VAUGHN MEAT FOR TIGERS

HIGHLANDERS IN GAME FOR ONLY SIX INNINGS.

Tie the Detroits Twice, but Make a Poor Finish; Bostons Win and Take Second Place; Athletics Break Even; Washingtons and Chicagos Also Divide.

The Highlanders and Browns were the only American League teams yesterday which didn't get some source out of the playing. The New Yorks fell before the Detroits again, one team against which they play as if they had lost their confidence, and lost second place. The Bostons passed the Highlanders by beating the Browns. The Clevelands, who are giving the Athletics more trouble than any other visitors to Philadelphia lately, broke even with the leaders. The Washingtons and Chicagos also broke even on a double header. The results:

Detroit, 8; New York, 4.

Boston, 4; St. Louis, 2.

Cleveland, 4; Philadelphia, 2. First game.

Philadelphia, 4; Cleveland, 0. Second game.

Chicago, 4; Washington, 2. First game.

Washington, 5; Chicago, 1. Second game.

DETROIT, 8; NEW YORK (A. L.), 4.

The New Yorks hung on for six innings in yesterday's game with the Detroits in spite of some error making and headless playing, but they reached the end of their tether at that stage and the champions outfinished and beat them. The Detroits made much the better fight. They fought hard all through, while the Highlanders didn't. The stiffening melted out of the hill tribe's spines and they looked shaky and subdued in comparison with their adversaries.

As a pitcher Vaughn was a limp performer. The Tigers hit him often and plucked a string of runs one at a time by coming along with a solid smash when somebody was on base. Vaughn helped them with three wild pitches, all made when he was trying to pitch out. Consequently base runners thrived. In spite of the home team's surprising errors Vaughn was saved from a harder groveling by several fast plays on ground balls, Austin and Gardner making these. The home team's game, however, was on the whole disparited, disconnected and pointless.

Willett seemed to feel the heat a good deal, but he held out with good courage and didn't lose his grip. Ty Cobb's speed was in evidence in fielding and hitting. On an infield grounder which would have been an out for a less superhuman ballplayer he got a hit, the ball being ably handled by Gardner too, and on what the law defines as a single he got two bagger. But he was caught napping on a strange base by Vaughn, and though that didn't affect his playing it took the swagger out of him for the afternoon.

A run was presented to the Detroits in the first inning through neglectful fielding. McIntyre singled and O'Leary hit over Knight's head. Gardner scooped the ball and saw naught but a yawning vacancy when he pounced for somebody at first to throw to. Vaughn failed to cover. Cobb's sacrifice and Crawford's out brought McIntyre in. The New Yorks garnered one run in the first and frittered away another. Daniels made an infield hit. Wolter was passed and Knight sacrificed. Crisp pole'd a clean hit to centre. Daniels scored, but Wolter slowed up on the line in a moment of aberration. Then he rashly tried to score and was thrown out at the plate via Cobb and Simmons.

Gardner's error gave Detroit a run in the second. Bush doubled, Jones sacrificed, Stanage struck out and Gardner booted Willett's grounder. The New Yorks never could get going. Vaughn drew four balls starting the third inning. Dineen, whose umpiring was off, called Daniels out on strikes, the third strike being high and in. Wolter chipped in with a single and Knight poked weakly to Willett for a double play.

Bush sent a medium fast liner past Vaughn in the fourth. Large Jim made a bluff at sticking up his glove for the drive which didn't convince anybody that he was anxious to get hold of it. Bush stole second and rode home on a bagger to Stanage on the left field fence. Another run in the fifth. O'Leary tripled and was held captive at third while Roach threw out Cobb. Knight made a superb stop of Crawford's difficult wallop and cut down O'Leary at the plate. Austin juggled Simmons's smile and the two runners moved up on a wild pitch. Bush hit sharply over Austin, who sed it down on the fast stepping Knight and fired the ball quick as a flash and nipped Bush at first.

