VAUGHN LOST HIS SMOKE

BROWNS WON THEIR FIRST GAME FROM NEW YORKS.

Clouted Highlanders' Southpaw Pitcher Hard in Two Innings—Bostons Beat Detroits and Took Second Place—Athletics Toyed With Weak White Sox.

The Highlanders were defeated yesterday and second place passed into the possession of the Bostons, who kept up their winning stride and trounced the Detroits. The New Yorks met the improved St. Louis Browns, who beat the hillmen for the first time this year. The weak White Sox were marks for the Athletics. The results:

St. Louis, 4; New York, 3.

Philadelphia, 5; Chicago, 2.

Boston, 9; Detroit, 4.

ST. LOUIS 4, NEW YORK 3.

Jim Vaughn lost his smoke in the fourth inning of yesterday's ball game on the Heights. The St. Louis Browns hit him hard in that and the fifth inning and won the game. Vaughn's pitching arm, which has been an invalid limb for several weeks, may have shed all its lameness by yesterday, but it hadn't toughened sufficiently to last through the game. The big left hander had the ball jumping and shooting for three innings, during which the Browns couldn't fathom his pitching, but his steam played out.

It looked in the fourth as if Vaughn had shot his bolt, the ball not coming up with the snap and quiver of the previous innings. A magnificent catch by Daniels held trouble off for a moment in the fourth and then an error by Roach—the only one the New Yorks made, but a fatal one—lost a chance to enact the third out and prevent scoring. The third smash of the inning followed and sent in two runs. In the fifth the Browns landed on Vaughn for three more telling hits.

Good old hindsight made it plain that an earlier call on Warhop's services would have been good judgment. Warhop isn't pitching anything but effective games these days and he stopped the Browns quickly and permanently. Erie he was summoned to the rescue the horse had escaped, but he locked the barn door right. Meanwhile Joe Lake was doing veoman boxwork against the Highlanders. He kept the hits scattered, thumped Vaughn for an influential three bagger and struck out nine men. He struck out five of the first six and fanned Daniels and Knight thrice each.

Daniels wasn't a clouting kid, but he fielded brilliantly. A catch of his off Schweitzer in the fourth inning when there were two on bases and one out was the brightest fielding gem of the season around here. It was a line hit, making for the score board. It was going between Daniels and the foul line and the fielder ran for it at a right angle. He brought his left hand around in front of him, turned the palm of his glove outward and the ball buried itself in the hollow of the mitt.

Vaughn and Lake each struck the side out in the second inning. Newnam walked in the second, he being the first batter. He took a big lead and hoodwinked Vaughn into throwing to first instead of to second. As the runner was half way to second when Vaughn threw his unconventional theft was successful. Vaughn then struck out the next three men.

The Browns didn't make a hit until the fourth inning, but there was venom in their stings when they did strike. Griggs poled a liner to centre and Newnam one to left. Daniels's vivid grab of Schweitzer's drive was the second out. Truesdale trundled to Roach, who fumbled, filling the bases, and Stephens jabbed a hit past third. Griggs and Newnam scored, but Truesdale was trapped on Daniels's return to Vaughn and put out before he could return to second base.

Mee doubled in the fifth, and he, Lake (who had a three bagger over Wolter's head) and Stone fanned and Hartzell hit to left and scored Lake. In the remaining innings the Browns travelled no further than second base, and only once that far.

The New Yorks plugged away diligently and between hits here and there and several errors made it interesting for the tailenders. Roach scored in the fifth on a walk, a hit by Sweeney and an infield out. The Highlanders had a nice chance in the sixth, but fell down. Wolter opened with a hit and Chase drew four balls. Laporte singled and brought Wolter home. Nobody was out when Knight went to bat.

With two strikes on Knight Chase and Laporte tried to pull off a double steal, a hit and run or whatever might eventuate. What eventuated was the stifling of New York's best opportunity. Knight struck out and Stephens threw to third to head off Chase. The throw hit the dirt, but Chase didn't. He went to the bag standing up, and Hartzell, taking the ball on the first bound, was able to swing it onto the upright Highland captain. Chase grounded out and ended the inning.

