a statement is in no respect necessary as a part of the report; it was and is entirely gratuitous; it was simply lugged in by undiscriminating or prejudiced examiners; it does not help but hurts the company's policy holding body, and finally it is not true.

The company does not accept Judge Dowling's dictum in the matter and, because of the principle involved, will at once, in the Albany district, where the jurisdiction is unquestioned, apply for a mandamus directing the department to expunge the unnecessary and harmful paragraph from the report.

WARDLAW SISTERS GOING.

Gov. Hughes Honors Requisition to Take Them to New Jersey.

Gov. Hughes honored yesterday the requisitions of Gov. Fort of New Jersey for Mrs. Caroline B. Martin and Mrs. Mary W. Snead, who are under indictment in Essex county in connection with the death of Mrs. Ocey W. M. Snead. County Detective Walter Godfrey of Newark returned from Albany with the papers yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Snead are in the Tombs. On the presentation of the warrant given by Gov. Hughes to the New Jersey detective Magistrate Cornell, who committed the women here, will turn them over to the New Jersey authorities and they will be locked up in the Essex county jail.

Now that real old fashioned Winter is here, a word about overcoat weights is timely.

All-wool is warm, and ounce for ounce is the lightest sort of warmth—but you must have enough ounces.

So in the face of steadily soaring wool prices, we have maintained the generous weight of our overcoat fabrics, though the saving of a few ounces per coat would total a large sum.

For we believe it good business to be sure that our customers feel warmly towards us, no matter how low the mercury.

Winter overcoats, $15 to $70.

For those who like wool next the skin, too—

Dermophile and Stuttgarter are popular underwears.

Others all wool, or part wool—merino.

Fur caps are a luxury in the suburbs, a necessity in the real country.

Coon, muskrat, Persian lamb, possum and sealskin in different shapes.

A dozen or more sorts of walking gloves lined with seamless wool, rabbit or squirrel fur—not to speak of motoring gloves.

Warm hands mean warm hearts.

Lined gloves, $2.50 to $6.50.

Whenever the "Arrows" point the way to a new style—we have it.

Two-for-a-quarter collars in quarter sizes.

"Double" shoes are the sort to save cold troubles.

Made of double thickness of leather, each water-proofed, they keep out wet and weather. $5.50.

Oiled silk in the seams keeps out melting snow.

The best of boys' clothes cost less now.

A general mark-down of school suits, regular overcoats, reefers, Russian overcoats and boys' long trouser suits.