Encouraged by this good stand the New Yorks went in and tied the score. Four balls to Criger spurred Vaughn on to lashing a single to right. Daniels cheated the rally with a tapper. Wolter on which Criger was forced at third. Wolter pinched safely and on Willett's wild throw of the same to Jones Vaughn ran in. Daniels went to third on the play and rambled home on Knight's hoist to Cobb.

In the sixth the Detroits made one run and the Highlanders again tied the score. A tip by Stanage, a walk to Willett and a hit by Mullin brought a break for the Detroits. Austin's spryness in manipulating a ground hit for a double play came at a timely moment. Gardner doubled in New York's half and tallied on Criger's hit to centre. Cobb would have thrown out Gardner at the plate if Willett hadn't butted in and interpreted the throw. New York had no monopoly on bad judgment.

Wolter's lumbering fielding allowed Simmons to make a three bagger in the seventh and bat home Crawford, who had singled. That was the winning run right there, but the Detroits assimilated three more in the ninth, singles by O'Leary and Bush, doubles by Cobb and Jones, a missed throw by Roach and a wild pit h helping materially. In fact if Roach had held Criger's throw on O'Leary's steal Detroit wouldn't have scored. Roach made such a complete job of the muff that O'Leary went to third. That brought the infield in, and Cobb's two bagger would have been pie for Roach had the latter been playing back. The ball passed him on the bound when he was on the grass.

PHILADELPHIA (N. L.), 3; PITTSBURG, 2.

Pittsburg, July 25.—In the third inning of to-day's game with Pittsburg, on base Magee popped out an easy fly back of third base which either Byrne, Clarke or Wagner could have got. Each started after it, but each stopped and all looked to drop safe. This paved the way for Philadelphia's only three run, which was enough to win the game. The score:

AMONG THE AUTOMOBILISTS

PREMIER ENTRANTS FIGHT FOR GLIDDEN TROPHY.

H. O. Smith Asks Courts for Injunction Restraining Contest Board of American Automobile Association From Delivering Prize to Chalmers Company.

H. O. Smith, who entered the six cylinder 60 horse-power Premier touring car which Ray F. McNamara drove in the Glidden tour this year and which was declared the winner of the Glidden trophy by Referee A. H. Whiting after the finish of the tour at Chicago, has refused to accept the disqualification of his car by the contest board of the American Automobile Association. The Chalmers Motor Company protested against awarding the Glidden trophy to Mr. Smith, declaring that his Premier car was not a stock car according to the A. A. A. contest rules for 1910, and the A. A. A. contest board at a meeting held last week sustained the protest and announced that the Glidden trophy had been awarded to the Chalmers Motor Company's entry No. 5.

Mr. Smith is president of the Premier Motor Manufacturing Company of Indianapolis, which produced the six cylinder car entered by Mr. Smith and the four cylinder 40 horse-power Premier touring car which was entered in the Glidden tour by George A. Weidely, which car was also disqualified by the A. A. A. contest board last week when Mr. Smith's car was disqualified and the Glidden trophy awarded to the Chalmers Motor Company's entry No. 5.

Mr. Smith has entered cars in the Glidden tour for several years past and has taken an active part in drafting the rules for the government of the various kinds of automobile competitions that are conducted under the auspices and sanctions of the American Automobile Association. He helped to organize the Manufacturers Contest Association when it was formed at Chicago more than a year ago and at the present time is vice-president of that organization, which confers with the contest board of the American Automobile Association in the drafting of rules for the government of motor car competitions.

The Glidden trophy, over which the controversy has arisen, was donated to the American Automobile Association by Charles J. Glidden, the globe girdling motorist of Boston. This year's tour was from Cincinnati to Chicago by way of Texas and it finished at Chicago on June 30. The tour was the seventh annual national reliability touring contest of the American Automobile Association and the sixth contest for the Glidden trophy. The trophy is believed to be in the custody of the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Company of Buffalo at the present time, as a Pierce-Arrow car won in the 1909 tour from Detroit to Kansas City.

