DRAGS OUT FOR SPRING MEET

COACHING CLUB RESUMES THE FASHIONABLE FIXTURE.

Eleven Whips and Their Teams Form Fine Display—Laggards Have a Race to Catch Up—Luncheon at Claremont and a Special Dinner Held at Sherry's.

Under a bright sun but in a wind so brisk that the women had to wrap their veils often, the Coaching Club carried out its spring meet yesterday with a success to please the members, its guests and the unconsidered outsiders who enjoyed the driving parade. Driving horses now a days is a lost art compared with motoring but the leaven of well appointed drags in the crush of motors was very welcome in Central Park and a novelty. There were autos to the right, to the left, in front and back but not a whip haltered or felt dismayed, for each one of them owns five or six motors and they tool a drag for sport or sentiment—usually both.

There were nine coaches to start from before the Metropolitan Club along the Central Park wall but there were two laggards, and to complete the formation there was almost a race to get into position. Col. Jay took his place at the exact hour, at 11:30 o'clock, and after six minutes wait he dropped his hands and the horses sprang into their collars. He swung the team into the Mall Drive and eight drags followed on the proper alignment—two lengths as with Brooklyn Bridge cars—and the pointing of the whips on the short road back of the Sherman statue was a neat bit of reinsmanship.

As the tail coach vanished along came W. Goadby Loew from down Fifth avenue, intent on gaining a place. There are traffic injunctions against speeding, but the horses were certainly getting a move on. "He escaped the distance flag," as a light harness horse sport would say, but it was a close call. Two minutes later, after all the drags had vanished far up the drive and automobiles had closed in—technically eight minutes late—Reginald W. Rives trotted up his team and set sail after the others. He caught them, for in this case a stern chase was not a long one. This made the tally eleven drags.

All this was very undignified, for from the Coaching Club ethics the first principle is to be on time, but Col. Jay never batted an eye and let the procrastinators shift for themselves. Turning into the Mall Drive at Fifth avenue, the trip was up the East Drive to McGown's Pass Tavern, famous in Revolutionary strife and modern day sport, then westerly to the West Drive and to the circle on the Great Hill for the review. This circle is a ring laid out in the heyday of bicycling, but for some seasons has been a stage for the coaching review.

This was a simple and friendly ceremony. All the drags being halted, the tailender drove to the first place; the whip next to him followed suit, and so the order continued until Col. Jay from the foremost was in the last place, and amid the bows and smiles of his entourage he drove his team into the original formation. Everybody had met everybody and exchanged greetings, and on went the meet.

Hitherto this has meant the disbandment, but now on orders the alignment in close order—barring the casual interferences of traffic—was through the West Drive to the Seventy-second street gate, thence through Seventy-second street to Riverside Drive and the Claremont, where luncheon was served. After that the whips were free to drive as they listed and a sensation in the park was the unusual passing of many well appointed drags and teams.

All the drags were aligned along the Central Park wall under the trees at 11:20 o'clock, except the two laggards and Col. Jay. There were attentive faces at each window of the Metropolitan Club, and on both sides of the avenue there was a throng of expectants, but horsemen, both amateurs and professionals, were more noticeable than society. It was the twenty-ninth meet since the inaugural in 1876, there having been six blanks, including the last two years—which is about the record of Col. Jay as the leader of the line.

This was the order at the start, with some notes of the outfits:

Col. Jay—Coach green and yellow, mixed team of chestnuts, black and a bay. Mrs. Jay, Sidney Harris and Thomas Slidell.

George G. Haven—Coach primrose, gray and bay on wheel and black and bay on lead. Mrs. Haven, Miss Lelia Haven, Miss Katherine Chapin, Miss Madeline Borden, Jonathan Ingersoll and Lawrence Perkins.

Harris Fahnestock—Primrose and rose, gray and bay on wheel and bays on lead. Mrs. Fahnestock, Mr. and Mrs. Edward McVicker, Mr. and Mrs. McDougal Hawkins.

