CREE'S HIT WINS THE GAME

THE HIGHLANDERS AT HOME AND BEAT THE BOSTONS.

Red Sox One Run Removed From a Tie at the Finish—Athletics Play Uphill Ball and Beat Washington—Tigers and Browns Outplay Their Opponents.

The Highlanders are at home for a long stay, and the prodigals manifested their usual interest in celebrating a game from the Boston Red Sox. They drew no quarter to the Athletics on that high flying Washington pennant-phobic ball and snatched a game from the Washington. In the West the Detroit Tigers put the Clevelands away, and the Browns upset the White Sox in a ten inning tussle. The results:

New York, 3; Boston, 2.

Philadelphia, 3; Washington, 2.

Detroit, 5; Cleveland, 2.

St. Louis, 6; Chicago, 5.

Our scarred Highlanders, back from a series of hard bumps on stony foreign trails, took on the Boston Speed Boys on the plateau yesterday and beat them. Everybody was so quiet and undemonstrative after the Fourth, with its hurlyburly of double headers, that yesterday's game seemed to be played in a minor key. There was a subdued air about it, yet a good deal of snappy fielding for all that.

The Highlanders were not the jaunty boys they were before leaving home several weeks ago, but then any team is likely to be jaded after a holiday, and the Highlanders had just gone through a siege of double headers in addition. They were not over gay after their experiences with the juggernaut Athletics, yet were not of disconsolate bearing. They were as chipper as the Red Sox anyway, and did some spruce fielding and timely hitting.

The New Yorks concentrated their hits on Hall in the middle period of the game and had the advantage of a lucky three bagger by Birdie Cree, who played centre field, vice Hemphill, who was on the side lines. Cree's hit, which drove in two runs, was clean, but was lucky in being of extra base extension. It was a grounder to centre which hugged the lawn, but hurdled Speaker's arm and allowed men to come in from second and first. It wasn't any chance hit, however, for Cree had his eye on the ball and made three safeties.

Warhop sailed up a ball which looked easy to hit, but which snapped over the plate with a short, quick break and had the Red Sox hitting flies. The latter crowded five hits into the sixth, seventh and eighth innings, but Warhop was effective in pinches and had good support. Six of the Boston flies went to Laporte, who gave the spectators heart flutter by his awkwardness but took them all. Wagner and Chase fielded smartly and with more grace than Laporte. New Yorkers looked their first upon Daniels. He did no hitting, but played third well and showed himself to be a fast and slippery man on the bases.

Chase made a remarkable catch of a foul fly from right in the first inning. He had to go to the right field stand to do it and with a crouching lunge caught the ball with one hand as he leaned out of the boarded front of the stand with the other. A double play squelched the Bostons in the second when they threatened to do something. Daniels scored for the Highlanders in the third on a base on balls, a steal and a thrust to right by Laporte.

New York's two runs in the fifth materialized from singles by Chase and Gardner and Cree's hit had Speaker for three bases. Cree was caught at the plate trying for a home run on fast relaying by Speaker and Wagner. Had Speaker stopped the hit only one run would have come in, yet that might have been better for New York, as Gardner would have been on second and Cree on first when Hooper muffed Speaker's fly, which would have filled the bases, with only one out. Sweeney's fly to Lewis would have brought in a run, so the New Yorks made no more runs than they would have made.

Hooper was passed in the sixth, Engle struck out and Speaker hit to Warhop. The latter could have thrown to second for a force of Hooper and thus prevented a run, but he threw Speaker out at first. The overlooking of the bet at second base cost a run, for Stahl pushed a single to right and brought Hooper over. Hall and Hooper filed out in the seventh, with two on bases and one out.

With two outs in the eighth Speaker doubled against the centre field fence. Cree played the hit with sagacity and forethought. He stationed himself so as to grab the ball on the rebound and hold the batter midway. Stahl grounded to short and Speaker checked himself in front of a bright long enough to cause the latter to boot the ball. Knight got the revenge after Gardner's third single had scored Speaker. He ran to second, jumped in the air and nailed Lewis's hit and forced Barr. Gardner of Commonwealth avenue with a backhanded toss to Earl Gardner of Fifth avenue. Daniels appropriated Wagner's hoist.

Knight lighted a Boston rally again in the ninth. Carrigan slashed a swift, inward left. But Knight biffed for the ball and scooped it almost back of third base. His long throw to Chase was low, but Harold attended to that all right. Hall neared to Laporte, and so did Hooper. Laporte raring in for the second fly, and taking it just above the ground.

Giants Use Three Pitchers in Fruitless Effort to Hold Bostons.

The Giants couldn't hold the tail enders yesterday and dropped a game in the Hub. Meanwhile the Cubs were hammering the Pittsburgs and widening their lead. The Brooklyns, who are playing up to the promise of a month back, were nosed out by the Phillies. The Cincinnatis were successful over the Cardinals. The results:

BOSTON, N. L.; NEW YORK, N. L. 4.

