WARDLAW SISTERS' LETTER?

RECORDER EXPRESSES DOUBT AS TO ITS GENUINENESS.

An Appeal for a Small Sum of Money That Was Taken From Them and for Rings That Were Ocey Snead's—Miss Wardlaw Very Ill—Trial Again Postponed.

Because of the illness of Prosecutor Mott of Essex county, New Jersey, the trial of the three Wardlaw sisters accused of the murder of Ocey W. M. Snead in East Orange has been postponed until September 12. That is the date of the opening of the fall term of the court. The trial was to have begun on August 29. This is the third time the trial has been postponed.

Prosecutor Mott suffered a heat stroke last Friday and is now at his summer home in Nantucket. The postponement was agreed upon after a consultation of counsel and was approved by Chief Justice Gummere, who will try the case. It is said that there is a probability that Miss Virginia Wardlaw, the first of the three sisters to be arrested, may never be brought to trial. She is very ill, and according to the jail physician, she is likely to suffer a complete collapse.

EAST ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 5.—Before learning to-day that the Snead trial had been again postponed Chief of Police Bell of this city received a letter purporting to come from the three sisters in the county jail. It asks for the return of money and valuables taken from Virginia O. Wardlaw by Chief Bell when she was first arrested.

At the jail Bell was informed that the making of such a letter was unheard of. The chief has in his possession both the money and the rings, but he is holding them for instructions from the Prosecutor. He was once asked for them by Franklin W. Fort, when Fort was counsel for the aunt of the dead woman, and it was agreed between them that an order should be procured from Prosecutor Mott. That was never produced, however, and Bell holds the property still.

The letter was as follows:

The daughters of the Rev. John B. Wardlaw request Chief Bell to ascertain where is the $23 cash which Miss Wardlaw had in possession when Miss W. was first interviewed by Chief Bell, and which cash Chief subsequently had in possession. Unless he has already done so will he kindly turn same over to the Prosecutor or to such proper official as could be interviewed by counsel?

These ladies understood one of the leading counsel to say that on his applying to Judge Mott for the said $23 that Judge Mott had replied that counsel could have the $23 but Judge Mott thought that Mr. Henry O'Neill had it.

Miss Wardlaw needs the money to buy fresh milk, eggs, &c., to keep up her physical strength for the nearly approaching court proceedings. The ladies will be very grateful if Chief Bell will make every effort within the rules of propriety to see that the said $23 is turned over through the Prosecutor to some one of the family counsel.

Kindly answer through the proper channels so that Miss Wardlaw may have information as to where the $23 is and how soon she can have it through the proper channels. It is probable that Chief Bell would not have taken the $23 if Miss Wardlaw had not voluntarily stated to Chief Bell that she had $23.

Also please ascertain where are the two rings which were on the finger of Miss Wardlaw's deceased niece and namesake. One of the rings had been worn by Miss Wardlaw in her own girlhood, which have very tender associations.

DAUGHTERS OF THE REV. JOHN B. WARDLAW.
New and Wesley streets, Newark, N. J.

Recorder Nott said he had been addressed in previous communications as "Judge Mott" and had been urged by anonymous writers to prosecute the case with all the vigor at his command. He considers the letter in question one of that kind.

"Mr. Henry O'Neill" is William H. O'Neill, the police sergeant who did most of the detective work in connection with the case.

DOUBT BOY'S FAGIN STORY.

Max, 11-Year-Old Pickpocket Suspect, Told One That Amazed the Court.

Max Brief, a small boy who said he was 11 years old and that he lived at 99 Suffolk street, told a tale of a modern Fagin yesterday in the Children's Court which amazed Justice Wyatt. He was remanded to the Gerry society until Wednesday in order that their agents might investigate his story.

Detective Blake of the Central Office watched Max slide his hand into the pockets of six men on Allen street Thursday night, when the pushcart market was thronged. The sixth man felt the hand and collared the boy. Blake arrested Max, but as he had no booty did not bring the man to court. Max is an undersized little chap, and when he faced Justice Wyatt on the charge of picking pockets he told the story of Dave and his school.

Dave, he said, is a boy about 17 years old with two or three rooms on Hester street. Max, who came from Russia a little more than three years ago, met Dave on the street. Dave took him to his rooms on Hester street, he said, where there were several other small boys. Dave instructed them in the art of picking pockets, acting the part of victim himself. When they became adept the boys were promoted to night practice in Seward Park. When the finishing touches of their education had been put on Dave sent them out to work in earnest. The proceeds of their forays were returned to Dave. If Dave did not consider them sufficient he accused the unlucky boy of "holding out" on him and administered a beating.