Edward Browning, Philadelphia—Coach red and black, chestnut team. Judge Martin, Dr. Norton Dows, E. R. Smith, Philip Thompson and Capt. Groome.

Oliver G. Jennings—Coach dark blue, chestnut team. Mrs. Walter Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Brewster, Miss Amanda Dows and Walter Jennings.

Henry E. Coe—Coach dark blue, bay team. Miss Emily Coe, Miss Rosalie Coe, Miss Catherine Hamersley, Oliver Wagstaff and R. S. Pierrepont.

G. Lewis Boissevain—Coach turquoise blue, bays on wheel and bay and black on lead. Mrs. Boissevain, Mr. and Mrs. William Manice, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Bishop.

E. Victor Loew—Coach dark green and carmine, bay team. Mrs. Richard Stevens, Miss Alice Strong, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stevens and Felix Ingraham.

J. H. Alexandre, Jr.—Coach red and black, bay team. Mrs. Charles de L. Oelrichs, Miss Virginia Alexandre, Miss Hortense Howland, Seymour Johnson and Charles de L. Oelrichs.

W. Goadby Loew—Coach dark green, chestnut team. Mrs. Loew, Mr. and Mrs. Delancey Kountze, Mr. and Mrs. Forsythe Wickes, Mr. and Mrs. R. Gordon Douglas.

Reginald W. Rives—Coach pink and black, sorrel and brown on wheel and roan and gray on lead. Miss Helen M. Rives, Miss Irene Sherman, Miss Mildred Sherman, Lawrence Townsend and Oliver De Lancey Foster.

Flowers to match the colors of the coach were worn by the whips and their passengers and bouquets in accordance fixed to the bridles of the horses. This rule made yellow the ruling color on the first three; then came the "stag" party of Philadelphians sporting red boutonnieres. After that, except on Mr. Alexandre's coach, blue flowers only were in evidence, usually violets, but in one instance a pretty display of Ragged Sailor.

Aside from the flowers and the costumes of the women there was nothing gay in the outfits. Road coaching with its red clad guards and sporty whips is a different proposition. A park drive is merely a larger sort of park carriage and the appointments carry out that idea. The turquoise blue coach and liveries of Mr. Boissevain were the most striking and as for the teams the most dashing were the chestnuts of Oliver G. Jennings, the leaders, although light, having show ring action.

Mr. Browning had the most impressive four all chestnuts of the carriage type and very handsome. Col. Jay had a chestnut and black on the lead and bays on the wheel. George G. Haven drove a black and bay in front and a gray and bay on the wheel. W. Goadby Loew mashed up with a chestnut lot, and the merchant prince, Vice-President Rives, held the reins over one of his favorite mixed teams, a light roan and gray on the lead and a sorrel and brown on the wheel. The others had solid dark colored teams, all of substance and up to the chief requirement of looking and acting prettily.

Light colors were attractive among the dostumes of the women on the coach tops. The rule is that only a front load—that is, the first two seats—shall be used. The whips wore the uniform of the Coaching Club, a dark green cutaway coat, the club button in gold and a yellow striped waistcoat. The other men wore mostly frock coats and top hats. There was a change among the members for the dinner. They wore then a coat of green cloth cut in the conventional form with a black velvet collar, faced and lined with black satin or silk, gold buttons, white waistcoats and black trousers.

The dinner was at Sherry's in the evening and in honor of the Philadelphians, members of the Four-in-Hand Club of that city chiefly, who have been very prominent in coaching. Some at the table tooled the road coaches between this city and Philadelphia throughout the season of 1893 or thereabouts, the greatest feat of the sort ever carried out in this country. The dinner was a capital one, but all coaching adornments—whiffletrees and so on—were flagged as savoring of the shop after so much of the real thing.