BOSTON, July 5.—The Doves put one over on the Giants to-day through errors by Merkle, Devlin and Wilson, errors of omission by Wilson, and strong batting. The visitors used three pitchers, and none of the lot was able to stop the locals. Mattern did well until the sixth inning, when he weakened and was replaced by Frock, who toiled well and cracked out two hits.

After two men had been thrown out by Abbatichio in the second Devlin drew a pass and went to third when Merkle hit to left for two bases. Mattern very wisely passed Meyers and Wiltse forced him on a tap to Abbatichio.

In Boston's half Abbatichio grounded to Merkle, but Graham singled and scored on Beck's terrific home run drive over the right field fence. Shean singled through short and Mattern scratched one in front of the plate. Collins drew a pass and Shean scored on Herzog's sacrifice fly to Seymour. Sweeney was thrown out by Doyle.

Devlin drew his second pass in the fourth inning after Bridwell had been retired by Hatty's throw and went to thru on Merkle's hit to left. Meyers bounced one off Hatty's shins, Devlin scoring and Merkle going to third, but Wiltse hit into a double play. The visitors had a chance in the fifth after Snodgrass had been thrown out by Abbatichio. Doyle scratched toward right and Sweeney threw wild to Mattern, Larry going down to second, where he remained while Becker flied to Lerk and Seymour popped to Sweeney.

After Bridwell had flied to Shean in the sixth Devlin singled, went to second when Merkle drove out his third successive hit and scored on Meyers's double. Frock relieved Mattern when Murray batted for Wiltse. Murray hit to left, scoring Merkle and Meyers and putting New York in the lead. Snodgrass was out on strikes and Schafer, who ran for Murray, was thrown out trying to steal. Raymond and Wilson replaced the New York batters, and the Doves went out in order on grounders.

The locals regained the lead in their half of the seventh. Shean popped to Doyle, knock singled through short and was loafing down to second while Collins was striking out. Wilson attempted to throw to second until too late and Bamp was safe, scoring on Herzog's double. Sweeney brought Herzog home with a single and took so out on the throw in, but Miller was thrown out by Doyle.

Devlin led off in the eighth with a single and stole second as Merkle fanned. Wilson also struck out, and Keeler, who batted for Raymond, drew a passed ball, but Snodgrass lifted one to Beck. The Doves grew fat on errors and hits in their half. Abbatichio was safe on Devlin's poor throw. Graham sacrificed and Beck did the same thing, but was safe, as Merkle dropped Meyers's perfect throw. Shean died to Becker and Hatty was safe at the plate as Wilson muffed his lofty throw. Beck gave down to second for a tangled rundown play, Beck went to second when Collins was hit and scored on Herzog's double. Sweeney ended it by hitting to Doyle.

Abbatichio fumbled Doyle's grounder in the ninth. Becker singled to right, but Seymour popped to Hatty and Doyle was doubled at second. Another fumble by Abbatichio put Becker safe at first, but Frock pulled down Devlin's bounder and the game was won. The score:

PHILADELPHIA, N. L. 3; BROOKLYN, 2.

PHILADELPHIA, July 5.—Brooklyn lost the opening game in the present series to the Phillies to-day in an exciting contest by 3 to 2. Although Seaman was hit harder than Foxen, his superb support enabled him to give the Philadelphia southpaw quite an argument for the game. The Brooklyns started finely in the opening session and in the ninth looked as if they were going to pull the game out of the fire, but Tony Smith killed off Dahlen's aspirations to win the first one by hitting into a double play with the sacks full at the time and Brooklyn but one run behind.

With the score 2 to 1 against them, Dahlen opened the ninth by beating out a little tap in front of the rubber. Wheat waited long enough to be passed to first. Hummel bit to Foxen, but as nobody covered first Silent John reached that anchorage in safety, filling the sacks. With nobody out and with Eddie Lennox up, things looked indeed bright for the Dodgers. Lennox, however, in wild anxiety to knock the ball out of the lot, fanned. Davidson then lifted a short fly over Knabe's head which Titus came tearing in for, but which he muffed after letting the pellet get into his hands. Daubert rushed over the plate on the error. Tony Smith then hit right into Knabe's waiting hands, who tossed to Doolan, forcing Davidson, and Mike relayed over to Ward in plenty of time to head off Smith. This ended Brooklyn's hopes and the game.

Brooklyn made its first run in the opening round. Dalton led off with a triple to left centre. Daubert reached first when Doolan fumbled his grounder, but Mike held Dalton at third. Wheat lifted a little tap to Titus, which Dalton did not dare attempt to score on but on Hummel's force-out of Daubert at second Dalton scored.

The Phillies tied the score in their half of the initial session after two were down. Titus walked and reached third when Magee singled to left. The double steal was then worked successfully, Titus sliding over the plate ahead of Tony Smith's return throw to Erwin. Thomas's triple to left and Magee's single gave the Phillies the lead of one in the sixth and they clinched the game by getting another tally in the eighth on Knabe's single to left and a double by Titus and Grant's infield hit.