Justice Wyatt suggested that agents be sent to the house on Hester street. "That's no use," said Max. "Dave's moved. I haven't seen him for a month."

Soon after Max had been taken to the rooms of the Gerry society for his five days sojourn agents were sent out to investigate his story. They learned nothing at the Hester street house, and the boy's parents said that they doubted its truth. Neither of his parents was in court.

FREIGHT WRECK KILLS THREE.

Trainmen on Erie and Jersey Meet Death When Locomotive Strikes Rock.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Three men were killed this morning in one of the worst wrecks the Erie and Jersey Railroad has had. The wreck was in a deep cut a mile and a half west of Hoxsie, N. Y. A fast freight train consisting of seventeen cars of perishable fruit was running about fifty miles an hour when it struck a mass of rock that had slid down the side of the cut.

The locomotive and ten cars were thrown to the opposite side of the cut and demolished against the rocks. Engineer James J. Franey, Fireman Howard Taylor of Port Jervis, and Brakeman George Carpenter of Jersey City were thrown from the engine and died of their wounds in the wreckage of the cars.

The track was torn up for 300 feet and the road was blocked for hours. Heavy rains during the night caused the mass of rock to slide on the track. The cars were piled fifty feet high, completely filling the cut.

Assistant Naval Constructor Emory S. Land of the Brooklyn navy yard was operated on yesterday at Ingleside, N. J., for appendicitis.

THE PALMERS IN COURT.

Child Over Whom They Are Quarrelling Romps in the Room.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 5.—The three-year-old daughter of Claude A. Palmer of Stroudsburg, Pa., was the central figure in Vice-Chancellor Walker's court room to-day. While the father and mother ventilated the family differences which had resulted in their separation the child amused herself by romping about the court room, climbing up on the platform occupied by the Vice-Chancellor and having a good time generally.

When the Palmers separated last fall Mrs. Palmer took her daughter to her parents' home in Weehawken. The father saying that he had no opportunity to see his child, brought habeas corpus proceedings. He asked not only for the right to visit her, but to take her at times to his own home in Pennsylvania.

After hearing the testimony the Vice-Chancellor chided Palmer for the lack of interest he had manifested in his family and refused to let him take the child away from the mother's custody. He said the father might have leave to visit his daughter and to be alone with her upon such occasions, adding that if counsel could not agree upon the terms of such an order the Court would prepare one.

Representative Palmer of Pennsylvania, a cousin of the father, attended the hearing.

WIFE'S QUEER STORY.

Asks to Be Married to Another Because Husband's Family Disown Her.

YONKERS, Aug. 5.—Two months ago a well dressed woman left a fifteen-months-old baby at St. John's Hospital, this city, to be cared for. She paid for the infant's maintenance and for some time called regularly to see it. About three weeks ago she ceased visiting the child, and the hospital authorities notified the police.

After an extended inquiry a woman who said she was Mrs. Fannie Finnerty was arrested. She admitted that she was the mother of the child and that she had a husband and two other children living in Stamford, Conn. She said, however, that her marriage was a civil contract only, and that because it had not been performed by a priest her husband's relatives did not recognize it as a binding marriage. Mrs. Finnerty said she was a Protestant and her husband is a Catholic.

Upon further questioning Mrs. Finnerty confessed that she was in love with a young man of this city. She said he was ready to marry her and she begged Judge Ellis to perform the ceremony. Even after the Judge had explained that such a marriage would be a bigamous contract the woman continued to beg the Judge to marry them.

YOUNG BRIDE WAS BOLD.

Mrs. Kestenholz, Married Two Weeks, Scents Burglars and Acts Promptly.

Mrs. Jeanette Kestenholz, a bride of two weeks, lives at 1326 Southern Boulevard, The Bronx, in a neighborhood where there have been a lot of robberies lately. Mrs. Kestenholz herself has lost a watch and ring worth $100, so yesterday afternoon when as she came downstairs to visit her sister, Miss Frieda Grossman, and saw two suspicious looking men, one of whom had entered the vestibule, she acted.