It was different at the only other formal dinner given by the Coaching Club at the Waldorf in 1896 to commemorate the twentieth year of Col. Jay in the presidency. Then the coaching details were entwined with dogwood and apple blossoms in the decorative scheme. Last night Col. Jay had the head and Reginald W. Rives the foot of the table. At Col. Jay's left as named were Judge Martin, Mr. Coe, Dr. Dows, Messrs. Fahnestock, Smith, T. Suffern Tailer, Wheeler, W. G. Loew and Capt. J. C. Groome. On Col. Jay's right were the Messrs. Browning, Haven, Thompson, Jennings, Alexandre, E. V. Loew, Bloodgood, Boissevain and Steers.

On Saturday the Coaching Club members will drive to C. Ledyard Blair's home, Blairsden, at Bernardsville, and return by coach on the next Monday.

The Arrow, with Mrs. Thomas Hastings driving the town stage, made its regular run yesterday to the Rocking Stone Inn, Zoological Park, and return. The All Sport, Paul A. Sorg on the box, was as usual on the Manhattan-Larchmont route. The passengers were Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Shanley, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Eustis, Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Gilday, Miss Grill, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Baudouine, Thomas Hassett and Herbert Martin.

POLO.

Great Neck Freebooters Defeat Hempstead Freebooters, 10 to 4.

The Great Neck Freebooters had no difficulty in defeating the Hempstead Freebooters yesterday morning on the well worn Meadow Brook field. Morgan Grace, at back, helped the Great Neck team more than any other player tried for this position. His hard hitting and excellent direction kept the ball in fast play. J. P. Grace was able to shoot well when near the goals. The Graces have now a first class string of ponies which have rounded into good playing condition.

The teams were as follows:

Great Neck.	Hempstead.
No. 1—W. R. Grace.	No. 1—R. Belmont.
No. 2—J. P. Grace.	No. 2—J. A. Hawkins.
No. 3—H. C. Phipps.	No. 3—J. A. Burden.
Back—Morgan Grace.	Back—H. M. Earle.

E. Cowdin later took H. M. Earle's place at back.

In the final match at Van Courtlandt Park yesterday at polo for the May cup the Second team the "Blues" lost to the fourth team by 5½ goals to 3½, although the latter outfit did not earn a goal. They received six by handicap and the loss of a half was due to two safeties. The Blues earned four goals, of which Holt had one and Strong three. They were penalized a half for a foul. The lineup was:

Fourth Team: 1, W. Boulton; 2, A. C. Smidt; 3, H. J. Randolph; back, F. S. Farrelly.

Second Team: 1, A. W. Perry; 2, Theron R. Strong; 3, H. W. Cram; back, Henry Holt.

Lieut. J. H. Hunt was referee. There were about 3,000 spectators and when Cram and Smidt collided with the result of a double fall there was much excitement. When the men remounted unhurt and went again into the game there was great applause.

THE GAME AT SOCCER.

Brooklyns Hold Down the Powerful West Hudson Eleven.

Against one of the strongest association football teams in New Jersey, the West Hudsons, the Brooklyn club eleven got up a good game yesterday. They held them to a tie and might have won in the last two minutes of play had not the good work at goal of Neil blocked a penalty. The West Hudson team this year won the championship of the National league, going through the championship series without a single defeat.

The penalty which would have given the game to the Brooklyns was the result of a corner, kicked out by Van De Weghe, but Mason, the Jerseymen's halfback, in his desire to save the goal accidentally touched the ball with his hand within the penalty area. Coward took the kick, but Neil again killed all of Brooklyn's chances.

The Jerseymen at the start of the game had the wind and sun in their favor. Carter took the ball half the length of the field and centred nicely to McAlister at inside right, who in turn put the ball in the Brooklyn net. This was the only scoring done in the first half. Raitt at goal for the home team spoiling many of the West Hudson's chances to score.

After the restart Williams, playing at outside right for Brooklyn, made a goal, thereby tying the score.

TECH DEFEATS WESLEYAN.