Mitchell singled in the seventh with one out. Warhop grounded to Truesdale, and on Mee's high throw on Daniels Mitchell sped clear to third. A steal by Daniels prompted a throw to third by Stephens, trying to find Mitchell away from that port. It was a wild throw and Mitchell came home. Daniels went to third and was left there on Wolter's tap to Lake.

An infield hit by Knight and a wild throw by Lake put Knight on third in the eighth. There were two out and Lake's clip to Mee was arched over to first just in time to retire the batter and prevent a tied score. Gardner made an infield hit in the ninth with two out and Foster, who ran for him, essayed the last move left for the New Yorks, a steal of second. He was thrown out.

CINCINNATI, 13; NEW YORK (N. L.), 3. FIRST GAME.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 18.—The Giants broke even in a double header here to-day, losing the first by a score of 13 to 3 and winning the second by a score of 3 to 1. The first game was a mixture of slugging and bad playing. McGraw used three pitchers in an effort to stop the Reds, but with little success. The Giants lost an elegant opportunity to get away in front, as the bases were filled up in the initial inning before a man had been retired and then failed to score. Some poor base running by Meyers spoiled another rally in the second after one run had been scored. Then came the slaughter by the Reds. Drucke was chased when he filled up the bases with no one out.

Dechin made a fumble on the first plate behind Raymond and then the slugging began. When the smoke cleared away six runs had been scored. It required over an hour to play the first two innings. Marquard was sent to the mound in the third, but his foolers were not working and he was very wild. The Giants had a little rally in the ninth, which Keeler, batting for Marquard, started with a single. Two runs were scored with the assistance of some very poor fielding by the Reds.

The second game was a ball game. It took Rowan an inning to get started and the Giants accumulated three runs, which were enough to win. McGraw's clan did not get a hit after the first inning and only three men batted in every other inning except the eighth, when Doyle, who was passed, was left on first.

Snodgrass and Doyle started the game with bingles and Devore sacrificed. Murray fanned but Bridwell brought in two runs with a single. Passes to Devlin and Doyle and Meyers's single netted another. Wilhoe ended the inning by a fly. After that it was a pitchers' battle. Snodgrass fanned three times on Fowler's drop ball and Murray twice. All of the others except Doyle and Meyers fanned once. Wilhoe's curve ball was working fine for the Giants and he had little trouble except in the final round. Beecher started the ninth with a single and Gan's tap went through Doyle's fingers. Hofman popped, but Mitchell singled, scoring Beecher. Then Wilhoe struck out Paskert and Mitchell was nailed trying to steal second.

After Roth batted for Rowan in the eighth Benton pitched the final round for the Reds and got the visitors in order. About 12,000, the largest Monday crowd here of the season, saw the contests. The scores:

CHICAGO (N. L.), 3; BROOKLYN, 1.

CHICAGO, July 18.—The Cubs defeated Brooklyn for the third time in the present series this afternoon by a score of 3 to 1. In the eighth inning, with two men on bases, Chance ripped a sharp hit to centre, but as it struck in front of Davidson it took a hard bound and went over his head for inside centre field. Before the ball could be returned to the diamond Chance was on third base and the two runners had scored.

Overall made his reappearance with the team after a long absence and was on the mound for the Cubs. Scanlan was Manager Dahlen's choice for the pivotal position.

The Dodgers started away in the lead, securing one run in the first inning. After Dahlen had gone out Burch singled to left and Wheat got a base on balls. Then Burch and Wheat tried a double steal and Burch was caught. Hummel then singled to right, scoring Wheat. That ended the scoring for Brooklyn.

Chicago tied the score in the sixth on two hits and a sacrifice.

The big doings came in the eighth. After Overall had flied out Evers got a base on balls and went to second when Scanlon threw Sheckard out to Burch. Hofman also got a base on balls. Then the speedless leader shot a sharp single into centre. Just as Davidson was about to grab it the ball took a deceptive bound over his head and sailed away for the clubhouse.