Mr. Smith was present at the meeting of the contest board in this city last week when the appeal of the Chalmers Motor Company was considered and was accompanied by his attorney, Sidney S. Gorham of Chicago, who was secretary of the American Automobile Association a few years ago at the time the late John Farson of Chicago was president of the A. A. A. The decision against Mr. Smith's car was announced by the A. A. A. contest board last Friday and Mr. Smith upon being informed of the board's action engaged George C. Lay of this city as associate counsel with Mr. Gorham and instructed them to begin legal proceedings to prevent the contest board from delivering the Glidden trophy to the Chalmers Motor Company.

Mr. Smith's attorneys issued the following statement on the matter yesterday:

"Upon the filing of the complaint of Harold O. Smith and on application of Sidney S. Gorham of Chicago and George C. Law, his attorneys, Justice William J. Kelly of the Supreme Court of the State of New York on Saturday, July 23, granted a preliminary order of injunction enjoining and restraining the American Automobile Association and the members of its contest board from delivering and the Chalmers Motor Company and George W. Dunham from receiving the Glidden trophy upon the grounds that the members of the contest board, who reversed the decision of the referee awarding the trophy to H. O. Smith and awarded it to the Chalmers Motor Company, had not jurisdiction, wrongfully and illegally and in violation of the rules governing the contest for the trophy, had shown partiality in favor of the Chalmers company and had violated the terms of the trust imposed upon the association by the terms of the deed of gift of the trophy from Charles J. Glidden, the donor.

"In commenting upon the situation Mr. Smith said:

"I have decided to test in the courts the validity of the action of the contest board of the American Automobile Association in reversing the decision of Referee Whiting in awarding the Glidden trophy to me as the entrant of the Premier car No. 1 after having passed upon the protest filed with him.

"One important purpose of contests of this character is to give the public the opportunity to judge intelligently as to the relative merits of the various cars entered by comparison of their official records, and in fairness to the public, as well as to the competitors, awards should be made to the entrant whose car makes the best showing under the rules, impartially enforced and fairly construed.

"In compliance with the rules governing the 1910 Glidden tour and before the start of the contest detailed descriptions of the two Premier cars entered in that event, in which the oil pump and tank afterward complained of and made the basis of the decision of the contest board was specifically mentioned, were filed with the technical committee of the contest board of the American Automobile Association. The Premier factory and the cars manufactured there were open to the inspection of the technical committee at all times and before the start of the contest at Cincinnati the technical committee inspected all the competing cars, including the two Premier cars, both of which were equipped with the oil pump and tank, precisely as set out in detail in the description previously filed, and the technical committee accepted both Premier cars with such equipment without protest or objection and started them in the contest.

"The purpose of the rule requiring a certificate of description to be filed with and a preliminary inspection of the competing cars to be made by the technical committee is twofold.

"First. To advise the entrants whether or not the cars presented for competition in a given event are open to any technical objection as to the eligibility or otherwise, and

"Second. To protect all entrants against the competition of a car which is not eligible.

"It has not been, nor will it be charged or intimated by any one that the entrants of the Premier cars were guilty of any misconduct, or that any deception or sharp practice was attempted by them or either of them. On the contrary, their good faith is acknowledged. If there are for any reason were not eligible it was the duty of the technical committee to have so advised the entrants and disqualified the cars before the start of the contest, as the purpose of the preliminary inspection, as stated by rule 404, is to determine if each car is a stock car 'as supplied regularly,' and further provides that a protest relating to classification, validity of entry or pertaining to the course shall be made before the start of the contest. The purpose of the last mentioned rule is obvious. It is intended to prevent a disappointed competitor, after his hope of winning the trophy has been shattered, from protesting the winning car upon the ground that it was not eligible to compete and should not have been permitted to start. If such a competitor wins the trophy, no protest of this character would be filed, and the non-enforcement of this rule gives him two chances, one of winning on the merits of his cars and the other of winning by a technicality. If, on the other hand, the Premier cars were entitled to start, and the technical committee decided that they were, no one can question my right to the trophy under a fair and reasonable construction of the rules. The score and entire official record of the Premier car No. 1, the accuracy of which has not been questioned, compared with the scores and official records of all other competing cars was the basis upon which the referee awarded the