Mrs. Kestenholz followed one man out to the street and when she grabbed his arm she says he hit her. Her sister came out and grabbed another masculine arm and says it hit her too. A policeman decided to arrest the men, who said they were Benjamin F. Ball, solicitor, of 221 West Twenty-second street and Sylvester Carroll, driver, of 3221 Fourth avenue, Brooklyn. One of them declared in the police station he had recognized a woman in the subway and had followed her. She had entered the fateful apartment house and he was just, said he, about to leave the vestibule in dejection when Mrs. Kestenholz addressed herself to him.

TOO WARLIKE ON THE HORNET.

Chief Engineer and Other Members of Crew Scared by Her Cargo.

NEWPORT, Aug. 5.—Concluding that things aboard looked too warlike for those who cared not to indulge in war with alien people Chief Engineer H. L. Wheatley and several others who left Norfolk for New Orleans on the former auxiliary cruiser Hornet have returned here.

The engineer and his companions decided that they wanted to go no further when there was loaded on the yacht nine cases of rifles, 9,000 rounds of ammunition, four six pounders in cases, gasolene and foodstuffs, all destined for Bluefields and the use of the Nicaraguan insurgents.

Although strong inducements were offered them to continue on the voyage Wheatly and his companions refused. Capt. Moon, who also shipped here, stuck by the vessel.

PIRACY CASE IN COURT.

Launch Crew Accused of Getting Away With Scow's Lines.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 5.—An action in piracy, the first of its kind recorded in many years in this district, was begun in the United States District Court today. The libellants were S. D. Coville and A. Smiz of Jersey City, owners of the scow Dyer.

The action was brought against the gasolene launch Dolly M., whose captain and crew are charged with having taken 2,000 feet of rope, including hausers and bow lines, from the scow while she was moored in the Erie Basin. The crew of the Dolly M was subsequently chased by a policeman and captured. Meanwhile the scow, set adrift, had damaged herself and other vessels, for all of which damages are sought.

HANS WAGNER'S DOG SHOT.

Custodian of Ballplayer's German Auto Had Gone Mad.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 5.—Prince Hans Wagner's famous bulldog custodian of the famous German's automobile is dead, having been killed by a Carnegie policeman last night after he had gone mad. Shortly after Wagner left for the East with the Pittsburg ball team the dog, which had not been well, got worse and on Thursday morning on Mary street he ran about snapping at children. While no child was bitten several were badly hurt escaping from the dog. Wagner had refused $500 for his dog.

Beached With Cargo of Bluefish.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Aug. 5.—The fishing schooner Robert C. Harris, from Phœnix Island, Md., for New York with a cargo of 3,500 bluefish, was beached this afternoon a few hundred feet north of Life Saving Station 4 at Monmouth Beach. She had struck a blind stake and stove an eight inch hole in her bottom.

38 Bags of Dried Flies From Mexico.

An unusual cargo of thirty-eight large bags of dried flies, said to resemble mosquitoes, arrived yesterday by the Ward liner Merida from Vera Cruz. They will be transshipped by a Hamburg-American liner to J. Schrowooder & Bros. of Hamburg.

Amphitrite Held by Shoal Water.

MEMPHIS, Aug. 5.—The Amphitrite, one of Uncle Sam's monitors, is anchored near Helena, Ark., on account of shoals which prevent her egress.

The Amphitrite was on her way to St. Louis for naval recruiting service.

Here's hoping you wont remember too late some clothing, furnishings, hats or shoes you need over Sunday.

GRESSER'S TURN WITH HUGHES

DELEGATION APPEARS FOR HIM IN ALBANY.

Affidavits to Show Queens Borough President Did Not Deal Corruptly With Employees and With Contracting Firms—Some Speakers in His Behalf.

ALBANY, Aug. 5.—Borough President Lawrence Gresser's friends in Queens had their inning with Gov. Hughes to-day. The Borough President's son, Lawrence T. Gresser, came to Albany bearing affidavits in support of the answer put in for the Borough President on Tuesday last, in which Mr. Gresser had made a general denial of the charges filed against him by the taxpayers' committee on which his removal by Gov. Hughes was requested.

With young Mr. Gresser came a delegation which made a strong presentation of oral arguments to the Governor in behalf of the Borough President. This delegation was headed by Attorney John W. Weed of Flushing, and included John A. Dikes of Jamaica, the Rev. Dr. E. M. McGuffy, rector of the Protestant Episcopal church at Elmhurst; E. J. Bullard, president of the Richmond Hill Board of Trade; H. H. Williams, Jr., of Steinway, Lawrence Embree of Flushing, George J. Ryan, president of the Long Island City Business Men's Association, and Attorney James J. Conway of Long Island City.