Boston Men Win Dual Track Meet by a Large Margin.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., May 7.—Wesleyan was easily defeated by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in the dual track meet in this city this afternoon by a score of 80½ to 45½. Capt. Bacon of the Wesleyan team clipped one-fifth of a second from the Wesleyan 220 yards hurdle record, running in 26 seconds. Chamberlain of M. I. T. broke the Technology record for the discus throw, with a throw of 115 feet 2½ inches.

Parkinson of Wesleyan was a surprise in the shot put, winning the event and breaking the college record with a put of 40 feet 4½ inches. Robson was the chief point winner for Wesleyan, getting two firsts, while Greenleaf did as well for the visitors.

The visitors were particularly strong in the distance runs, getting all but two points in these events. Wesleyan did its best work in the shot put, the dashes and the hurdles.

Crescents Easy Winners at Lacrosse.

The Crescent Athletic Club's lacrosse team had little trouble in defeating the twelve of Hobart College by 8 to 3 yesterday at Bay Ridge. A large crowd turned out to witness the contest, which was too one sided to be interesting. The Bay Ridge representatives had out a strong team, Billy Dobby being the only one of the old stars missing. The Crescents had possession of the ball almost all the time. Church at inside home was the star for the collegians. The first half ended 6 to 2 in favor of the home team.

TRAVIS THE SUPREME GOLFER

WINS PRESIDENT'S CUP FROM JEROME TRAVERS.

Garden City Club's Tournament Ends in Glory—John Ward Trims the Wings of Schoolboy White—Hoyt Beats Thomson—McKellar's Handicap.

There was a brilliant ending to the tournament of the Garden City Golf Club yesterday and there was a large turnout of onlookers to follow the match finals. For the president's cup Walter J. Travis beat Jerome D. Travers by 2 up, for the beaten eight cup, John M. Ward, who has trimmed the wings of many youthful aspirants, put out Gardner White by 9 up and 8 to play, and in the Hempstead cup race F. H. Hoyt of Boston, won from Ernest A. Thomson by 2 up and 1 to play. All the finals were at thirty-six holes.

There was also an all day eighteen hole medal play handicap, in which Donald McKellar captured the net score prize with 81, 5—76, and Thomas M. Sherman of Utica got the gross score prize for an 80.

To open the big match Travis took two holes and lost the third off his own bat. He sliced the drive over a distant hedge to a private lawn, and although Travis made a long shot from this unusual lie, he could not stop Travers taking the hole in 4 to 5. They had a nip and tuck strife to the turn where Travers was 1 up. Travis stood 1 up again at the fifteenth, but Travers won the sixteenth, and after a half in 5 he had a 3 on the home hole and the lead at the stop for luncheon, for Travis was trapped and needed five. The scores were, Travers, 82; Travis, 85.

The first four holes by Travis for the second round were out of the ordinary. A long put gave a 3 to him on the first, he had another 3 on the 359 yard third and a 4 on the 500 yard fourth hole—in each case a stroke under par and he had made a par 3 on the second. Not going this, and although Travers was holing in par—4, 3, 4, 5, Travis had wiped out the morning deficit and was 2 up.

Yet, and this reveals that he is back on his game, the comet glare did not dazzle Travers. He halved the match at the ninth and at the twelfth forged into the lead. It was a desperate struggle thereafter and marked by many fine strokes, but Travis went through the crucial test and gained the cup. Travers has beaten Travis at Garden City only in the amateur championship there. Travers on his present form will be again a champion. The cards:

Travis	4	5	3	5	5	5	6	7	5—45
Travers	5	4	4	5	4	6	6	4	4—42
Travis	5	6	3	5	4	4	5	5	5—42—85
Travers	5	6	4	5	5	5	4	5	3—40—82
Travis	3	3	3	4	5	5	6	4	5—38
Travers	4	5	4	5	4	5	5	5	4—39
Travis	4	5	4	6	5	5	4	5	3—41—79—164
Travers	5	4	6	6	5	4	5	5	5—45—84—169