There were a dozen or more additional affidavits submitted to the Governor by young Mr. Gresser and made a part of the Borough President's answer to the charges filed against him. Cornelius Burke, former Superintendent of the Bureau of Sewers in Queens, denied that campaign assessments had been collected there.

Martin P. Cady, stationary engineer in the same bureau, swears that Gresser told him to pay no money for securing work. Joseph Dillhoff, assistant foreman in the Sewers Bureau, swore that he was not forced to make any campaign contribution, as did Ferdinand Kruger, clerk in the same bureau. Affidavits by Louis Steneckicht, James R. Hiland, Michael Tuite and William Salmon, foremen in the Sewers Bureau, carry like denials of any compulsory campaign contributions.

Carl Burger, Superintendent of Buildings, swears that the charge is false that he was in collusion to secure illegal fees from builders. He also denied that buildings were allowed to be erected contrary to the building laws.

John N. Booth, secretary of the borough of Queens, denies that any sewers were permitted to be laid without inspection. Frederick B. George, chief clerk of the Bureau of Sewers, swears that no consideration was ever received for a permit to build a sewer in Globe avenue, Jamaica.

A letter is attached to the affidavits from James E. Hicks and Arthur A. Johnson of the Hicks-Johnson Construction Company of Long Island City in which the signers "strongly resent" charges involving the name of the Hicks-Johnson Construction Company in the matter of the contract for resurfacing Hoffman Boulevard. It was stated in the charges that Mr. Hicks was the political leader of Long Island City. "This is a falsehood and well known to have been such by the parties making such statement," says the letter. Messrs. Hicks and Johnson further deny that the work on the boulevard was not properly done.

Gov. Hughes promised to give the affidavits careful consideration.

Speeches were made by Attorney John W. Weed, the Rev. Dr. McGuffy and others, all of which were in praise of the Borough President, who was declared to be simply an object of political persecution by people of no particular standing in Queens borough. In most instances the charges, they said, had been formulated by self-constituted and unknown organizations. The committee of 100 which came to Albany yesterday to denounce Gresser and District Attorney De Witt was declared to be practically unknown in Queens.

President Gresser yesterday announced that he had abolished the office of Deputy Commissioner of Public Works, held by Harry Suffolk.

L. C. L. Smith, who in April last was removed as engineer in charge of the Queens water supply by Deputy Water Commissioner Edward Bennis, got yesterday an order from Justice Putnam directing Water Commissioner Thompson to show cause why Smith should not be reinstated.

DEMAROND INQUEST.

Wife of Broker Seydel, Who Killed Italian, Speaks of Threats.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Coroner Hasbrouck continued the inquest at the court house in this city this afternoon on the death of Clement Demarond, killed by L. Victor Seydel, a New York broker, at West Park on July 24. Mrs. Seydel testified that her husband came running to their bungalow that morning saying that Demarond was chasing him. She heard Demarond later say "Damn you," and says that her husband got a big cavalry revolver used by him in the Spanish American war, loaded it and fired at Demarond. She said Demarond had a stone in his hand.

New R. C. Church in Yonkers.

YONKERS, Aug. 5.—The Rev. Richard Ormand Hughes, former assistant rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral and vice-president of Cathedral College, New York city, this afternoon laid the cornerstone of St. Dennis' church, of which he is to be pastor. The St. Dennis Church is the sixth Catholic church to be put up in the city within the last two years and is the city's seventeenth Catholic church. The new church starts with a congregation of 1,000.

JACK JOHNSON BUGABOO.

New Way to Sell Real Estate in Various Parts of the Town.

Baron Wilkins, who looks after the local interests of Jack Johnson, world's heavyweight champion, denied yesterday a report published in one of the morning papers that Johnson was negotiating through Wilkins for the purchase of a costly residence on Brooklyn Heights. The report had it that Johnson had practically closed a deal with Michael L. McLaughlin for the Behr mansion, at Pierrepont and Henry streets, Brooklyn. All that was needed, it was said, was the signature of Jack Johnson to the contract of sale. Baron Wilkins denied that there had been any contract or indeed any negotiations at all.

Outside of a temporary feeling of uneasiness in the minds of the people who live in the immediate neighborhood of the Behr mansion the report did not attract much attention. Similar reports created in other parts of the city, it was pointed out, have frequently resulted in the sale of the property involved to owners of adjacent realty at a price higher than could be obtained under ordinary circumstances.
